1992 Pennsylvania Distinction Dairies

KINGSTON (Luzerne Co.) — The Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program is proud to announce the Pennsylvania Winners of the 1992 Dairy of Distinction Award. Fifty-five farms in Pennsylvania have been selected as new award recipients.

The Dairy of Distinction program has been operating in Pennsylvania for six years. Including this year's winners, a total of 468 Pennsylvania dairy farms have been recognized through this program.

Farms that apply are judged on the roadside appearance of buildings, grounds, and surroundings. The winning farms receive an attractive 18x24-inch sign that is placed at the roadside. Winning entries are judged annually to insure that they continue to meet the standards of excellence set by the program.

For further information on the Dairy of Distinction Program, contact the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. at (717) 283-2204.

Environmental Dairyman, Brown Swiss Fancier

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.

WAKEFIELD (Lancaster Co.) — When the warning siren for Peach Bottom Atomic Power Station rips through the calm summer haze in southern Lancaster County, the registered Brown Swiss and grade Holstein cows at Donald Trimble's farm don't flinch.

They're used to it.

Not that the wailing noise isn't irritating, but it's better than being irradiated, according to Trimble.

"You get used to it. What are you going to do?" the lean, but muscular dairyman said about the power plant.

Other than the periodic practice warning from the nuclear power plant, which is just out of sight behind a western ridge from the Trimble farm, Trimble's neighborhood is quiet.

The territorial call of a male Bobwhite Quail or the distant noise of an automobile occassionally breaks the low murmur of a dairy farm.

The 145-acre dairy farm sits on the edge of a plateau which quickly drops down in winding, twisted valleys to the Susquehanna River.

Donald and Carol Trimble have lived on "Donsdell Farm" for 23 years, having moved there with literally nothing — not a cow, not a tractor — save a desire to achieve a quiet, self-reliant life with simple pleasures.

Not without hardship, the farm is paid for, Trimble said. He has 50 Brown Swiss and 30 grade Holsteins which are milked on a 3:30

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Pennsylvania FFA Foundation hosted the first annual state officer reunion here last week. The reunion coincided with the closing day of the Pennsylvania FFA summer convention.

More than 175 former state officers and spouses came together to renew old friendships and relive their FFA experiences as state officers. They came from as far away as Iowa and North Carolina, and represented each of the six decades the Pennsylvania FFA has been in existence.

Many of the officer alumni came in the night before to be guests of the cochairman, Dennis Grumbine, 1965 president, and Glenn Wenger, 1981 vice president, at a reception held in their hotel suite.

The next day at the luncheon, Wenger said, "I knew the reunion had been a success by the attendance and fellowship shared at the reception the night before. It gave all of us a chance to relax and catch up on many years of 'post FFA state officer' stories."

On the morning of June 18, the former state officers were invited to start out the day as VIP guests of the FFA association at closing ceremonies for their convention. Many watched, remembering their beginning and closing days as state officers — the 1991-1992 team

Md. Complies With Fed Pseudorabies Program

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.

BALTIMORE, Md. — Pat Treadwell is a small business owner. He raises feeder pigs for auction, usually taking his business to Maryland's Westminster Auction on Tuesday.

This past Tuesday was no different.

However, when he got to the auction, the receiving man told Treadwell that he had some bad news: the state was going to start requiring blood tests for pseudorabies on swine brought to market starting July 6.

Treadwell said he couldn't believe it. He said it seemed to be a move to squeeze out the little guy.

Perhaps most aggravating was the way Treadwell, and others, found out about the program.

There was virtually no notice; no time to adjust business, analyze and plan — and no time to protest.

Just as any other agricultural commodity, the price for feeder pigs varies. And especially for those who produce small numbers of feeder pigs, it is a type of busi-

Northeast Chicken Parts

Wednesday, June 24, 1992

Trucklot buying interest was irregular and ranged light to fair.

Boneless skinless breasts were adequate for a light retail demand while demand for portion controlled product was fair. Some firms asked higher prices for late week deliveries. Line run breasts were in close balance to tight but buyers were cautious and some resistance to current asking prices was noted. Leg quarters were irregularly distributed and ranged tight to fully adequate. Buying interest improved for late week needs but the undertone was unsettled. Wings were readily available and pushed to clear.

Delmarva Broiler/Fryer Market

Thursday, June 25, 1992

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds and parts improved and was moderate to good. Supplies of whole varied, but were at least adequate on over 3 pound sizes. Lighter weights were no more than adequate. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged to higher in a range of 50 to 60 cents. Weights were desirable to heavy. Slaughter schedules were heavy and some operations were planned on Saturday. The market tone was fully steady to higher on whole birds, and strongest on supplies of white. Trade sentiment was firm to higher on breast items, steady to weak on wings and mixed on the balance.

NY Philadelphia Frozen Eggs

JUNE 23, 1992

EASTERN REGION FROZEN EGGS, JUNE 23, 1992. FEDERAL-STATE Prices were higher. Trade sentiment was cautious with buyers purchasing for immediate needs, and sellers negotiating higher prices as costs increased. Demand was fair. Supplies were generally adequate to barely adequate. Inventories diminished where shell and liquid egg costs narrowed profit margins and plants resisted replacing floor stocks.

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

JUNE 22-28, 1992

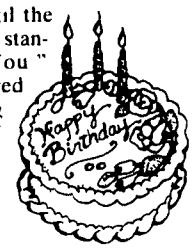
HAPPY BIRTHDAY, MILDRED!

June 27th is the birthday of Mildred J Hill, a schoolteacher born in Kentucky in 1859 Almost no one knows of Ms. Hill, but everybody knows the melody she composed, first published in 1893 in Song Stories for the Sunday School The lyrics were written by Patty Smith Hill, the composer's younger sister, and the song, entitled "Good Morning to All," was intended to be sung in school classrooms The song's popularity did not blossom until the lyrics were amended in 1924 to include a stanza beginning "Happy Birthday to You " "Happy Birthday to You" is now believed to be the world's most often-sung song celebrating a birthday every minute of the day



A good song is none the worse for being sung twice.

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ Planning a long car trip with the kids? Take along a jump rope so they can work off excess energy when you stop for gas or food.

EARTHWISE

Trees need carbon dioxide (CO_2) and produce oxygen, people need oxygen and produce CO_2 — we were meant to coexist in balance But between the 1950s and 1980, the Earth's forested area was reduced by 25% Trees shading your home can lower the temperature by 10° and reduce energy demand by 10-50% To find out how to plant your tree, or for more information on global deforestation, contact the American Forestry Association's Global ReLeaf Program, P.O Box 2000, Washington, D C 20013

OPINION

The Cattle Sale

Last night I went to my first livestock sale at the Aberdeen Sales Company in Churchville, MD. I had attended 4-H club livestock sales at the county and state fairs. But this was different because the entire dairy herd from our family farm was sold. It was a nostalgic time for everyone, especially for my 82-year-old Dad who had always loved working with the cows.

As the appointed hour of the sale arrived, farmers and other spectators found seats on the raised platform in the sales building. Each cow was weighed and led into the show arena while the auctioneer described the special assets of the animal, from the size of its udder to the number of previous freshenings. Some of the cows seemed to recognize their owners as they nudged their heads through the railing toward the men.

The bidding began, and with a nod of the head, the first bidder bought a two-year-old milker for $950.00. When the bidding seemed low, the owner of the livestock sale would expound on the outstanding qualities of the animal, reminding the audience that someone wasn't looking closely at the cow. He pointed out that this herd came from a farm where the brothers had milked cows for seventy years.

Seventy years — a lifetime of love and labor — all sold within two hours. Dad and his brothers had milked cows by hand for eighteen years before milking machines were installed. Many times Dad recalled sitting by a cow and falling asleep while he milked her.

Seventy years of the sweetness and bitterness of dairy farming.....

— rejoicing in the birth of a heifer calf, or having seven bull calves born in a row

— walking up and down hills through sticky wild rose bushes to find a missing cow and her new-born calf, and coaxing the cow back to the barn

— nursing sick cows through milk fever, especially before the use of antibiotics

— providing room and board for the milk tester who stayed overnight once a month before the days of expressways

— rounding up stray cows from suburban neighbors' yards when they jumped through a broken fence

— calling the artificial inseminator at all hours of the day

— celebrating a period of high milk prices, or spending all the profits on feed or veterinarian bills

— dumping a tank of milk that had a hint of springtime garlic

— starting the emergency generator when the electrical current went off in a storm

— leading a group of city school children through the barn to look at the cows

The barn is empty now, except for one lonely bull calf gazing out from its pen. The smell of fresh hay lingers around the deserted stanchions. Barn cats jump down from the rafters in search of spilled milk. A few swallows fly in and out the doors. The milk tank is hosed down and closed — a metal vessel devoid of nature's most perfect food.

Somewhere on an Amish farm in Pennsylvania, many of the cows from this herd are adjusting to new surroundings and new owners. But for their previous owners, the cattle sale closes the door on yet another dairy farm in Baltimore County. —— Helen Twining Kadlec, Glen Arm, Maryland.

The Pennsylvania Board of Finance will be mailing out claim forms this month for state liquid fuels tax refunds.

Fuels purchased for agricultural use by farmers are eligible for the tax refunds. Currently this is 12 cents per gallon.

This is not a government assistance program, but a refund of money you have already paid — a tax refund. If you have filed before, you are on the mailing list and should receive a claim form.

Farmers not receiving a claim form should write to Board of Finance and Revenue, Room 409, Finance Building, Harrisburg, PA 17120. Deadline for filing is September 30.

To Watch Debt

Roland Freund, area farm management agent, writes, "We repeatedly see the problems created by premature investments and too much debt."

Many farmers have been encouraged to look at how much debt the farm may service or support rather than how much income the investment will generate.

Freund states our present economic climate should induce us to look at how much debt we are retiring. Equity growth (particularly in periods of low inflation) is dependant upon repayment of principal. In order to survive, farm enterprises need to be profitable enough to finance the periodic update of facilities and equipment.

In today's economic environment, we need to develop a "show me" attitude when evaluating farm investments and expansion plans. When making these decisions, we need to use realistic assumptions and conservative budgets rather than the best case or ideal situation.

To Keep Cows Cool

Conception rates may drop drastically during periods of hot weather. To help improve conception rates, keep cows as cool as possible and avoid unnecessary excitement.

Shade, good ventilation, and easy access to lots of cool water will help keep cows cool. Good heat detection and proper timing of insemination is also important in maintaining high conception rates.

Observe cows twice daily, once in the evening and once in early morning hours when it is cooler and cows are more active. Marking cows observed in heat rumps with crayons will help you later spot these cows.

Normally when you see a cow in heat, you try to have her inseminated a half day later. Also, by keeping a record of each cow's heat periods, you will be able to develop and use heat expectancy lists.

Feather Prof's Footnote: "If you love your work, you are likely to be its master; if you hate it, it is your master."

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

A CORPSE IN ARMOR
JUNE 28, 1992

Background Scripture: Nahum.
Devotional Reading: Psalms 47:1-9.

I was 15 years old when World War II ended. From that day until last year we have lived under the threat of Communism. Now, children no longer go to bed fearful that someone will wake them to say, "The Russians are coming, the Russians are coming." It is strange to me that, having waited so long for this day, people seem so blase about it. To be sure, there has been a little celebration, but hardly when we might have expected after living with this bogeyman for 45 years.

Maybe, in light of the subtlety with which the world seems to have reacted to the break-up of the Soviet block, we might have a hard time understanding the enthusiasm of the prophet Nahum. What he is celebrating is the immanent destruction of the Assyrian Empire. Nineveh has not fallen yet, but he is so certain of its fall that he speaks as if it had already taken place: "The chariots rage in the streets, they rush to and fro through the squares"(2:4).

His relief at this prospect is easy to understand for the eastern world had suffered under the violent yoke of Assyria for two and a half centuries. Damascus had fallen to the Assyrians in 732 B.C., Samaria in 722, Mussair in 714, Babylon in 689, Sidon in 677, Memphis in 671, Thebes in 663, and Susa around 639. Only Tyre and Jerusalem remained free of Assyrian control in the year 612, probably the year of Nahum's prophecy.

GREAT IS THE FALL

Nahum's prophecy scorns the weakness of militarism. When we are suffering under it, nothing seems more powerful than military might. But, as Nahum, tells us, eventually military power fails—every time! "The officers are summoned, they stumble as they go..."(2:5). Eventually, all military might stumbles and falls, and, when it does, great is the fall of it.

A few weeks ago when we were in Berlin, I was shocked to find that the once all-powerful Soviet military presence there had become an object of pity. In the shadow of the Brandenburg Gate Russian soldiers in civilian clothes lined the sidewalk so that they could sell Soviet uniforms, insignia and memorabilia to the souvenir hunters. I talked to a young Russian couple and found they come there every day because they cannot make ends meet in the new united Berlin, where prices have soared. Their government cannot bring them back to Russia for the immediate future because they have nothing for them to do and nowhere to house them. A few years ago I could not even have approached these people. But things have changed. And that's what Nahum is saying, too: God is the sovereign of this world and eventually the predators of this world wil be put down and military power will be smashed.

REJOICE & TAKE HEED

It is important for us to realize that just because Assyria was being destroyed, it did not mean that Judah's future was assured. In fact, Judah, although it witnessed what happened to the military might of Assyria, did not learn the lesson and in less than 25 years it too would fall, the victim of its own corruption and dependency upon national might. So, while the people of Judah rejoiced in Nahum's scathing prophecy, they failed to profit from it—pun partly intended.

Could that not happen to us, too. Rejoicing in the decay of international communism and the crumbling of Soviet power, might we not some day fall for the same reason—trusting in arms rather than God, failing to understand that the judgement of God comes upon all nations, including us?

TRAILER UNIT

Model MS55T In Stock

MIST SPRAYER ADVANTAGES

1. ROTARY ATOMIZATION distributes an even size droplet spectrum that greatly improves penetration and coverage.
2. LOW FIRST COST compared with conventional sprayers with the same acreage capabilities.
3. COST LESS TO OPERATE: 50-90% savings on diluent. Water swaths at higher speeds with less tank fillings. Save a bundle on fuel.
4. SAVE ON COSTLY CHEMICAL. More complete coverage with 25-50% less chemical compared with conventional dilute solution sprayers.
5. LOW MAINTENANCE. Simple design with few moving parts means little upkeep. No down time due to repairs or plugged nozzles.
6. MORE EFFICIENT CONTROL as a result of fine particle efficiency through distribution of chemical.
7. COMPACT UNIT — use of smaller tractors and no booms to contend with.

Engineering, Dairy Finance Meeting For Agribusiness

YORK (York Co.) — Whether you are a banker, nutrition/feed representative, builder, veterinarian, or milk equipment dealer, you're often confronted with questions about other dairy management areas — such as dairy finances, cow comfort, and freestalls.

Poor cow comfort is often a secondary cause of many nutrition, health, and production problems on dairy farms.

Financial management is a critical issue on almost any dairy farm.

If you have employees or coworkers who deal with dairy farmers, they should consider attending Penn State Cooperative Extension's agri-business breakfast meeting from 7:30 a.m. to 9:30 a.m., Thursday, July 9 at the Rutters Family Restaurant on Mt. Zion Road, York.

The meeting is as follows: 7:30 a.m. Breakfast of juice, scrambled eggs, sausage, toast and beverage; 8:00 a.m. "Freestalls and Cow Comfort," presented by Dan McFarland, multicounty agricultural engineer for extension. A discussion of freestalls and how they affect animal comfort and productivity; and 8:45 a.m. "Penn State Financial Analysis Programs for the Dairy Farmer," presented by Roland Freund, area farm management extension agent. An overview of various financial programs available from Penn State extension agents, and how they can help the dairy producer analyze his/her financial and management alternatives.

By having a better understanding of these topics, agribusiness people can provide farmers with answers or refer them to someone who can help. To register for this meeting, contact Jennie Brown, Penn State Cooperative Extension, 112 Pleasant Acres Road, York, PA 17402,(717)757-9657 or (800)441-2025 (ext. 9408), no later than July 2, 1992. The registration fee of $8 per person covers a breakfast of juice, scrambled eggs, sausage, toast, beverage and handouts.

Young Jersey Dairymen Honored

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — The Glenn Kenny family, of Enon Valley, is to be one of six other dairy families nationally to be honored as recipients of the 1992 Young Jersey Dairyman Award when the American Jersey Cattle Club holds its awards breakfast June 27 in Lansing, Mich.

The awards breakfast is part of the AJCC/National All-Jersey (NAJ) annual meetings. The Young Jersey Dairyman Award is presented annually to AJCC members and/or members' families who, in the opinion of the board of directors, merit recognition.

The winners must be active members in AJCC and have been less than 36-years-old by Jan. 1, 1992. The seven selected from 28 nominees have excelled in dairy farming and Jersey cattle breeding; participated in AJCC and NAJ programs; and have shown leadership in Jersey and other dairy and agricultural organizations.

The only Pennsylvanian to be honored, Glenn Kenny, said he believes in the strength of the family, when it comes to getting things done on the farm.

In partnership with brother Don and father Bob on a 475-acre farm, Glenn helps milk 280 cows and keep 255 heifers. He said it takes everyone's help to get the work accomplished. Glenn is primarily responsible for feeding and breeding.

But also in the Glenn Kenny family is wife Lisa and two sons, Joshua and Nathan.

As president of Liberty Jersey Sires Inc., Glenn spends time studying young bulls that are candidates for proving through this group.

In addition to working with Liberty, he has been insturmental in marketing a number of bulls with the "Kenny" prefix to various artificial insemination organizations. Nine bulls from the farm are currently in A.I. use.

In 1991, the Kenny herd ranked fifth for protein, sixth for milk and fourth for fat, among national herds with 200 or more records.

Their 1991 DHIR lactation average, on a milk-equivalent basis, on 234 records was 16,300 pounds of milk, 786 pounds of fat, and 618 pounds of protein.

Because the farm is located within 75 miles of a dozen cheese plants, Glenn said he is very conscious of protein production when making sire selections.

There have been at least a dozen Hall of Fame lactation records set a the Kenny Farm. Once cow the Kennys are paritcularly proud of is Brass Piano Song, a national class leader.

In addition to being active with the farm and the A.I. business; Glenn said he also takes time to participate in several other organizations. He was president of the Diistrict 5 Jersey Breeders' Association in 1991. During 1990 and 1991, he was a member of the county dairy extension advisory committee. He has been a trustee for Mid-East UDIA dairy promotion since 1988 and an alternate committeeman for the local Farmers Home Administration since 1990.

Others to receive the award include Kirk and Julie Traver, of Williamson, Mich., with Singlpine Farms. Singlpine has been in the Traver family line since the mid-1800s.

Singlpine animals have been named winners of pedigree indwx and cheese yield awards at the All American Jersey Show four times. One of the bulls in is A.I. service. The 1991 herd average on 57 lactations was 16,346 pounds of milk, 769 pounds of fat, and 602 pounds of protein. They ranked first in Michigan for milk and milk component production by a Jersey herd.

Kirk has been involved with Michigan Milk Producers' Association (MMPA), through which he worked to help secure a higher premium on solids-not-fat. Previously, the premium was 10 cents per point and is now 20 cents per point. He is president of the local MMPA organization.

Kirk and his wife Julie were honored in 1990 by MMPA as its Outstanding Young Dairy Couple.

In addition to his other activities, Kirk is active in DHIA, having served as president of the local for three years and secretary for the district for two years; and he is a member of the Farm Bureau State Dairy Advisory Committee. He was also vice president of the Michigan Jersey Cattle Club for five years and served as state sale committee chairman.

Jole and Gail Black, of Saluda, S.C., also received the award. They operate Jo—Ren Farm as a team and have a 78-cow operation which showed an average lactation of 15,948 pounds of milk, 706 pounds of fat and 589 pounds of protein.

The couple is also heavily involved with the dairy industry in their state and locality.

Joel is vice president and a member of the sales and membership committees of the South Carolina Jersey Cattle Club, while Gail is involved in the S.C.JCC youth and arrangements committees. In 1991, the couple chaperoned the junior club's trip to the All American Jersey Show and Sale.

Jo-Ren is a regular stop for 4-H dairy judging teams in their state and North Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Joel also has judged several county fair dairy shows. The couple also show at the Clemson Spring Dairy Show, the North Carolina State Fair and several county fairs.

Joel also leads the Saluda 4-H Dairy Club and has been a coach and umpire for the local Little League baseball team.

From Jefferson, N.Y., David Betz is also to received the award.

Betz's carreer started slowly, growing up in a rural area, but not on a farm. The family had enough acreage so that he could raise a 4-H Jersey calf. Eventually he started buying additional animals and working on local dairy farms.

He excelled in 4-H projects and participated in a number of leadership acitivities and participated in the All American Jersey Show.

After graduating from Cobelskill SUNY, he worked for a dairy farmer before starting his own dairy operation.

After renting and then buying a farm, he eventually sold his farm and moved his herd to Danforth Jersey Farm, where he is currently located. However, for a couple of years he worked for the AJCC as a northeast area representative.

He currently works with the Danforth Jersey Farm herd and his own Butter Brook Jerseys. His 24 registered Jerseys, 15 milking, are enrolled in the Total Performance Evaluation and 25 percent of service sires are young sires. he invests in the Equity Program and actively promotes fair milk prices.

He is also an elder in the Stanford Presbyterian Church and is active in local and state Jersey organizations, currently serving as president of the Delaware County Jersey Cattle Club and as a director for the N.Y. State Jersey Cattle Club.

Roger and Kim Owens, of Federic, Wis., are award recipients and part owners of Owens Farm Inc., an 880-acre operation which includes Roger's brothers Wilfred and Walter and parents Harold and Agnes. Roger is in charge of raising replacement heifers for the 300-head milking herd.

While in college, Roger was active in dairy judging and in 1981, he was the assistant coach for the national championship team.

He worked for the family farm for five years before buying into it. As a genetic recovery agent, he has encouraged a number of Jersey breeders to enroll animals into the program. He is also a volunteer fireman, a trustee of the Lorain United Methodist Church, and a member of the Farm Bureau. In 1991, he was elected to the Frederick Board of Education. He is also active in the Parish VI Jersey events and the Wisconsin Jersey Breeders' Association.

In addition to taking care of their home and two children, Kim assists in raising calves and maintaining herd record books.

Stanley Weldy, from Middle Point, Ohio, is also a recipient of the award, who along with wife Marcia, have worked together to improve production and type in their 31 Jerseys.

A Jersey owner for 17 years, Stan had worked as a herdsman for Jerseyland Farm In Parma, Mich., where he said he gained valuable experience in feeding and breeding.

While working in Michigan, he was president of the Jackson County Farm Bureau and after moving to Ohio, he continued involvement in the Bureau.

The Weldy family has produced Fortunes Baronet Loralei, a Hall of Fame cow in their herd who is a national leader for fat production.

From Alstead, New Hampshire, Steven and Jeffrey Holmes, are to receive the award. Together, they are in partnership with their father, Royal. The partnership formed after both sons returned to the farm after graduating college.

Steven returned in 1982 after graduating from University of New Hampshire; Jeff returned in 1985 after graduating from Cornell University.

When Steven started, the family herd averaged under 10,000 pounds of milk. In the next four years it climbed to 13,000 pounds and since Jeff returned to help, the rolling herd average has increased to 16,425 pounds of milk, 795 pounds of fat and 634 pounds of protein on 67 lactation records.

Two bulls with the "Holmesland" prefix are currently being used for artificial insemination.

Both Steve and Jeff are active in agricultural organizations.

Steve has been the New Hampshire representative to the board of the New England Jersey Breeders' Association since 1982 and has held various offices in the Eastern A.I. Cooperative as well as the N.H. Jersey Cattle Club.

Jeff is active in Farm Bureau and a member of its county board of directors. He is on the state Farm Bureau Young Farmers' Committee and has been the county chairman of the Young Farmers' Committee since 1986. He is also vice president of the Sullivan County DHI and a state delegate to the Northeast DHI.

Competition Strengthens Corn Grower Commitment

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — The recent plight of biodegradable plastics has made corn growers more determined than ever to stand by their investments in new uses as they make the difficult journey from lab bench to retail shelf.

First showcased at the National Corn Growers Association's Corn Utilization Conference I in 1987, biodegradable plastics are under intense scrutiny in the marketplace, said Jeff Bornstein, founder and vice president of marketing for Fully Compounded Plastics, Inc. in Decatur, Ill.

At first celebrated as part of a solution to the solid waste and litter concerns, these new materials from corn are now caught in a crossfire between recyclers and the landfill industry.

"Without corn growers' continued help, U.S. scientists and entrepreneurs could lose their world lead in this field," Bornstein said.

In fact, other countries are in a position to move ahead, using U.S. technology and cornstarch, according to Dr. Sam Huang of the Institute of Materials Science at the University of Connecticut at Storrs.

a.m. and 4:30 p.m. schedule to pay the bills.

The operation is simple to handle, yet sophisticated in concept. It's old looking, but modernly designed.

When he and Carol moved to the rural farm, it was not set up for dairying. It had been a steer and hog farm with a chicken house.

The chicken house has been renovated into a series of pens with headlocking gates which can be cleaned with a small front-end loader.

After the calves are raised to size in hutches, they are grouped together in the pens, which are outfitted with headlocking gates.

The bank barn, which Trimble said was probably built about the time that the 1814 stone house was built, was changed from three large pens to a U-shaped freestall barn. The floor of the barn is scraped and the manure stored in one of the first holding facilities built in the county.

In the mid-1970s, Trimble was one of the first to take advantage of cost-sharing to build the manure lagoon and terrace the sloping crop fields. His interest in environmental responsibility has not waned.

In fact, Trimble is involved in efforts to scrap the current proposed nutrient management legislation which would focus on all agricultural operations and would be enforced by the county conservation districts.

The group to which he belongs is the Family Farm Movement, initiated by neighbor Allen Weicksel. From the Trimble yard, Weicksel's farm is near one of the large, high-voltage electrical transmission line towers that course the western ridge near the Peach Bottom Atomic Power Station.

According to Trimble, the movement is not to discourage environmental responsibility, but to discourage burueacratic "experts" who have singled out farming in the Susquehanna River watershed as the probable cause of the excessive nitrogen which flows into the Chesapeake Bay.

"It think it's a real issue for me. If you mess (the environment) up, it's gone forever. We try to go a good job with the environment and wildlife," he said.

Trimble said that farmers should know about what occurs on their farm and whether they are contributing to major degradation of an area and its watershed.

"I think farmers are more educated about the environment, than some of these people. It's his (the farmer's) livelihood. We live with it," he said.

He said that what is needed is education, not regulation.

However, he said he doesn't rule out the need for some regulation — as long as it isn't the state Department of Environmental Resources doing the enforcement, and as long as it is "farmer friendly.

"I think we are definitely going to need a (nutrient management) program somewhere down the line."

A quiet champion of taking care of agricultural land, Trimble would be difficult to argue with in light of his recognized stewardship and past practices. In 1976 he was the recipient of a conservation award for his work on the farm.

An avid hunter, he said he has a strong appreciation for the quality of life benefits obtained through an understanding and caring for the area in which he lives.

Also, he said he recognizes the financial benefits of conservation practices.

Trimble said that, since he went to storing the manure and using it when it was most opportune, he hasn't used any commercial fertilizer, except for lime, on his corn for more than a decade, perhaps longer.

The area is not typical Lancaster County, however. There is a lot of woodland which covers the lower slopes leading to the river. There are areas which protect waterways, though some do course short distances unprotected through pastures.

A quick check of Peters Creek last week (above the confluence of Puddle Duck Creek), which receives water drained from Donsdell Farm, revealed a wide diversity of aquatic insects which are associated with trout streams — mayflies, caddis flies, beetle larvae, etc.

Some sedimentation was evident in the tails of pools and sidewaters, but the main flow of the stream, and its clarity, seemed above normal for many lower-state Pennsylvania streams.

Watercress was growing in the sidewaters and bank conditions were better than average. There were numerous small fish dimpling the slow flowing pools.

However, it was apparent that some people have been driving along the unimproved Peters Creek Road and dumping along the banks of the stream such things as cat litter and yard refuse.

Not that it couldn't be farmers doing the roadside dumping, but it is unlikely.

Residential growth in the area isn't strongly evident, but it is growing, he said.

Trimble said he's been dairying all his life, having grown up in the southern Lancaster County region on his father's dairy farm with its Holstein herd.

He said his first association with Brown Swiss came as a youth, when he bought a Brown Swiss calf for a project animal. He does not own any Swiss related to that animal, but he said having that animal instilled an admiration for the breed.

A couple of years after graduating from school, he worked from 1965 to 1969 for the now-defunct Lee's Hill Farm in New Jersey.

It was a well-known farm, one of the oldest Brown Swiss operations at the time.

He said he picked up a lot of information there, such as how to artificially inseminate cows, which he continues to practice, instead of using an A.I. technician.

He also met his wife Carol while working at Lee's Hill Farm.

Her introduction to the dairy world was through him. Her agricultural backround was her family's New Jersey retail flower business. After several years, she got used to cows, Donald said.

Trimble is recovering from hip replacement surgery he had recently at Lancaster General Hospital. He walks with a limp and sometimes a cane.

As an avid hunter, he said he will be ready for the fall grouse season when he and some friends plan to take to mountains in another part of the state for the arduous walking that is common with hunting grouse without a dog.

He also hunts deer and occassionally goes for groundhog, he said.

Currently, while recuperating, he has full-time help for milking.

Peters Creek drains the agricultural highlands along the east bank of the lower Susquehanna River. This rocky area is located a couple miles below Donsdell Farm and seems to show at best minimal affects from agriculture.

This rennovated chicken house now serves as an older calf-raising facility at Donsdell Farm.

Nancy Ambler from Kirkwood, a 20- to 30-minute drive away, does the milking.

In the meantime, Trimble does what he can on the farm, taking care of crops, making repairs, and feeding.

His herd is not on test with the Dairy Herd Improvement Association and he doesn't try to market pedigree, though he has four Excellent Brown Swiss cows in the barn, all home-bred, and he occassionally sells calves.

He markets his milk in Federal Order 4 through Atlantic Dairy Cooperative and said his Swiss herd is averaging about 17,000 pounds of milk. His grade Holsteins are averaging around 21,500 pounds.

Those numbers are strong, but Trimble has been feeding a totally mixed ration for the past 12 years. Trimble also uses a nutritionist, raises his own forages and has protein tests done. He purchases some corn and feed supplements from the local mills and he is on a herd health program with a local veterinary outfit, with visits every two weeks.

He had tried a computer feeder and had previously split the herd into a high and low producing group, but discovered that he lost a lot of production when making the switch from high to low. Now all his milking cows get TMR.

The computer feeder system remains unused in the barn, and

Quality And The Big Fix

R.E. GRAVES
PSU Ag Engineer

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Productive dairy cows require a quality living and working environment. Too often, dairy managers feel that only expensive "big fixes" such as new barns, milking centers, or feeding systems will provide improvements in quality for cows. There are two regularly observed errors (or excuses) that result in poor living and working conditions for dairy animals.

ERROR NO.1: "This barn is old and run down, but I can't afford to build a fancy new barn like my neighbor, so I'll just put up with it."

The successful manager must find the changes, repairs, renovations, or improvements that can be made to the existing barn to assure quality cow space.

Items can be as basic as repairing broken or damaged stalls or cleaning ventilation fans. It may be improving the water system to assure that all cows get plenty of fresh water whenever they want, or grooving smooth concrete. Many managers make up for less than ideal facilities by applying extra management and labor until major renovations or new facilities can be built.

If quality space cannot readily be made available, then cows should not be housed in the facility. There may be several reasons why one cannot build a fancy new barn, but there are no acceptable reasons for keeping animals in an uncomfortable, unhealthy environment.

ERROR No.2: "My barn is only there's no real incentive to take it out — it isn't a problem where it's at and there isn't much of a demand for it, he said.

Trimble said he has recently became a devout user of round bales to harvest his second and later cuttings of alfalfa and even corn stalks.

However, he was not talking about the huge round bales which lie in fields. He uses small round bales which are easy to maneuver with his fork lift, keep good leaf and stack easily in the barn.

He chops the hay for use in the TMR and feeds it flake-style to the heifers.

Also, he said he feeds nothing but grass hay to his dry cows. "I like to take them off of a acid diet for several months a year," he said, adding that making the switch to grass also helps speed up the drying off period.

Trimble said that he prefers Brown Swiss to Holsteins for a number of reasons, notably the breed's general disposition, which he said is calmer and friendlier.

While the grade Holsteins make a lot of milk, the Brown Swiss make milk high in solids and fat.

It makes a difference in the paycheck. Fat used to be valued highly, and it paid to have that extra fat boosting the milk tank. Now, getting paid on a basis of fat and solids-not-fat is also beneficial with the Brown Swiss.

If some strong niche-demand for high solids milk comes his way, he would be set to make more money selling the Brown Swiss milk. In the meantime, however, they are not a liability. And, he said he gets about two more years of useful life out of the average Swiss than he does from Holsteins.

Somerset County Jackpot Show Doubles Entries

GAY N. BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

MEYERSDALE (Somerset Co.) — The fact that the second annual Lamb Jackpot Show, held at the fairgrounds here, doubled in size from the first one held in 1991 was enough to impress the event judge, Chester Hughes, Lancaster County's livestock agent. Eighty-seven 4-H and FFA participants entered 125 lambs; up from last year's 65 entries.

Hughes commented on the fine quality of the animals he saw. "For this time of the year it's excellent," said Hughes. "They have really done a good job of organizing and making sure every kid gets recognition."

A rare treat for the judge was to have his wife, Marie, and their children, Alison and Andrew, on this particular working trip.

Grand champion honor went to Garth Campbell, 19, Lykens, for his 123-pound Suffolk ewe lamb. A nice check for $150 accompanied the trophy for the repeat 1991 champion. Campbell's nine entries came in first in four classes.

Winner of the reserve grand champion title was earned by Stacy Suffel, Carlisle.

Luke Svonavec, Rockwood, had both the grand champion and reserve grand champion for Somerset County. Jeremy Bittner, Meyersdale, won for a Somerset County born and raised lamb, and Julie Sines won reserve champion county born and raised.

Other cash prizes were presented in addition to the trophies, banners, halters, bags of feed, clippers, hand shears, and T-shirts (for those who preregistered). There were also staffs given to master shepherds, all because of about $2,000 in sponsorship money, so nobody went home empty handed.

The Lamb Jackpot Show committee people included Harry and Mary Ellen Hoober, David and Betty Lou Svonavec, John and Maureen Hayes, Terry and Arleen Suder, Charlie and Kathy Randall, Charles and Betsy Smith, Thiona King, Wilson Sorber Greta Mostoller, Jennifer Saylor, and Angie Suder.

The show began at 10 a.m. and concluded approximately 5 p.m.

Following is a partial list of winners:

Penn State Alumnus Elected To Academy

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Penn State Dairy and Animal Science alumnus George E. Seidel, Jr., has been elected to membership in the National Academy of Sciences. Election to the Academy is an honor that has been called the pinnacle of scientific achievement.

Seidel conducts research in the Animal Reproduction and Biotechnology Laboratory at Colorado Sate University. His work focuses on genetic engineering involving cloning, gene transfer, in vitro fertilization, and nonsurgical embryo transfers.

Raised on a Berks County dairy farm, Seidel earned the bachelor's degree in dairy science from The Pennsylvania State University in 1965, the M.S. from Cornell University in 1968, and the Ph.D., also from Cornell, in 1970. After a postdoctoral stint at Harvard, he joined the Colorado State faculty in 1971, where he has worked since.

National Academy of Sciences members advise the United States Congress and serve on various commissions. Chartered by Abraham Lincoln in 1863, the Academy includes approximately 1,600 scientists chosen for their research contributions. Although many worthy researchers are nominated annually by Academy members, only 60 are elected.

Seidel has visited Penn State's University Park campus serveral times in the last decade, most recently in 1987 to accept the Distinguished Dairy Science Alumnus Award from the Department of Dairy and Animal Science.

PA FFA State Officers Hold First Annual Reunion

marched down the aisles for the last time and the new 1992-93 state officers were announced.

The luncheon immediately followed. The highlight of the luncheon was keynote speaker, the honorable Harold Brubaker, former Pennsylvania and National FFA officer, from Ashboro, North Carolina. He spoke of the many leadership traits acquired as an FFA'er. First, he mentioned the influence of local FFA chapter advisors, the parliamentary procedure rules learned that he still uses on the floor of the House of Representatives, and finally the Golden Year spent on the Pennsylvania FFA state officer team. As he looked out into the audience, he was able to call out names of former state officers and specifically point out each of their success stories in life.

Finally, representative Brubaker, and '62 state president Eugene Gantz, challenged the audience and all former state officers, to give back to the FFA a portion of what they had received as state officers. Brubaker and Gantz pledged $500 each if state officers would make a pledge committment to the Pennsylvania FFA foundation by July 10th - the stipulation being that the total pledged reach at least $5,000. Dennis Grumbine increased the total support by $400 in his high bid on the wildlife print contributed by the game commission. Glenn and Carl Wenger further increased the amount by pledging $500 each if the $5,000 total was reached.

Other state officer sponsors were recognized. Dwight Woelkers of Hatfield Quality Meats received a plaque recognizing Hatfield's continued support of the state officer endowment fund and at the same time presented a check in the amount of $5,000 as part of the '91-'92 pledge. Bobby Jones of Pennsylvania Farm Credit was recognized for Pennsylvania Farm Credit's support of the expenses of the '92-'93 state-wide vice-president. Wayne Hassinger, retiring state president, also thanked Delware Valley College for their state officer scholarship program and noted that four state officers from his team would be taking advantage of the scholarship program.

Riggs Wins AJCC Distinguished Service Award

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — Richard A. Riggs, Evansville, Ind., is to be honored as the recipient of the 1992 Distinguished Service Award presented by The American Jersey Cattle Club (AJCC) during the organization's 124th annual meeting in Lansing, Mich.

This prestigious award is bestowed upon a member of AJCC who has rendered unselfish service for many years and, in doing so, made a notable contribution to the advancement of the Jersey breed in the United States.

Richard Riggs began his Jersey career in 1936, at the age of 10, when a Jersey calf was registered in his name. For the next 10 years Dick kept a registered Jersey as his 4-H project.

During his youth, he was known as a courteous showman, helping others with their animals as well as caring for his own.

He participated in the state 4-H dairy judging contest from 1942 to 1944 and earned first place in the 1943 competition. In 1945 he won the national 4-H dairy production award and received the James L. Kraft Scholarship.

At 19, Dick was elected president of the Wabash Valley Jersey Association. In this position he assisted with the annual Wabash Jersey Sale.

From 1946 to 1948 Dick worked as herdsman at Larkland Jersey Farm. He then entered Purdue University where he was quickly recruited as a member of the dairy judging team and the dairy club.

During his college career he was elected president of the dairy club, as well as the Student Cooperative Association and the house where he lived.

Dick graduated with a bachelor's degree in agriculture in 1952. He married Jeanine the same year.

In 1955, after Dick served in the Army, he and Jeanine settled down on their Indiana farm to work with Jerseys. Their family grew to include five daughters, who were all active showing Jerseys in 4-H.

During this busy time working the farm and raising children, Dick and Jeanine were very active in Indiana Jersey events. Dick was vice president of the state Jersey cattle club's board of directors from 1955 until the 1970s. From 1958 until 1961 he was president of the Indiana Jersey Cattle Club. The Indiana Jersey Cattle Club honored Dick with their service award in 1961.

It was during the 1960s that Dick became active in the Kyana Milk Producers, which later became Dairyman Incorporated. After serving as treasurer and finance chairman for 18 years, Dick continued his involvement in Dairyman Inc.

Due mainly to Dick's efforts, Dairyman Inc. has supported the All American Junior Banquet and Fun Fest since 1977.

Dick has also served on the National American Dairy Association Board and the National Dairy Council. From 1966 until 1973 he was president of the Indiana American Dairy Association.

Because of his involvement in many dairy promotion organizations, Dick was no stranger to promoting Jerseys when he was appointed to the National All-Jersey Board of Directors in 1978.

In 1982 and 1983 he served as vice president of that board. Dick's experience with finances and milk marketing was noticed by the members of National All-Jersey Inc., and he served as finance chairman from 1985 until 1990.

He has been active in the All American Show and Sale events held each November in Louisville, Ky. After serving on several All American committees, Dick led the group as general chairman in 1990.

Dick's eye for good Jerseys is as sharp as ever. In 1986 he was asked to be the official Jersey judge for the Hoard's Dairyman Judging Contest. Dick has judged numerous county, district, and state dairy shows, as well as the 1985 National Jersey Jug Futurity.

Milking his own Jersey herd, Dick saw the need for official test and his herd began with register of merit testing and continued with Total Performance Evaluation.

He has shared his love of Jerseys with countless young Jersey breeders, helping them get their start in the business by leasing heifers and young bulls.

Dick donates time and expertise in district and state sale selections, by reading pedigrees at sales, and by the many committee meetings and Jersey functions he has attended over the years. His primary concern has been for Jersey breeders and all dairy producers to be paid fairly for their milk.

CASHS Team Wins Envirothon

CHAMBERSBURG (Franklin Co.) — Recently, 15 teams of high school students from Fulton and Franklin counties met at Cowans Gap State Park to test their environmental knowledge and skills. The event was the third annual Franklin/Fulton County Envirothon.

The Chambersburg Area Senior High School Team (CASHS Woodsmen), a team comprised of George Knisely's vocational agricultural students, took top honors again at the event. Team members Richard Martin, Peter Hawbaker, Steve Mayer, Pete Nicklas, and Mary Deaven outscored the second place team of environmental science students from James Buchanan High School (Ecofits) of Darren Statler, Chet Covert, Jason Smith, Dave Hess, and Anthony Lehman. Finishing third from Franklin County was the Chambersburg Senior High School vo-ag team Nitty Gritty Dirt Team of Rachel Hawbaker, Darryl Hull, Andy Myers, Jim Nicklas, and Kathy Ringer.

The Envirothon, sponsored by the Fulton and Franklin County Conservation Districts, is an annual competition designed to test the students' knowledge of the environment. It is also designed to increase their awareness of the interrelationships that exist in the world and the effects of human actions on those interrelationships.

Teams consisting of five high school students were provided with study materials early in January. During the Envirothon they are tested on five environmental subject areas: aquatics, forestry, soils, wildlife, and current environmental issues.

Local representatives provided technical assistance and administered the exam stations. David Stoner, bay technician, Franklin County Conservation District, administered the aquatics exam; Tom Wieland, Glatfelter Pulpwood Company and Ray Miller, DER Bureau of Forestry, the forestry exam; Rob Knight, Soil Conservation Service, the soils exam; Frank Clark, Pennsylvania Game Commission and Ernest Tarner, Franklin Conservation District the wildlife exam; and Marvin Hammond, DER Bureau of Water Quality, administered the current issue station, groundwater. Greg Sassaman, park superintendent, conducted an educational station at the Park Visitors Center.

George Knisely served as advisor for the Chambersburg teams and Steve Harry advised the James Buchanan team.

Also participating from Franklin County was the ninth grade vo-ag team from Chambersburg Area Senior High School and two environmental science teams from Greencastle-Antrim High School with advisor Lana Crouse.

The Chambersburg Area High School CASHS Woodsmen team will now represent Franklin County at the ninth annual Pennsylvania State Envirothon at Montour Preserve near Washingtonville, Pa. If the Franklin County Team wins the state Envirothon, they will compete against Envirothon teams from other states at the fifth annual National Envirothon to be held in Maryland in August.

Farmer's Liquid Fuels Tax Refund Available

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Anyone who used liquid fuels in the actual production of agricultural products is eligible to receive a refund on taxes paid on those fuels from July 1, 1991 to June 30, 1992.

According to the state Board of Finance and Revenue, under the Treasury Department, filing for the refund must be done no later than Sept. 30. Claim forms were to be mailed June 19 and should be arriving this week.

In order for the state to process the claim, it must be accompanied by either acutal paid receipts, copies of those, or a statement from the fuel dealer showing the gallons purchased and that state tax has been paid.

If a claim form does not arrive in the mail within a reasonable amount of time, or assistance is needed in filing the claim, contact Lynne Vergot, supervisor of the Board of Finance and Revenue, Room 409 Finance Building, Harrisburg, 17120, or call (717) 787-3365.

Top Jr. Dairy Show Winner To Be Picked

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — It is a stimulating contest that combines cattle appraisal, nutrition and reproduction knowledge with general farm management skills.

The highest placing individual at the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show Junior Dairyman Contest will receive a $500 scholarship for demonstrating and articulating their abilities.

All 4-H and FFA members are encouraged to participate in this contest which will be held on Tuesday, Sept. 22, at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg as part of the All-American Dairy Show.

This out-of-the-classroom experience will test their general knowledge and skills, focusing on 10 different dairy related categories.

They will engage in sire selection, score two cow classes using descriptive evaluation; identify classes of red meat, dairy feeds, forages, and dairy products; and identify items related to reproductive management. Tests are given on calf health current issues, DHI/ Management, and general farm business management.

"It is an excellent opportunity for these young people to have a hands on experience and put their class room training to work. "We see students returning a second year because they love the challenge," said contest chairman Walter Wurster, Chester County extension agent.

"There are prizes for both team and individual winners. We are fortunate to have sponsors such as Pfizer Agricultural Division, and Church and Dwight Co. Inc. to assist with costs of the prizes and the $500 scholarship for the top individual. In addition, Franklin Laboratories is providing lunch for all the participants," Wurster said.

There are training kits and educational materials available for any group that wants assistance preparing for the competition. It is an excellent chance for the participants to learn a great deal about the entire dairy industry, not just the cattle appraisal side.

For more information, and entry blanks contact the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show Office, Farm Show Complex, 2301 North Cameron Street, Harrisburg, PA 17110 or call 717-787-2905.

PMMB Reduces Over-Order To 80 Cents

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board has announced that milk price support for fluid milk products will drop to 80 cents per hundredweight effective July.

The move ends more than two years with a $1.05 over order premium on fluid milk.

The decision to lower the over-order came late last week when the board met to decide on three different recommendations offered by the Pennsylvania Farmers Association, the Pennsylvania State Grange, and Atlantic Dairy Cooperative (ADC).

The board went with the ADC recommendation of 80 cents. The PFA had recommended continuing the over-order at $1.30, which included a 25 cent drought premium, while the Grange recommended continuing the $1.05 payment.

ADC's arguements in support of the price reduction were based on interstate trade. The cooperative frequently markets its members milk in other states.

The PMMB attempts to regulated the price of milk so that all interests in the industry do not suffer from unregulated trading practices.

According to a news release, the board's order was passed by a vote of 2-1.

Donald Lanius, chairman of the PMMB, said that, although conditions within the state are improving, the effects of past years weather still prevail and that farmers are in need of continued assistance through a minimum price from processors.

In a prepared statement, the PMMB said that the board's action, "Will benefit the Pennsylvania milk consumer. Consumers will notice a reduction in the price of milk when purchased in their local stores."

NAVIGATOR II

STRESS-FREE ROW CROP GUIDANCE

- Unique design keeps the implement parallel with the rows even when the tractor moves laterally as it drifts off course. Most other systems oversteer the toolbar which adds damaging side pressure to the stabilizing coulters.
- Automatically compensates for sidehill drift.
- Eliminates excessive pull and stress on hydraulic components associated with other guidance systems
- Very few moving parts provide smooth, friction-free lateral movement.
- Works effectively on all conventional and ridge-till cultivators, planters and 4-wheel drive articulated tractors.

Mary and Kenlin Martin milk a 50-cow herd of registered Holsteins at their Smithsburg, Maryland dairy farm. Rolling herd average is at 22,500 pounds of milk, and cow type as well as production gets emphasis in this show and merchandising herd. Embryo transfer specialists work with the herd's top cows for donors, with both daughters and sons of the donor individuals marketed.

The Martin's and their three children are members of the Brethren in Christ Church and the couple is active in Holstein and other dairy and community activities. As division winners, Mary and Kenlin will participate in Dairymen's annual meeting and young dairymen competition, to be held December 9-11 in Atlanta, Georgia.

Runners-up for the Dairymen division are Tim and Barb Tincknell, Airville. Tim is herdsman and owns a portion of the milking animals in the herd at Joy-El Farms, owned by Joyce and Ellis Crowl, Airville. The 60-head mixed herd is currently undergoing expansion to 100 cows.

Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers winners David and Judith Gerhart milk 55 Holsteins on their 148-acre New Providence farm. Herd average is 18,650 pounds milk, 667 pounds fat and 601 pounds protein. They began by working with his father in 1974, then joined in a partnership with his parents four years later. In 1984, David and Judith bought out the partnership, and in 1990 purchased the farm.

The Gerhart's have two young daughters and take part in numerous agriculture, community and civic activities in their southern Lancaster County area. They will represent Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers at the National Milk Producers Federation annual meeting in Las Vegas and the National Institute of Cooperative Education in Colorado.

First runners-up were Harold and Colleen Smith, Monkton, Maryland. The Smiths are part of the family farm corporation of My Lady's Manor Farm, Inc. Harold is corporation treasurer and responsible for financial activities and merchandising breeding stock from the 230-head of registered Holsteins with a herd average of 28,000 pounds of milk, 779 pounds of fat and 693 pounds of protein. Some 800 acres are cropped to grains, hay and pasture.

The Smith's and their two sons are actively involved in Holstein and area agricultural groups.

Named second runners-up were John and Susan Myers, Union Bridge, Maryland. The Myers' and their two small daughters operate their 350-acre Maryland-Locust Crest Farm, with a 65-head Holstein herd averaging 19,000 pounds of milk, 750 pounds of fat and 625 pounds of protein. Dean and his brothers operate two family farms, with 1400 acres and 275 head of Holsteins averaging 16,945 pounds of milk, 643 pounds of fat and 544 pounds of protein. The couple has an 11-month-old daughter and participate in a variety of church and organizations activities.

Other participants in the competition were James and Denise Carmack, Detour, Maryland; Samuel and Margaret Fielder III, Jarrettsville, Maryland; Charles and Paula Fry, Tuscarora, Maryland; and Mark and Carolyn Gutshall, Carlisle.

Also Theresa Hamlet, Phenix Virginia; David and Tamera Loy, Littlestown; Darrell and Dottie Martin, Greencastle; David and Terella Sue Rice, Williamsburg; J. Richard and Naomi Speer, East Waterford; and Paul and Carla Witter, Shippensburg.

Atlantic Dairy Cooperative

Sean and Tammy Jones, young cooperator winners for Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, are part of the Lester C. Jones and Sons, Inc., family farm corporation. The Lumberton, New Jersey, operation includes 1600 acres in hay and grains and a 425-head milking herd averaging 22,761 pounds of milk and 777 pounds of fat. Sean oversees breeding, culling, feeding and employee management responsibilities and Tammy is the corporation bookkeeper.

The Jones' have one child and are very active in area dairy, community and civic organizations. Sean is vice-president of his ADC's District 2 local.

Named first runner-up couple were Stanley and Gina Myers, Greencastle. Their family partnership with his parents and brother include 575 acres and 132 Holsteins milking a rolling average of 17,835 pounds of milk and 625 pounds fat. Stan handles the cow and heifer feeding program, and the crop and farm management. The couple and their three children are active in their First Church of God and numerous Franklin County agriculture and community organizations. They represented ADC's District 15.

Second runners-up couple Herbert and Melanie Benner milk a herd of 43 Holsteins on their 83-acre farm near Gap. Rolling herd average is 19,646 pounds of milk and 695 pounds of fat. They operate a Bed and Breakfast in their home for area tourists and home school their four children. Herb has served as vice-president and delegate from their District 6 local and both are active in church and community.

Mary and Kenlin Martin, left, are to represent the Middle Atlantic Division of Dairymen Inc. annual meeting Young Dairymen contest. Runners-up are Tim and Barb Tincknell.

The District 18 dairyman has served as a delegate from his local and is active in church and community.

Atlantic Dairy Cooperative's winners and first runners-up will attend the December National Milk Producers Federation annual meeting in Las Vegas. Second, third and fourth runners-up will attend the National Institute for Cooperative Education in Colorado during July.

Also participating in the ADC competition were Neal and Debbie Moyer, Perkasie, District 1; Larry and Bonnie Hershey, Manheim, District 7; Elvin and Brenda Kurtz, Elverson, District 8; and Richard and Bonnie Hershey, Behtel, District 9.

Additional participants were Robert and Beth Ranck, Paradise, District 12; Troy and Kathy Zirkle, Manchester, District 16; Randy and Diane Guyer, Martinsburg, District 20; Curtis and Lori Glazier, McConnellsburg, District 21; and Keith and Kathi Heimbach, Granville Summit, District 22.

Speaker for the annual Pennmarva Young Cooperator awards luncheon was William Perry, director of member and governmental affairs for Milk Marketing, Inc.

"You can't change change," Perry told the some two hundred young cooperator participants and guests attending the luncheon gathering.

Cooperatives face changes of dwindling numbers of dairy farmers and less political clout, Perry said. In a world of "haves" and "have nots," Perry told the young couples that, despite cash flow crunches and drought-induced feed problems, farmers are viewed

Are Plant Nutrient Sources Really Different?

ATLANTA, Ga. — Potash and Phosphate Institute agronomists agree - nitrogen is nitrogen, no matter what the form .

From a plant's standpoint, there is no difference among the various plant nutrient sources. That's because plants don't use nutrients in their orginal form. All nutrients first must be disassociated from their original source and transformed into an ionic form before they can be taken up by plant roots.

So the original source, whether it is organic or inorganic, has no relationship to a healthy, vigorously growing plant. Plants just require the presence of the essential nutrients in an adequate, continuous, and balanced amount to assure good growth and reproduction. Essential nutrients can come from organic materials such as animal manure, crop residues, or cover crops; from gaseous, solid, or fluid commercial fertilizer; or from native nutrient-bearing minerals in the soil.

The commerical fertilizer industry developed because the food, feed, and fiber needs of a growing world population removed more of the essential plant nutrients in harvested crops then could be replaced by organic and native mineral sources. Without supplementing these sources, crop production could not have kept pace with world demand. Today, the worldwide commercial fertilizer demand expands as the challenges to feed an ever-increasing population continue.

The nutrients contained in commercial fertilizers are not imitations of nutrients in nature. The total amounts of the 16 essential nutrients are the same as when the earth was created. Through the ages, wind, rain, glaciers, volcanos, plant life and animal life have continually displaced and relocated nutrients and nutrient-bearing materials. Fertlizer phosphorus and potassium, for example, come from deposits which originated in oceans or seas over several geologic periods when conditions favored the formation of nutrient-bearing materials. And as for nitrogen, approximately 80 percent of the Earth's atmosphere is gaseous nitrogen...the same nitrogen used to manufacture fertilizer as well as that fixed by legumes.

Concerns by some that commericial fertilizer is not "natural" and thus "bad" have no scientific basis. Processing and utilization of deposits of phosphorus and potassium represent the ultimate in recycling...recycling of nutrients back to the soil from which they were orginally released by weathering. The fertilizer industry uses manufacturing processes to increase the purity and availability of nutrients by seperating the nutrients from unwanted materials.

Hay Show Big Part Of Ag Progress Days

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — "Exploring the New World of Agricultural Sciences" is the theme of this year's Ag Progress Days.

But don't forget the memorable Pennsylvania Hay Show, a large part of the ongoing activities of Ag Progress, on Wednesday, August 19, at 9 a.m.

Entries officially close at the Hay Show sample dropoff points (at the east and west entrances to Ag Progress Days) at 10 a.m. on Tuesday, August 18. These dropoff points have been initiated to avoid the past difficulties of getting samples to the Hay Show tent, according to Dr. Marvin H. Hall, Penn State agronomist. But to facilitate handling of samples, exhibitors are urged to deliver their samples to the Hay Show tent on Monday, August 17.

The hay shown must have been grown by the exhibitor in Pennsylvania in 1992. For the show, long hay from rectangular bales only that has been cured (adequately dry) will be accepted.

According to the contest regulations, an exhibit shall consist of a bale section at least 8 to 10 inches thick and weigh at least 6 pounds for legumes and 5 pounds for grasses. Exhibitors should tie the samples with twine.

Judging will be in two parts. On Tuesday, August 18, beginning at noon, the top five samples from each class will be selected on the basis of visual characteristics and then chemically tested. On Wednesday, August 19, at 9 a.m., the finalists will be judged on the basis of visual and chemical characteristics.

There is no fee for the exhibitor.

"We believe that the Hay Show can be a valuable learning and teaching experience with regards to both the physical and chemical aspects of quality hay," said Hall.

The Hay Show is sponsored by The Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council and Penn State Cooperative Extension.

Dairy Firsts

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The United States dairy industry has several 'firsts' of significance. The first U.S. cheese factory was built in 1851, in Rome, New York, while the first butter creamery in the U.S. was built in Iowa, in 1871. In 1841, the first shipment of milk by rail was made between upstate New York and New York City. Homogenized milk was sold for the first time in 1919, in Torrington, Connecticut. In 1964, the plastic milk jug was introduced to consumers.

Dairy Industry Promoted At Stock Car Race Track

C.J. Houghtaling
Tioga Co. Correspondent

Woodhull (Steuben Co., N.Y.) — It was just the first step in a grand scheme to promote the Dairy Industry through auto racing, but it proved it could be done with success.

Saturday night, June 6, Woodhull Raceway, Woodhull, N.Y., was the site of the National Dairy Month Kickoff-40 Lap Modified Special.

The stock car race was organized by Real Team Marketing, and the brainchild of Bill Appel, a former dairy farmer and race car driver residing in Middlebury Center.

"To our knowledge, the race was the first ever to promote dairy products," said Appel.

As part of the promotion, Candice Kennedy of Middlebury Center in her last official appearance as 1991 Tioga County Dairy Princess, gave away 100 containers of chocolate milk provided by Payne's Dairy of Knoxville.

Another novelty that was a definite crowd pleaser was an ice cream concession stand. And oh, it tasted so good as the sultry evening air hung over the track. Ask anyone who got to the stand before it sold out.

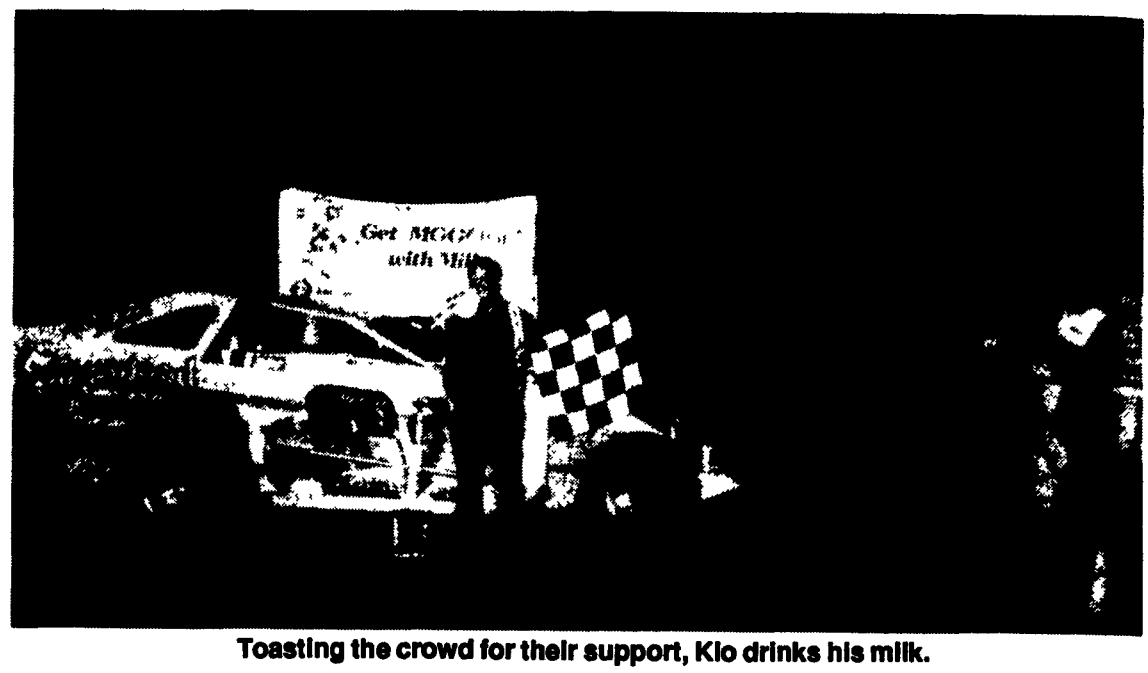
Sixty gallons of the stuff were provided by Sunset of Williamsport, with profits from the sales benefiting the Pickadilly 4-H Club of Mansfield. An estimated 500 cones were sold, a feat never before experienced or even imagined at the track.

In addition to a purse of $1,500, the winner of the modified stock car race, Don Kio of Ulysses, received a trophy with the Real Seal on it, presented by Dan Baker of Covington, director of the American Dairy Association. Kennedy also presented Kio with a "winner's choice" milk drink (naturally) in lieu of the traditional champagne.

Local businessmen played a major role in sponsoring the race. "Their contributions have been greatly appreciated," said Appel. In return, the sponsors were acknowledged in an advertising display on the track's center. Appel added, "It's our way of showing the spectators we want them to support the businesses who support us (the farmers)."

Among the sponsors that participated are Houghtaling's Garage and Middlebury Co-op, both of Middlebury Center; Helena Chemical Company (formerly Formost Ag.), Wellsboro; Payne's Dairy, Knoxville; Sunset Ice Cream, Williamsport; Pickadilly 4-H Club, Mansfield; Pelton Trucking, Monroeton; Pine City Veterinary Clinic, Pine City, N.Y.; Lawson's Garage, Woodhull, N.Y.; Pick-A-Part Automotive, Horseheads, N.Y.; Heavy Equipment Supply and Addison Farm Supply, both of Addison, N.Y.

Why did Real Team Marketing go through the trouble of organizing and getting local businesses to sponsor such an event? To prove a point. That dairy products can be marketed effectively in an area the Dairy Industry has not yet used: motor sports.



Toasting the crowd for their support, Kio drinks his milk.

According to the National Hot Rod Association, motor sports is the #1 spectator sport in the nation.

Real Team Marketing, a conceptual, multi-level marketing program marrying the racing and dairy worlds, was formed because Appel has a dream of giving the dairy industry a much-needed boost in promoting its products. His goals are for the industry to experience an increase in the consumption of all dairy products and to achieve better distribution of those products to the public.

"Better promotion is the key to getting the public to use our products," said Appel.

As a farmer, Appel understands how the farm crisis and low milk prices have hurt the individual farmer. As a former race car driver, he knows first-hand why major industries use motor sports to market their products. It increases sales.

"Soft drinks, alcoholic beverages, even large food chains merchandise through auto racing," said Appel. "Why shouldn't the dairy industry?"

It took a year of preparation, and a friend's introduction to three people whose area of expertise lies in marketing, but Appel's dream is finally becoming a reality. He's joined forces with Oscar Michaluk of West Nyack, N.Y., and Deborah Meibov and Richard Feldman, both of South Nyack, N.Y. to create Real Team Marketing.

Michaluk, formerly with Carquest Corporation and BWP Distributors as a national marketing director, brings nearly 20 years of automotive marketing experience to Real Team Marketing.

Meibov has 15 years of creative and art direction experience. She provides the foundation of the visual sense required to make this program a success.

Feldman, considered an "expediter" in his field, has the experience and ability to bind the members of the team and provide focus on those elements of the program requiring action on a day-to-day basis, putting the right people in the right jobs at the right time to get the work done.

Real Team Marketing's concept is to create The Real Team, a skillfully and professionally blended combination of three separate championship National Hot Rod Association (NHRA) racing teams, representing three major racing divisions: Top Fuel Classic, Funny Car, and Pro Stock.

Real Team Marketing has plans for the racing teams to participate in 19 national race events as a way to promote milk, ice cream, cheese and other dairy products. Support from industry leaders has been favorable and plans are being made to take the concept to higher levels.

The Woodhull race will be used as a positive example of what could happen on a nation-wide basis.

In any event, fans at Woodhull are convinced that diary products such as ice cream should be made available at every race. And to Real Team Marketing, that's what promotion is all about.

A warm June evening may have been an incentive for getting a cool treat, but ice cream is always worth the wait. Here, long lines of customers prove dairy products are as popular as soft drinks and hot dogs when the public is given a choice.

Pseudorabies Program

ness that can't survive long with a lot of permanent production costs.

The key to surviving with a flexible and unknown profit margin is that there has to be enough margin on a normal year to offset the bad years; and bad years can't get too bad.

Too much mandated overhead pushes out the small producer. In the end, it's the large producer who benefits from reduced competition.

Treadwell used to run a farrow-to-finish operation and sell direct for slaughter. He switched to feeder pigs when his children were going to college, because it decreased the amount of overall investment in each lot.

Also, there's a shorter turnaround time between investment and return on feeders, which helps with maintaining an available cash flow. With feeders, they are ready for sale in three months.

The farrow to finish operation required more production time, investment and carried a higher associated risk, he said.

After selling feeders at the Friday graded feeder pig sale at Westminster for some time, Treadwell switched to Tuesdays because of testing requirements.

He said that, at the urging of hog breeders, the sale became an "elite" sale restricted to those animals with veterinarian certification and blood tests.

Not desiring to take on the then-unnecessary expense of drawing blood and testing his feeders in order to continue marketing at such an elite market, Treadwell said he instead switched to marketing hogs on Tuesdays.

Now he and others will have no choice but to increase their overhead and comply with the new regulations.

The state of Maryland Department of Agriculture (MdDA) had approved the regulations and the regulations were published in the state's official publication making them legal.

MdDA failed to notify extension service agents, veterinarians, auction operators and producers about the need to comply with federal regulations.

However, without directly admitting that the move was done without adequate notice and normal industry consultation, the department on Thursday issued a statement that the testing will not start July 6.

Instead the regulations go into effect Oct. 1, this year.

Treadwell said he isn't sure exactly what he is going to do in the face of the new regulations.

He said that the options are limited. The options are either to sell the feeder pigs illegally and privately, or switch to producing and selling slaughter pigs directly.

As of Friday morning, there was no information available as to the estimated cost of compliance, as that was not a consideration. Also, it couldn't be confirmed as to the exact reason that the state agriculture department put the regulations through without notifiying any member of the industry to which the regulations would affect.

The basic program, however, is to set up conditions so that a breeder can establish either a psuedorabies-free herd, or a pseudorabies-monitored herd.

Specifics on the program are available now through the state department of agriculture and should soon become available through the veterinarians (though livestock-qualified vets are in short supply), extension people and possibly through the Maryland Pork Producers Council.

Wolff Urges Farmers To Join Veggie, Fruit Program

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Farmers who produce fresh fruits and vegetables can expand their markets by joining the Farmers' Market Nutrition Program (FMNP), State Secretary of Agriculture Boyd E. Wolff said.

The program provides vouchers to Women, Infants and Children (WIC) Program participants for the purchase of Pennsylvania grown, fresh fruits and vegetables from authorized farmers' markets or roadside stands. This year, the program will operate in 48 counties and serve more than 28,000 WIC participants.

"The Farmers' Market Nutrition Program is a win-win situation for Pennsylvania farmers and WIC program participants," Wolff said. "The program provides fresh, wholesome food to those at nutritional risk, and it also helps our farmers by expanding their markets to customers who might not ordinarily purchase produce from farmers' markets."

Farmers who sell their produce at farmers' markets or roadside stands may be authorized by the Department of Agriculture's FMNP program office to accept the checks as payment for their produce. The checks may be cashed at any local bank.

Information on the program is available from Lesa Tressler at Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, Farmers' Market Nutrition Program, 2301 North Cameron Street, Harrisburg, PA 17110-9408, (717)787-5086.

Feeder Cattle Futures Contract Listed

CHICAGO, Ill. — New Feeder Cattle futures contracts were listed for trading on the January, March, April and May 1993 delivery months at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange.

The result of an intensive two-year study by Exchange committee members, the revised feeder cattle contract is expected to better reflect price movements in the underlying cash market and, as such, serve as a more effective hedging instrument. The contract will be cash-settled to the new CME composite weighted average price.

According to Fred Moore, chairman of the subcommittee on feeder cattle contract specifications established to review the contract, "The CME worked closely with representatives of the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA), equipping their reporters with laptop computers and coordinating efforts to obtain the detailed price, weight, and other market information necessary to calculate a true, volume-weighted average price. The Exchange also relied heavily on input from the cattle industry, including the National Cattlemen's Association and Texas Cattle Feeders Association to implement other contract changes."

Timothy R. Brennan, Exchange governor and chairman of the Agricultural Oversight Committee, said, "The volume weighting and narrower weight range in the new contract specifications should provide ranchers, stocker operators, and feeders with a more predictable basis (relationship to the underlying cash market) and a more effective tool for limiting price risks and maximizing profits."

The revised contract incorporates the following changes:

- Contract size is increased from 44,000 pounds to 50,000 pounds to reflect the lot size of a typical truck load.
- The index to which the contract is cash-settled is changed from the cattle-fax U.S. feeder steer price (USFSP) for 600-800 pound feeder steers to the CME composite weighted average price for 700-799 pound medium frame #1 and medium and large frame #1 steers.
- The survey area is reduced from 27 states to 12 states that account for approximately 70 percent of sales, providing for a more uniform and representative sample of the feeder cattle market.
- In contrast to the USFSP, the new composite weighted average price treats the 12-state survey area as one big market or cattle sale, using data on the entire pool of feeder cattle traded within the previous seven calendar days to calculate a true weighted average price based on the number of head, average weight per head, and average price per hundredweight for each lot sold.
- In addition, all calculations are based on published USDA price reports, along with a public formula for calculating the index, to make the index easier to track and verify.

An average of 2,048 feeder cattle futures contracts were traded daily at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange in January-May 1991, but that number declined to 1,578 for the same period in 1992, as the Exchange withheld listing new contracts until regulatory approval was received. The revisions to the feeder cattle futures contract apply only to newly listed delivery months, beginning with the January 1993 futures contract.

Feeder cattle futures are one of six agricultural commodities traded on the CME, the others being live cattle, live hogs, pork bellies, lumber, and broiler chickens. Options on futures are also available on all of these products.

Both futures and options offer hedgers an opportunity to capitalize on profitable pricing opportunities. While a futures contract locks in a desired price for a product before it's bought or sold in the cash market, an option gives hedgers the opportunity to purchase a futures position at a predetermined price, allowing the buyer or seller to take advantage of favorable price fluctuations in the cash market.

NDB Reviews Dairy Fat Research

NEW YORK — Research findings from projects funded by the National Dairy Promotion and Research Board show dairy fats may be less likely to raise blood cholesterol levels than other saturated fats in the diet.

NDB funded the Dietary Lipids (or fat) and Coronary Artery Disease Institute at Columbia University for the past three years. A review team of outside researchers, dairy foods marketers and NDB members and staff met May 27 at the university of New York City to see the findings.

The studies conducted through the institute were developed to discover the value of dairy fats in fat-reduced and modified-fat diets. Researchers compared the cholesterol levels of people on very controlled diets, prepared and served by scientists.

"In low fat diets, the research showed it's better to eat saturated fat from dairy foods" than other sources of saturated fat studied, said Dr. Gustav Schonfeld, professor of medicine at Washington University in St. Louis, Mo. and a member of the review team.

Dave Hettinga, Ph.D. and vice president of research and development at Land O'Lakes Inc., said, "The research showed that a reduction in total fat in the diet, not just saturated, lowered blood cholesterol."

NDB also funds a Genetics and Cardiovascular Disease Institute and recently began a Dairy Foods and Colon Cancer Institute. Another NDB-funded institute which completed five years of study in December 1991 and met all project objectives found that calcuim consumption can lower the blood pressure of some people.

NDB establishes institutes based on priorities as determined through consumer research, an analysis of the marketplace and industry needs. Scientific researchers and food company marketers help select the subject of an institute and review proposals to help choose the best programs for funding.

Members of the review team besides Schonfeld and Hettinga included Carolyn D. Berdanier, Ph.D., Department of Nutrition at the University of Georgia and Margaret A. Flynn, Ph.D., Department of Family and Community Medicine at the University of Missouri School of Medicine.

Members of NDB's dairy foods and nutrition research committee at the review included dairy farmers Raymond Johnson of New York, Harold Reiff of Indiana and Harold Rice of Illinois.

by most as being among the "haves."

"If the 'haves' do not recognize the problems of the 'have nots,' he warned, "the 'have nots' will bond together and take you out."

Perry, who frequently represents MMI and dairy industry interests in Washington, D.C., noted that entitlements such as the Women's, Infant's and Children's (WIC) feeding programs have already impacted dairy farmers. WIC, he noted, helped to defeat pricing increases sought by the dairy industry.

"I'm not against farmers but your people have more money than I'll ever know," Perry quoted a single mother of three he had talked with when WIC supports lobbied against dairy price increases.

"And they will be there the next time, and the next time," he added.

"We gotta' hold hands," Perry encouraged the young cooperators. "Cooperatives can solve problems if we work at solutions together."

Bureau Gets New Phone System

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A new phone system in the Bureau of Animal Industry (BAI) will give the agricultural community better access to the services under its jurisdiction, according to State Secretary of Agriculture Boyd E. Wolff.

The new communications system is part of the Department of Agriculture's overall effort to upgrade equipment and technical expertise within the bureau.

Animal agriculture is the largest and most profitable sector of the commonwealth's premier industry. Pennsylvania has more than two million head of food animals and 40 million poultry on 53,000 family farms. The Bureau of Animal Industry is responsible for the control and eradication of diseases in all this livestock and poultry which might affect human health or cause significant economic loss to Pennsylvania farmers.

Each division in BAI now has an assigned phone number so citizens can dial directly for the services they require.

Animal Health, 717-783-5301- The Animal Health Division develops programs for disease prevention and control, usually in cooperation with the industry priorities. The programs focus on diseases with public health implications (such as rabies, or Brucellosis) or high economic impact on the industry (such as pseudorabies in swine).

Persons desiring information regarding disease control programs and persons wishing to report disease should call this office. Dr. Ronald Yoxheimer is chief of the Animal Health Division.

Records (Health Charts), 717-783-8144- The Records Division processes health charts for cattle, goats and buffalo involved in interstate and intrastate travel, show or sale. They also handle health charts for export or interstate travel of horses, pigs, sheep, dogs and cats.

The division maintains individual herd records for tuberculosis and brucellosis of cattle, goats and buffalo, and the brucellosis calfhood vaccination program. Persons desiring information regarding health certification of animals (except poultry) should call this office.

Epidemiology, Research & Avian Health, 717-783-8555- The Epidemiology, Research and Avian Health Division provides technical information for the development of all animal health prevention programs and develops programs for the prevention and control of poultry diseases. Records are maintained on poultry flocks, hatcheries and various inspection programs. Persons desiring information about poultry health programs and persons wishing to report poultry disease should call this office.

Regulations & Compliance, 717-783-9550- The Regulations and Compliance Division is responsible for field implementation of various disease control programs. Veterinarians and livestock disease control technicians in each region of the state monitor activities and movement of animals subject to state regulations and inspect industry operations subject to licensure. Quarantines are imposed on diseased or exposed animals if necessary.

This division is responsible for routine communications between the bureau, animal owners and animal marketing agents. Persons with inquiries about licensing, regulations, accredited veterinarians or quarantine restrictions should call this office.

Laboratory Diagnostic Division, 717-787-8808- The Summerdale Laboratory is a service-oriented laboratory, providing diagnostic services to detect diseases in animals. This includes testing of various tissues and other materials and post mortem examination of animals to diagnose cause of disease.

Persons wishing information on laboratory services should call this office. Dr. Allen Shoey is the acting director of the Laboratory Diagnostic Division.

Administration, 717-783-6677- The director of the Bureau of Animal Industry is responsible for coordinating bureau activities and maintaining Department liaison with the livestock and poultry industries.

Persons wishing information on regulatory issues, bureau objectives or industry animal health initiatives should call this office headed by Dr. Max A. Van Buskirk.

Quality And

5 years old — it doesn't need improving."

A lot happens in a facility in 5 years. A quality environment requires a quality maintenance program. Take a critical look around that "new barn," which is now 5 years old, and see if there aren't some maintenance needs.

It might be birds' nests and dirt blocking inlets in a tie-stall barn or several fence line stanchions that don't work along a fence line feeder. Perhaps some improved methods for ventilating barns or providing resting surfaces have been developed since you built that barn. Is it time to consider using some of these ideas in your "new barn?"

A quality maintenance and improvement program will assure that your facilities provide your cows with a consistently quality environment.

A dairy facility doesn't have to be new to provide a quality environment for animals. A well-constructed and maintained barn will provide years of good service. Just like a tractor, regular maintenance, periodic overhauls, and maybe a new attachment or two may be necessary to keep things running smoothly.

The successful dairy manager of the 90s will continually fine tune the cows' living and working surroundings to assure maximum comfort for maximum productivity.

Take A Farm Vacation At Mountain Mamma's

GAY N. BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

CONFLUENCE (SOMERSET CO.) — A good place to have your cake and eat it too, is at Mountain Mama's. Why? You have the option of a farm vacation that's going to test your toughness, or one that allows you to be an old softie. Either way, you'll probably love it as well as the owners, Don and Patsy Gales, a pair of sentimental romantics.

The Gales' bought the 80-acre farm in 1976. Patsy used to play here as a child when she would visit her grandparents who lived beyond the creek. Its old log house originated in 1742. Later it was rebuilt following a bad fire.

Don, a retired U.S. marine Gy/Sgt, and Patsy, a former teacher of school children, enlarged the log house which had in it some chestnut lumber that was salvaged following the fire. The size was greatly increased with additional bedrooms, bathrooms, and a library that nearly defies description. They installed a private swimming pool measuring 52 by 27 feet, which goes from three to ten feet deep. By the way, no children are permitted in the pool unless an adult is in constant attendance over them. The place even has a hot tub.

It's impossible to judge where modern begins at the Gales' secluded mountain farm. One is met with a charming blend of sentimental clutter and memorabilia. Across a great central ceiling beam Patsy hangs every card they receive throughout the year regardless of its significance. The annual practice begins with Christmas season each year.

This place looks like it's gonna' burst at the seams, yet everything seems to have an odd order to it. Patsy or Don will tell you the why and wherefore of each piece which has earned its place in the melange of valued collectibles.

Overlooking the living room area, and facing the fieldstone fireplace rising up the wall to the ceiling, is the twin-bedroom loft that was part of the former log house. A bathroom separates the single-occupant quarters. Access is gained by way of the spiral, black, wrought-iron staircase to a balustraded walkway.

Apologizing for running behind schedule in preparing a cool lemonade refresher, the hospitable Patsy invites her totally intrigued visitor to explore the romantic loft and continues to squeeze the tart, pulpy juice from the lemons being meticulous about removing all the seeds from it.

Don and Patsy have three children and five grandchildren. Baby things can be spotted around the house like a swing in a doorway and counter baby seat for meals.

While she works, Patsy chats about the farm vacations they've been offering for 15 years. "The farm vacation was a good idea," she said. "A friend put our name in with the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. They inspected the farm for water quality."

At the time Patsy, who was graduated from the University of Pittsburgh in the same class as her greatly, chagrined daughter, was struggling through the physical aftermath of a terrible vehicle accident involving only herself. She had just begun a teaching position in an elementary school and was driving home in winter conditions in February 1978.

Patsy, even to this day fights physical problems linked to that accident. "I can only do my exercises in water," she says. "I was in the hospital last year for six months," she said. "I had a freak accident that set everything off again." "I've had all kinds of problems all my life, I can't figure out why I'm still living," said Patsy.

Yet she keeps going, enjoying life and family and all the guests who reserve vacations with them. "We'll even rent the house out if somebody wants it," she declares.

There is also a mountaintop cabin that Gales will rent for the solitude lover. Totally rustic, secluded, and private, the cabin has no electricity. But it does have a hand water pump and a loft with two double beds. Be warned. The closest you'll get to an enamelled commode is if you conjure it up in your imagination! Might be a good time to mention the wild animals, too, which are fascinating to observe, but mainly, to respect. They are in their natural habitat.

Pictured is the floor to ceiling, fieldstone fireplace. In front, is a heavy bench covered with sheep fleece from New Zealand.

The area of Mountain Mama's offers wonderful trout fishing, hiking, camping, hunting. Not far away one can go whitewater rafting in summer and skiing during wintertime. The main house has television sets, plenty of bathrooms and three uniquely differing fireplaces. Outside, domestic animals roam freely around the yard.

"We don't allow pets (with vacationers)," said Don, "because our own animals get upset." He had just returned from helping to stock trout in the Laurel Hill Creek.

"I go bear hunting," said Don, "and then they come here," he adds laughing. It seems that he once kept bees and while he went elsewhere to hunt the black critters, they boldly came by the farm and helped themselves to honey.

Don keeps ducks, cats, chickens, and geese. The beef cattle are gone and so are the Brahmas he used to hand-milk.

"More of my ducks end up in Confluence and Ursina," he said, again laughing.

Don said he redesigned a Taylor furnace and had it built to his specifications prior to its outside installation. Using all wood, he is able to heat water for the needs of the main house and also to heat the outdoor pool. Now, he said his fuel bills have decreased by $400 a month.

Patsy and Don were doing the entertaining on the combination porch and deck that overlooks the pool while sitting around a table and sipping the cool fruit drink. Pots and hanging baskets of bright flowers were everywhere attracting nectar-seeking hummingbirds.

"We don't want anybody to get hurt," said Patsy glancing over the shrubbery-surrounded pool. "We all have a water safety card from the Red Cross."

One accepts disappointments along life's road and Patsy who enjoyed her last job of teaching gifted children, said pensively, 'The accident took 10 years off my teaching career. I thought I would retire at sixty-five."

Five years ago Don caught his hand in a corn picker and nearly lost it. He said he almost wishes they would not have saved it because of the complications that resulted requiring six operations.

"It's a good thing Don was ambidextrous," said Patsy. "He could use his right or left hand."

Mountain Mama's seems an apt name for this farm vacation place. It was chosen because (the farm) so closely resembled what song artist, John Denver, was saying in his song, "Country Roads" which mentions Mountain Mama. The song is a favorite of Patsy who sang it herself when she still worked in the city of Pittsburgh and detested the rush hour traffic: She says she couldn't wait to return to the mountains and the peace and serenity offered by their riotous foliage.

The name is also her citizens band handle. Don's is "White Lightning."

Their unconscious affection for each other was evident when Don appeared with a cluster of fragrant posies and handed them to his wife, addressing her with an endearment.

For additional information call Mountain Mama's at 814-395-5241. They will take singles, families and groups, all year long.

Homestead Notes

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Warning.

What you are about to read could disturb you... could alarm you... could intimidate you.

If you become easily upset, please turn the page and read something else. If you're feeling brave, well, here goes...

Busy at work in her farm home, my mother-in-law had her mind on a dozen different things.

Like most of us, her hands are busy with one group of jobs while her thoughts addressed other issues.

And, again like most of us, in her own home, surrounded by her own familiar things, on her own turf, she was so familiar with the setting that it just wasn't necessary to pay attention to the details of the area in which she was physically working.

Until she found herself - so to speak - eyeball to eyeball with a snake.

A snake.

In her own kitchen. That's right. Her kitchen.

Maybe it's just my imagination, but snakes seem to be on the increase in recent years. We have a couple of spots around the farm where we just automatically look before we walk, due to their being regular hangouts for our local reptiles. I stepped on the pond deck the other afternoon just in time to watch our excessively-chubby resident water snake slither out of the springhouse wall and launch herself (her, we think) off into the water. Probably in search of a fat frog for dinner.

Snakes at the springhouse are one thing.

A snake in your kitchen is a whole different issue.

Actually, the fairly large reptile slithered under her stove, out the other corner and disappeared through a crack in the toe space area within a few seconds, leaving my mother-in-law standing in the middle of her recently remodeled country kitchen in absolute, stunned shock.

Followed by the REALLY scary part.

Where had it come from? Where did it go?

And... what were its intentions?

Not having any of those answers (and not really expecting to get them from one now-departed snake), my mother-in-law uneasily set about on a plan of action to at least try to determine if the elusive critter had just passed through or planned to hang around.

She laid newspaper all over her kitchen floor. And then sprinkled flour over the newspapers. And shared the incident with friends in hopes of suggestions with which she might elininate the threat of the unknown, so to speak.

One suggestion - just not going back home - was not a workable one.

"I'll deal with it," she sighed as she talked about it. "I don't like it, but I'll deal with it."

Less than a day later, a young friend stopped by with the news that he and his wife had just bought a piece of farm property. The land lays in a valley through which runs one of the county's larger streams.

Also considering the same piece of property had been another couple looking for a country place to call home. But when they had gone walking near the stream in the meadow - and spied a snake - the wife made clear her intent to move nowhere even close to where a snake existed.

Numerous conclusions could be drawn from these two snake tales.

Mine is to have yet more admiration for the resilience of a farm widow who "deals with" both the pleasant and unpleasant surprises in her life without extreme panic and manages to retain a sense of humor through it.

Several days later, the snake's whereabouts were still unknown and the flowered paper had been removed after nary a sign of telltale tracks.

Reaching into a lower cupboard for an onion, I remember two instances of baby snakes turning up inside our own stone-foundation farmhouse.

RON CLARK
Bradford/Susquehanna Co.
Correspondent

TOWANDA (Bradford Co.) — June 13 was Marcena Keeney's lucky numbered date as she was crowned Bradford County's 1991-92 Dairy Princess by Pennsylvania Dairy Princess, Robin Wilbur and former Bradford County Princess. The event was the climax of several weeks of publicity, training, practice, for the five candidates participating in the pageant.

Mercena, or Mercy, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Keeney, of Wyalusing. She is a 1992 graduate from the Wyalusing Valley High School where she was active in 4-H, president of her school's chapter of the FFA, and secretary of the County Chapter. She participates in cattle judging, and shows some of her own dairy animals. Mercy owns 12 head, while her parents' farm of 300 acres supports more than 90 head, with 50 milkers.

The day's activities began with a parade in nearby Wysox, in which about 70 exhibits appeared. Beginning at the Wysox Fire Hall, the 45-minute parade proceeded up the main street to the drive-in theater. At this location, a flea market had been set up, with all sorts of items being available from the 60 vendors. These ranged from antique milk bottles to wooden lawn ornaments. Of course there was a satisfactory variety of food, and cold drinks and ice cream in great demand in the 85 degree heat.

County Extension Jake Guffey had organized several contests. The most popular event was the ice cream eating contest, in which Robin Wilbur was first, closely challenged by Mercy Keeney in the Dairy Princess class. The Open Class winner was Bob Lilley, while a separate Ambulance Crew class was easily won by Jeff Benjamin. In other contests, Robin was a winner in her class in bale throwing, while the Dairy Princess sack race was won by Lisa Wanck. Other interesting happenings were the milking contest and the petting zoo.

Ready to assist Bradford County Dairy Princess Mercena Keeney, center, are Stacey Huslander, first alternate; and Lisa Wanck, second alternate.

Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Robin Wilbur crowns Mercena Keeney as the Bradford County Dairy Princess.

The Dairy Princess Pageant took place at the Towanda Middle School, with Bonnie Borek acting as coordinator of the pageant and director/general chairman of the Dairy Festival.

Master of Ceremonies, State Senator Roger Madigan, recognized the 1991 royalty: Krista Teeter, first alternate, Mercena Keeney, second alternate, and Robin Wilbur, 1991 Bradford County and State Dairy Princess. He next introduced the five candidates for 1992. These were Holly Aber, Katherine Cole, Stacy Huslander, Mercy Keeney and Lisa Wanck. The Senator conducted interviews with each of the contestants.

Each of the would-be princesses gave a short skit which was scored as a part of the total competition. Mercy's presentation described the duties of the farmer: nutritionist, accountant, veterinarian, plumber, carpenter, mechanic, especially with milking equipment, electrician, cooling, and general jack of all trades, as required to produce healthy, natural dairy products. She told of the importance of the dairy group of foods in maintaining good health. She emphasized the right of all farmers to have pride in their profession.

Each of the other candidates gave their skits. Huslander centered on grocery shopping, showing how milk is important to babies, growing children and teenagers, and adults. She emphasized the good flavor of milk and its products, Calcium and vitamin importances. She used mirrors to demonstrate the benefits she has derived from drinking milk. Wanck described the components of milk, and used a periodic table as a point of illustration. She gave credit to nature for sun, soil and rain, which enable the five major dairy breeds to contribute so much to humans, when the hard work of farm families is included.

Cole's act used a skeleton to show how milk works in the body, and presented a menu featuring all types of milk products, with other food groups, all of which center about some type of milk product.

Aber showed a bunch of hay and, speaking as a dairy cow, told that this was the item which she used to produce nature's most perfect food.

All of the contestants emphasized this year's theme throughout the dairy industry, the "Real Seal" which appears on all products which are genuinely derived from dairy products.

Each of the candidates responded to a question from the judges: "A survey in your school showed that 65 percent of the students did not like milk. Would you try to change this, and how would you go about it?" The answers ranged from suggesting varieties, having the students sample many products, asking interviewed persons why they do not like milk,

Low-Budget Vacations

Many families are talking about summer vacations. Exploring local attractions, trimming current living expenses, and lodging in hostels or small to mid-sized towns are some of the options for families who have a tiny budget for summer vacations.

The less money a person has, the more important it is to plan carefully.

If you are a full-time farmer, you are probably unable to think about summer travel. But knowing how to save money on vacations may come in handy for your future planning.

The first step is to have a talk with others in your family. Listen to their ideas.

During the discussion, ask these questions: What goals do I have for my vacation? (Rest, See new sites? Excitement and night life? Visit friends?) Can I achieve these goals without leaving town? When can I take a vacation? What can our family comfortably afford to spend? (Are you still paying off last year's vacation expenses?)

Be realistic about what you can afford. After estimating the costs of a specific vacation, add 5% for unexpected charges.

One way to have a vacation without spending a fortune is to stay close to home.

"Play" vacation. Sleep in, take your phone off the hook, and enjoy a leisurely walk in the late morning or early evening.

Plan to visit a restaurant, museum, sports facilities, or park that you've never stopped at before. Have you hiked the Appalachian Trail? Plan afternoon or evening outings to these spots.

If your goal is to get away and you have only a few dollars, other planning steps are necessary.

Between now and your vacation time eat low-cost meals, pack lunches, wear last year's wardrobe, and stay home on the weekends to save money. If possible, pay off existing credit card bills because you will probably charge some of your vacation expenses.

Before departing, read newspaper ads, check with local AAA, and read budget travel guidebooks for ideas.

Lodging can be costly. Be sure to ask if the hotel provides free parking for its guests. If they don't, you may spend $10-$20 per day to park your car. Staying in Hostels (dorm-like settings) is an alternative to standard hotels. They are much less expensive. In order to room at a hostel, you must join the association. For this nominal fee, the organization sends you directories and guidelines.

Staying in small or mid-sized towns also reduces lodging costs. Staying with family or friends is a bargain if both they and you enjoy it.

Families can also save money by purchasing and cooking their own food rather than eating at restaurants. In urban areas, it is economical to buy umlimited use passes for the public transportation.

By waiting until the fall or winter to travel, you may actually be saving yourself a lot. Off-season prices at many vacation spots can be 25-30% less.

Take time to talk with your family and select a plan that you can afford. Make sure you plan a vacation. Every person needs a break. You may not have the freedom to take it in a summer, but that doesn't mean you should never take it!

and then stressing things they would like, and stressing the positive benefits of all milk products. The judges were then dismissed to consider each candidate and render their decision.

Krista Teeter, first alternate in 1991, gave her farewell, and thanked her parents and all her supporters. She gave a message to the contestants, pointing out that they were all winners and will enjoy a great year.

Retiring Bradford County Princess Wilbur used a slide presentation to demonstrate her successful year, which included 103 promotions in Bradford County alone, plus appearances in other areas. She thanked all of those who helped her, and emphasized the fine support from Bonnie Borek and Jan Harding, county and state Dairy Princess coordinators. Wilbur presented a token of her appreciation to Ms. Borek.

Senator Madigan recognized former Dairy Princesses who were present, those from 1970, 1971, 1981, 1982, 1985, 1989, and 1990. He also emphasized the hard work of the Dairy Princess Committee, and the difficult task which the judges, Donna Brown from Farm Credit; Judy Shupp, Wyoming/Lackawanna Dairy Promotion Committee; and Betsy DuPuis, PA Dairy Promotion, had taken upon themselves to select the winner in this pageant.

Emcee Madigan then announced the second alternate, Lisa Wanck, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Wanck, of Wyalusing. Next was the 1st alternate, Stacy Huslander, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Huslander, of the Athens Area.

Then the culmination of the weeks of effort on the part of the Committee and the contestants: The announcement of the Dairy Princess for 1992-93, and her coronation by the out-going Dairy Princess, Mercy Huslander was obviously on a high emotional plane as she accepted the honor and responsibility for the coming year.

More Dairy Recipes From Contest Entries

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Thanks to hundreds of readers who sent in recipes for our annual Dairy Recipe Contest. Throughout the month of June, the recipes have appeared in the paper. I'm sure many of you have found some new favorites. And, by reading the comments with the recipes, you probably feel like you made some new acquaintances.

I wish we could have mailed a prize to every one who entered the contest, but, unfortunately, as in all contests only a few can win the prizes. Neither do we have the facilities and time to taste test the recipe dishes. So we rely upon a drawing.

Olivia Merryman, 4511 Flintville Road, Whiteford, Md. 21160-1608, won a canister set.

Venita Christman, 7623 Valley View Lane, Greencastle, Pa. 17225, stool.

Hi! Mommy asked us to pick out our favorite dairy recipe and we chose this one. We always ask for seconds when she makes it. She also said to say something about ourselves. Our names are Denae, Danette (twins, age 5) and Derek (3) Witmer.

We live on a dairy farm along Colebrook Road. We have a dog and lots of cats. Our favorite, Ruthie, just had 4 kittens. They are a lot of fun to play with. There's another nest of kittens in the barn, but we cannot find them again.

We love living on the farm because there's always new things to learn and something to do. One of our favorite is riding with Daddy in the cub tractor. We all three pile in the cab even though Daddy says we get on his nerves at times (we're not sure what that means). Like Mommy says, "We're always busy doing something."

Hey, that's the tractor we hear. Let's get going!

LIME CHIFFON DESSERT

1 cup graham cracker crumbs

Melt butter and stir into crumbs. Press mixture firmly into an 8-inch square pan and chill.

3-ounce package lime Jell-O
1 cup boiling water
14-ounce can sweetened condensed milk
8-ounce can crushed pineapple, drained
2 tablespoons Real Lime juice
4 cups marshmallows
1 cup whipping cream

In large bowl, dissolve Jell-O in boiling water. Stir in condensed milk, pineapple, and lime juice. Add marshmallows and whipped cream, fold in until all is mixed well. Pour into crust and chill about 2 hours or until firm.

My husband Lee has been farming since 1969, and we married in 1970.

Neither one of us was raised on a farm, but Lee always wanted to be a dairy farmer. We have 3 children, Jason, 20; Marie, 19, and soon to be married; and Laura, 13. All our children have been active in 4-H and FFA. We farm about 800 acres and have about 140 milking cows and that many replacement heifers. Our farm sits on the Mason Dixon Line. Being our farm operation sits on the narrow part of Maryland (we also farm ground in W. Va.) it always sound unique to say that we farm in three states.

CORN PUDDING

2 cups fresh corn
3 eggs, well beaten
½ cup sugar
Pinch salt
½ cup milk
1 tablespoon butter
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Place corn in dish. Beat toether eggs, sugar, salt, milk, butter, and pepper and stir into corn. Pour into greased casserole dish and bake at 375 degrees for 45 minutes.

This recipe comes from my grandmother, Anna Shipman Wilson (1899-1985). Her father, Javis Shipman, is in the Jersey Hall of Fame for his registered Jersey cattle in Shelbyville, Ky. The next generation got out of farming and sold, but I, who have been raised in Pennsylvania, am desperately trying to get into dairying. I own three beautiful Jersey cows, that are on a friend's farm, and four heifers who are with me. I am currently a farmer for Chester County Parks and Recreation and manage their wide variety of farm animals for display. I also work part time at a bookstore and run a craft business, The Emerald Cow, on the the side to raise money for the (hopeful) eventual purchase of my own farm in Lancaster or a surrounding county. With my craft money, I have been able to purchase a corn-planter, hay rake, and a plow.

"I couldn't do this again in a million years," said Pennsylvania Alternate Dairy Princess Tanya Martin when she inadvertently drew her mother's recipe as one of the winning entries in the Dairy Recipe Contest.

2 cups bread

½ cup sugar

1 teaspoon vanilla

My husband, Ed, and I have a dairy farm in Tioga County. We have two children and two grandchildren.

Melissa Spory Represents Somerset County Dairy Industry

GAY N. BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

BERLIN (Somerset Co.) — Melissa Spory of Boswell was crowned the 1992 Somerset County Dairy Princess on Saturday, June 13, by her predecessor, 1991 Princess Vicki Stahl. The pageant was held in the auditorium of the Berlin-Brothers-Valley High School. She is the daughter of Mel and Cathy Spory.

Competing with Spory were Kristin Walker of Meyersdale and Melissa Kalina of Hollsopple. Walker, 17, is the daughter of Tom and Ruth Walker. Also 17, Kalina's parents are Nancy and Joseph Caola and Robert Kalina.

Spory, with her two sisters and one brother, lives on a dairy farm co-owned by her dad and her uncle and on which some 78 of the 90 cows are milked. A very sportsminded young woman, she is also academically successful in her high school, the Johnstown Christian School, participating in the Association of Christian Schools International Speech and Mathematics Olympics. Her 4-H Club is called the Supermilkers.

"It was a real surprise to win the contest with Kristin and Melissa competing," said the new princess. "I feel very honored to represent the dairy industry in Somerset County."

Six pretty little girls decked out in frills galore participated in the Little Princess pageant, speaking their individual dairy slogan into the microphone held by master of ceremonies, Bob Brown, who is an agent with the Somerset County Cooperative Extension Service.

The youngsters were Rebekah Fox, Cassandra Hay, Carrie Miller, Greta Moyer, Laura Stutzman and Joy Tressler. Escorts were David Bittner, Jarred Fox, and Christopher Otto.

Judges for the event were Steve Addleman, Somerset; Harveda Ankeny, Latrobe, and Lisa Shaw, Mercersburg.

The nine-county Allied Milk Producers' Cooperative, Inc., gave a $300 cash gift to Spory for personal expenses she will incur as she prepares to represent the local dairy industry. In presenting the check, Cooperative director, Marvin Thomas, stated that an additional $200 will be given to her next April if she has met all the requirements of her promotion activities at that time.

Other awards and gifts were presented to Spory following the introduction of parents, farewell remarks, by Miss Stahl and door prize drawings.

Forming a receiving line, Spory, Walker, Kalina and their parents personally greeted guests who stayed for an ice cream social of sundaes and dairy punch in the school cafeteria.

The Somerset County Dairy Coronation Committee members are Tracy Blair, Melissa Fox, Jill Friedline, Penny Reiman, Angie Shober, Brenda Slingluff and Tomalee Will.

Members of the Somerset County Dairy Promotion Committees are Barbara Brant, Nina Ferko, Jill Friedline, Carol Flannery, Charlene McWilliams, Dodie Mishler, Evelyn Moyer, Dorothy Naugle, Bonnie Ringler, and Sue Tressler.

ANSWER — A reader from Leola wanted a recipe for the hearty rice breakfast that was printed a few weeks ago. I think she is referring to Country Breakfast Cereal as follows.

Country Breakfast Cereal

3 cups cooked brown rice
2 cups skim milk
½ cup raisins or chopped prunes
1 tablespoon margarine, optional
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon salt
Honey or brown sugar (optional)
Fresh fruit, (optional)

Combine rice, milk, raisins, margarine, cinnamon, and salt in 2- to 3-quart saucepan. Bring to a boil; stir once or twice. Reduce heat to medium-low; cover and simmer 8 to 10 minutes or until thickened. Serve with honey and fresh fruit.

Makes 6 servings.

ANSWER — Jennifer Hall, Delta, requested recipes for fruit butters with low or no sugar or those made with honey and Lynn Miller, Silverdale, requested a recipe for all-fruit spread using fruit and fruit juice with no sugar added. Here are recipes from an anonymous reader.

Low Calorie Strawberry Jam

Use whatever fruit is in season — strawberry, peach, grape, plum

¾ to 1 cup fresh fruit, cubed
½ teaspoon lemon juice
⅛ to ¼ cup apple juice, depends on tartness of fruit
½ to 1 teaspoon fructose or sugar substitute

Mix all. Cook 3 to 4 minutes on high heat (taste at this point and add more sugar substitute if too tart). Sprinkle 1 or 2 teaspoons unflavored gelatine over the mixture and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Keeps several weeks in refrigerator.

Grape Jelly

2 tablespoons unflavored gelatine powder
24-ounce unsweetened grape juice
2 tablespoons bottled lemon juice
2 tablespoons liquid artificial sweetener

In a saucepan, soften gelatine in the grape and lemon juices. Bring to a full rolling boil to dissolve gelatine. Boil one minute. Remove from heat. Stir in sweetener. Fill quickly into hot sterile half-pint jars, leaving ¼ -inch headspace. Adjust lids. Do not process or freeze — store in refrigerator. Use within four weeks. Yields three half-pints.

ANSWER — Helen Henry, Macungie, requested a recipe to make Chinese noodles with sweet and sour dip. Thanks to Betty Light, Lebanon, for sending a recipe. She also writes that you can use wonton shells or egg roll wrappers by cutting them in strips and frying in oil. They fry quickly and must be stirred frequently. Drain on paper towels and serve.

Chinese Noodles

1 egg
2 cups flour
Water

Sift the flour and salt into mixing bowl. Make a well in the center; add the egg. By hand mix the flour and egg and add enough water to make a stiff dough. Knead with the hands very thoroughly. Roll out dough as thinly as possible on a lightly floured board.

Lightly flour the dough, roll up like a swiss roll and slice in desired width. Unroll each slice and hang strip on clean towel draped over back of a chair. Dry 20 minutes before using.

For soft noodles: boil 5 to 7 minutes in a large saucepan of salted boiling water.

For crisp noodles, fry in deep hot oil until golden and drain well. There is no need to boil the noodles before frying as with bought noodles, but don't put many noodles into the oil at the same time. Stir frequently.

Dip in sweet and sour sauce.

ANSWER — Thanks to Cheryl Pinkerton, Lenardtown, Md., for sending a recipe for giant cookies. The recipe is taken from her husband's family's cookbook and is one of her family's favorites with ½ to 1 cup raisins substituted for the chocolate chips. She writes: I don't know what I ever did before discovering your recipe column.

Super Good Oatmeal Cookies

½ cup butter
½ cup sugar
½ cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 egg
Cream together ingredients then add:
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon baking soda
1 cup flour

¼ teaspoon salt
Beat until well blended. Add:
1 cup rolled oats
6 ounces chocolate chips
½ cup chopped pecans

Mix. Roll ¼ cup dough into a ball. Place ball on ungreased baking sheet. Dip bottom of large glass in sugar and press cookie to about a half-inch thickness. Bake at 375 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes. Makes 12 large cookies.

ANSWER — Roland Kamoda, Monongahela, wanted to know where a hand meat grinder may be purchased. ¼ pound butter, melted
1 egg, beaten
3 cups pumpkin
3 eggs
½ cup brown sugar
⅔ cup milk
1½ teaspoons cinnamon
¼ cup sugar

Topping:
½ cup sugar
½ cup butter
½ cup chopped nuts

Set aside 1 cup of the cake mix. To remaining mix, add butter and eggs. Beat well with fork until mix is absorbed. Press mixture into 9x13-inch pan. Make filling in large bowl. Combine pumpkin, brown sugar, sugar, milk, cinnamon and beaten eggs. Beat well. Spread on cake dough.

For topping:
Mix 1 cup cake mix
½ cup sugar
½ cup butter
½ cup nuts. Sprinkle over pumpkin mixture. Bake at 350 degrees for 50 to 55 minutes.

I get a lot of compliments on this recipe at church functions. My husband can't have the nuts so I substitute ½ cup oatmeal for the nuts and it is good either way.

ANSWER — Kathryn Agett, Franklinville, N.Y., requested a recipe for salt-rising bread. Thanks to Mrs. Donald Hill, Apalachin, N.Y., for sending a recipe.

Salt-Rising Bread

Starter:
- 1 cup milk
- ½ cup flour
- ½ cup cornmeal
- 1 cup warm water

Scald milk. Remove from heat. In a large bowl, mix milk, warm water, flour, and cornmeal. Wrap bowl in heavy towel and cover. Place in warm place overnight to rise. An unheated oven works well.

Dough:
- 3-4 cup warm water
- 7 cups flour
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 4 tablespoons butter

In morning, add water, flour, sugar, and salt to starter to make a soft batter. (If starter is not light and fluffy, throw out and start again). Again wrap and cover bowl and return to warm place. Let rise until double in size. Place on generously floured kneading board. Add butter and remaining flour gradually, kneading until a stiff dough that can be handled easily. Form into loaves and let rise until doubled in size. Bake in 350 degree oven for 45 minutes. Makes 3 loaves.

ANSWER — Janice Rehmeyer, York, wanted a recipe for Caesar Salad. Thanks to Judi Schaffer, Fogelsville, for sending a recipe.

Caesar Salad

- 1 clove garlic
- 2-ounce can anchovies
- Juice of ½ lemon
- 1 egg
- ½ cup olive oil
- 1 tablespoon cider vinegar
- 2 tablespoons wine vinegar
- ⅛ teaspoon dry mustard
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 2 large heads Romaine lettuce
- 1 cup croutons
- ⅓ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Mash garlic in bowl, add anchovies and mash. Add lemon juice. Warm egg in hot water; separate egg. Discard egg white. Add egg yolk to bowl and blend until thick and creamy. Add olive oil slowly, beating with spoon until blended. Add vinegars, mustard, salt, pepper, and cheese. Break lettuce into bite-sized pieces; add to bowl. Toss salad well. Add croutons and toss lightly. Serve immediately. Yields 6 to 8 servings.

ANSWER — Fay Leslie, Woodstown, N.J., wanted a recipe for a creamy lobster sauce for pasta. Thanks to Betty Light, Lebanon, for sending a recipe.

Lobster Sauce

- 1 small carrot, chopped finely
- 1 small onion, chopped finely
- 1 rib celery, chopped finely
- 6 tablespoons butter, divided
- 1 pound uncooked whole lobster
- 1 bay leaf
- 2 sprigs parsley
- 1½ cups fish stock or clam juice
- ½ cup dry vermouth
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1 teaspoon tomato paste
- ½ cup heavy cream
- Salt and pepper to taste
- Lemon juice to taste

In a large pan, melt 2 tablespoons butter. Add chopped vegetables and saute for 5 to 6 minutes, stirring constantly so vegetables do not brown.

Split the lobster in half lengthwise, crack the claws and place it, meat side down on the vegetables in the pan. Add bay leaf and parsley sprigs. Pour in fish stock and vermouth; cover and cook over medium heat for 20 minutes. Remove from heat and cool.

Remove meat from body and claws of lobster and cut into small pieces; set aside. Drain the solids from liquid. Throw away solids and reserve liquid; set aside.

Melt 4 tablespoons butter in the heavy pan, stir in flour and cook and stir for 3 minutes to prevent the mixture from browning.

Remove from heat and whisk in 1¼ cups of the reserved liquids. Return to heat and cook for 3 minutes or until thickened, stirring constantly.

Add tomato paste, heavy cream, and lobster meat, stirring until heated thoroughly. Add pepper, salt, and lemon juice to taste.

Makes 3 to 4 cups.

Will does mostly field work. I keep the books and take care of the calves. The children are eager helpers. The girls like to get in with the calves and pet them. Josh sits in the stroller and watches all the activities. We really like the farming life and think it is a great place to raise children.

- 2 eggs
- 4½ cups sifted flour

Sprinkle yeast in lukewarm water, stir to dissolve. Heat cottage cheese until lukewarm. Combine cottage cheese, sugar, salt, baking soda, eggs, yeast, and 1 cup flour in bowl. Beat with electric mixer at medium speed until smooth, about 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Gradually add enough flour to make soft dough the leaves the sides of bowl.

Place dough in greased bowl, turn to grease top, cover and let rise in warm place until doubled, about 1½ hour.

Turn dough onto a board that has been floured with equal parts of granulated sugar and flour, about ¼ cup of each. Roll or stretch dough to about half the thickness. Cut into triangles and brush with melted butter and place a slice of Swiss cheese and a slice of ham on each piece of dough. Roll to form a pocket, brush again with butter and let rise until doubled about 45 minutes. Bake at 350 degrees for about 20 minutes. Cool and serve slightly warm. These are delicious and great served with lunch.

I was looking for something special for a luncheon and crescents are the rage. My family and friends think these are great. You can also add slightly cooked broccoli.

ANSWER — Martha Luckenbaugh, New Oxford, wanted a recipe for fish batter that tastes similar to Long John Silver's batter-dipped fish. Thanks to Lilly Humpheys, Ballard, W.Va., who sent a recipe.

Like Long John Silver's Sea-food Batter

- ½ cup water
- ½ cup milk
- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 1 tablespoon vinegar
- 1 tablespoon baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- Flounder or trout fillets

Beat together water, milk, flour, vinegar, baking powder, and salt until smooth. Dip fillets in batter; fry in deep fat until golden brown, turning once.

Excellent. All my friends think it tastes just like the Long John Silver's fish. Any solid shortening will do, but I've never tried oil.

Also thanks to Elva Livengood, Manheim for sending a recipe that she said is delicious.

Batter-dipped Fish

Beat:
- 2 eggs

Stir in:
- ½ cup milk

Sift together and combine with egg mixture:
- 1 cup flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon salad oil.

Dip fish or fruits or vegetables if preferred into batter. Drop into hot fat and fry at 375 degrees until browned.

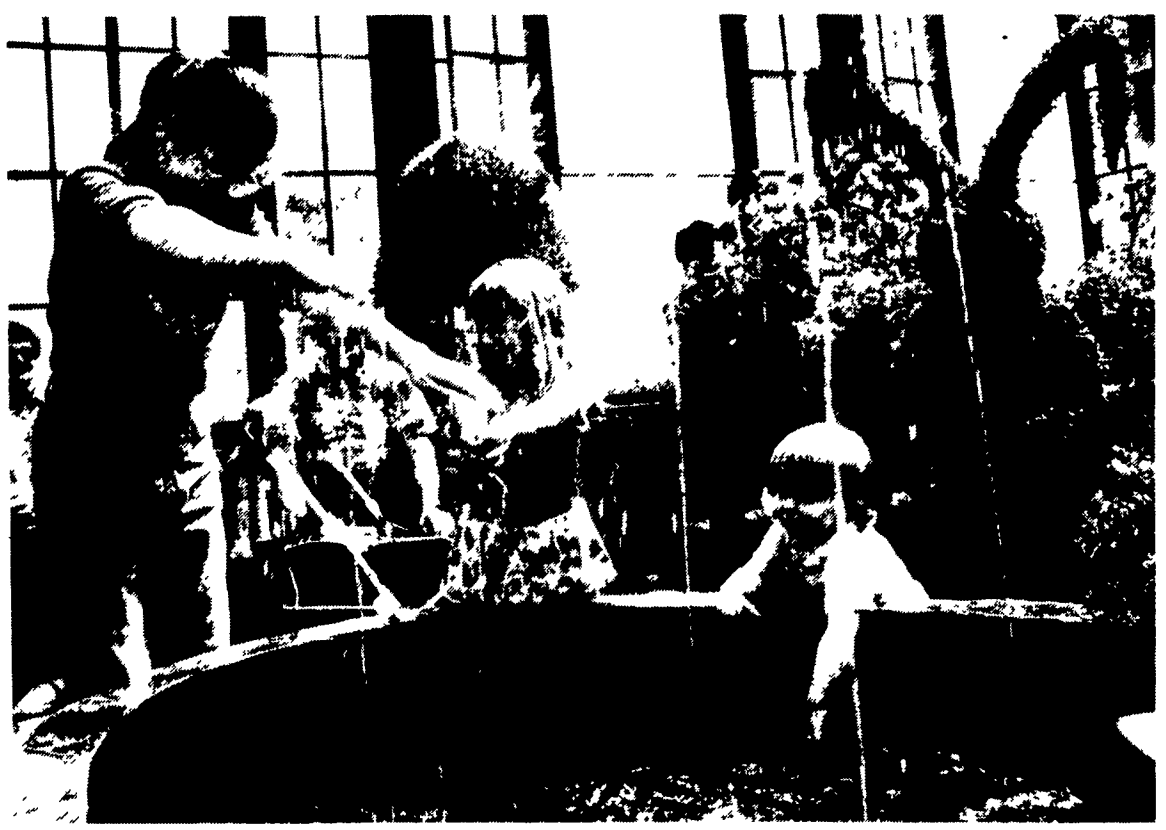
Rabbits Point Way Through Carrot Trail

Topiary rabbits, as garden hosts, point the way through a carrot trail. Bubble and hopping fountains line the way.



Bubble and hopping fountains line the way. Other parts of the garden include the ruins of a stone cottage and a maze made of ivy.

KENNETT SQUARE (Chester Co.) — They look a lot like the rabbits you see running through your yard.

But they're really just hedges shaped like imaginary rabbits, and they point the way through the Children's Garden at Longwood.

The garden is a little hideway for kids who want to explore the zany world of imaginary critters at a tea party or to play hide-and-seek through the topiary maze.

The garden measures 1,500 square feet and is surrounded by glass. It used to be a container garden.

To enter the maze, you cross a wooden bridge and wave to the gigantic frog made of plants (he's supposed to guard the entrance). Many types of colorful, scent-filled plans are easy to reach out to touch and smell.

But the amazing part is that the topiary rabbits, as garden hosts, point the way through a carrot trail. Bubble and hopping fountains line the way.

Other parts of the garden include the ruins of a stone cottage and a maze made of ivy. And three other trees, including a Brazilian grape tree, olive tree, and cork oak tree are a part of the trail.

After the tour through the garden, you exit on hands and knees through a tunnel covered with passion vine.

Admission to the garden is $2 for children 6-14, free for children under 6, and $10 for adults.

Longwood Gardens is located on U.S. Route 1, three miles northeast of Kennett Square in the historic Brandywine Valley. For more information, contact the Gardens at (215) 388-6741.

YOUR KITCHEN IS YOUR PERSONAL SCIENCE LAB

Did you ever think of yourself as a scientist? Whenever you cook you are practicing a form of domestic chemistry. Combining ingredients by prescribed formulas — such as recipes — and subjecting them to varying temperatures to produce a desired result involves a series of chemical reactions, which you control in the way researchers do in their labs.

Unless we are preparing a gourmet meal, we tend to take the notion of cooking for granted. However it is really a complex process. The way food is handled and heated has dramatic effect. Cooking alters the taste, texture, and color, and can determine whether a food is palatable or safe to eat, since heat kills microorganisms that cause spoilage and disease.

Heating meat allows complexes to form that produce enhanced flavor. For instance, raw chicken has almost no taste, but cooking induces a chemical reaction which gives poultry its "chickeny" flavor. Cooking makes meat more tender. It also alters the color of meat as well as its taste and texture.

Vegetables soften during cooking because the cell-wall fibers, especially pectin, absorb water and partially dissolve. For example, in potatoes, the starch swells and turns jelly-like when heated. Boiled potatoes are usually softer than roasted ones beacuse the water helps dissolve more of the pectin and starch.

Stir-frying vegetables subjects them to heat for a shorter length of time and cause less breakdown, keeping them crispier.

Besides cooking, another chemical process you may practice in your kitchen is fermentation. If you make your own bread or pickles, you are using bacteria or yeast to act on food to produce acid or alcohol.

So you see, your kitchen is really your laboratory. Even the plainest cook is something of a chemist.

FIVE EASY TIPS FOR TRAVELING WITH TOTS

With summer upon us, do you dream of a relaxed family vacation, accompanied by laughter and song? That fantasy can come close to reality if you prepare for the trip with your preschooler's special travel needs in mind.

Prepare three bags of toys: One for travel to your destination, a second bag with different toys for the vacation spot, and a third bag for the trip home. For example, penlights can offer diversion and double as night-lights for preschoolers age three.

Engage the child's mind during the trip by playing games or telling stories. Help the child focus on the sights, such as billboards and clouds.

Discuss travel plans in advance. Allow your child to make some choices. Preschoolers are more likely to enjoy activities if they know what to expect.

And, provide lots of opportunities to move around. Bring toys such as a frisbee and a jump rope so your child can be physically active during breaks from driving.

Try to maintain familiar elements of your child's regular routine. Children need rest and meals as they do when they are at home.

Turn Talents Into Profits

CREAMERY (Montgomery Co.) — During the summer months, Penn State Cooperative Extension will be offering two seminars for micro-enterprise owners. "Marketing your Craft Business," a follow-up session for our "Sewing & Crafts for Profits" workshop, will be held at Bentley's Restaurant in North Wales, on July 14 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and at Penn State Harrisburg, Middletown, on July 15. Guest speaker will be Gregory R. Passewitz, leader for natural resources and small business with the Ohio Cooperative Extension Service.

Due to popular demand, we will also be offering "Food for Profit" in a two-evening format at the Lebanon Extension Office (August 17 and 24, 7:00 to 10:00 p.m.). Designed for business people who make food products for resale (through stores, farm markets or restaurants),this workshop includes a discussion of sanitation, licenses and permits, marketing, packaging, record keeping, pricing and business planning. A registration fee of $20 covers materials. For more information or to register for either of these workshops, contact the Montgomery County Extension Office at (215)489-4315.

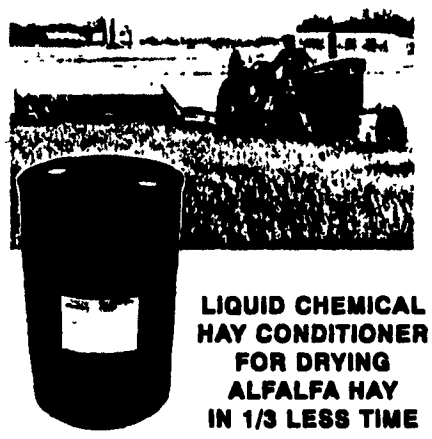
SWATHER'S CHOICE

ALFALFA HAY CONDITIONER

NEW!



LIQUID CHEMICAL HAY CONDITIONER FOR DRYING ALFALFA HAY IN 1/3 LESS TIME

Alfalfa and other legume crops have a coating of wax. While this coating is a natural protection for the growing plant, it is an inhibitor to moisture loss in field curing and to feed utilization in the digestive system of ruminant animals. The presence of this coating of wax also makes the hay stem brittle and less palatable to livestock.

Swather's Choice "washes off" the outside waxy coating of alfalfa, allowing for the water inside the plant to evaporate more rapidly than in untreated hay. Swather's Choice is actually a soap that is safe for livestock consumption and won't affect palatability.

In studies at Michigan State University, hay treated with the ingredients in Swather's Choice had higher protein and lower fiber. In a further study at Utah State University, cows consumed 2.2 pounds more treated hay per day.

Unlike conventional granular drying agents, Swather's Choice is a liquid chemical hay conditioner. It is easily tank mixed with water and requires only fifteen gallons per acre in most applications, compared with the conventional products that are normally applied at 30 gallons per acre.

IN DOWNTOWN BRUNNERVILLE

Evening Of Change For Huntingdon Dairy Princess Pageant

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Co. Correspondent

ALEXANDRIA (Huntingdon Co.) — It was an evening of change at the Huntingdon Dairy Princess Pageant. A new dairy princess accepted the crown, the dairy princess coordinator title changed hands and a new dairy princess committee chairman took office.

At the Juniata Valley Elementary School in Alexandria, Master of Ceremonies Terry Bittner, program director and sports announcer for WHUN, introduced the two young women vying for the crown. Mindy Curfman of Three Springs and Jeri Peterson of Spruce Creek walked down the center aisle and onto a stage decorated with blue and pink balloons and streamers.

On stage, they watched, along with more than 100 friends and family members, as Bittner introduced a line-up of future Dairy Princess' and helpers — three Dairy Maids ages 13 through 15 (Monica Goshorn, Emily Metz, and Amanda Zook), seven Dairy Miss' ages 7 through 12 (Erin Baney, Charann Foster, Amber Lemin, Rebecca Peterson, Heather Sible, Lindsey Jo Yohn, Jamie Zook), and six Li'l Dairy Miss' ages 3 through 6 (Kaylee Fleck, Samantha Foster, Jodi Heeter, Mary Imler, Jodi Keith, Courtney Sible).

Huntingdon County maintains one of the strongest Dairy Promotion Programs in the state, enlisting the interest of girls in the Dairy Pageant at a young age.

At the podium as part of the selection process, Jeri and Mindy gave their creative presentations. The three judges, Dieter Kreig of Farmshine Magazine, Heidi O'Neal Ramsay, the 1986 PA State Alternate Dairy Princess, and Charles Ruslavage, retired professor of health and physical education at Clarion University, listened as Mindy spoke of using dairy products to enhance a smile rather than using tooth polishes. Mindy used the calcium in dairy products and physical therapy in her fight against polio as a child and ended her presentation with "Milk does a body good — and now you know why!"

Jeri followed with unique historical dairy product facts. Picture stories about cows date back to 8,000 B.C. Cows brought to America helped ease severe starvation in Jamestown. Tied to wagons going west, cows became a "family mobile food factory." Butter was discovered about 4,000 years ago in a very odd way. "It was accidentally churned in an animal skin pouch slung on the back of a horse or camel." With facts such as these, Jeri wondered, "Who knows! Maybe chocolate milk did come from a brown cow!"

After deliberating, the judges returned to announce Jeri Peterson, daughter of Don and Sandy Peterson, as the 1992 Huntingdon County Dairy Princess. Jeri plans to attend Penn State to study mathematics.

The 1991 Dairy Princess, Billie Jo Hoover, placed the Alternate sash around Mindy Curfman, daughter of John and Gwen Curfman. Minday will study pre-law at Juniata College.

Earlier in the program, outgoing Dairy Promotion Coordinator Eleanor Isenberg thanked everyone for supporting the promotion of dairy products and stressed that even though she will no longer ber serving in the capacity as coordinator, she will continue to promote dairy products as everyone should. Bernice Mowrer and Kristin Metzker will co-coordinate this position.

Andy Foster stepped to the podium as the new dairy promotion committee chairman. He hoped everyone had a chance to visit the display tables and milk bar.

Huntingdon County's strength in the Dairy Princess Program lies in these Li'l Dairy Miss' and Dairy Miss' and in the new coordinators for the program.

BAKED BEEF DIP

5-ounce jar sliced dried beef, chopped
2 8-ounce packages cream cheese, softened
1 cup dairy sour cream
¼ cup milk
4 teaspoons minced onion or 3 teaspoons dried minced onion
½ teaspoon garlic salt
Chopped walnuts or pecans

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Combine all ingredients except chopped nuts. Spoon into greased baking dish (9-inch pie plate or square pan). Top with chopped nuts. Bake at 350 degrees approximately 20 minutes or until bubbly. Serve with crackers, pretzels or chips.

I was the 1982 Adams County Dairy Princess. I married Ray Aubel (somewhat of a city boy now turned somewhat a country boy only when we visit my parents,' Jim and Jean Behney, farm in York Springs).

Ray and I have one son, Matthew, who is 3 years old. He enjoys visiting "Pappy's" farm and helping to feed the beef cows. At one time my parents had a dairy herd. We travel about 1¼ hours to the farm to continue to help with the summer field work such as haymaking.

I am a health and physical education teacher and also coach girls gymnastics. I enjoy sharing my farm knowledge with students as they are mostly suburban kids. We still have some farm kids but not as many as we used to.

I collect all kinds of cow items. Our family room has cow curtains, our dining room chairs have cows on the seats, and everyone at school knows that I collect cow items. When they need a cow gift item, they ask where I got it or where they can purchase it. It's hard to believe that my dairy promotion days have never ended.

I guess the old saying: "You can take the girl out of the country, but you can never take the country out of the girl" holds true for me. Have a moo-ing nice day.

My name is Norma Andrie. I am 21 years old, living at home and single. I own and operate a 20-head Guernsey milking herd that is paying my way through college at the Indiana University of Pa. I am a senior majoring in home economics education. After graduation, I plan to get a job as a Penn State Home Economist or as a teacher in a public school.

With my interest in foods and nutrition, I collect recipes and especially dairy recipes. This Peanut Butter Freeze is simply my favorite. My whole family goes "udderly" crazy when I take this to a family get-together. We all love it and the dairy products that are in it.

We operate a 80-cow dairy farm in Purcellville, Virginia. My husband, his parents, and our three children, Jessica, 13; Justin, 12; and Lindsay, 10; are all an integral part and take part in the operation. Our farm has been in my husband's family since 1747. We started the dairy in 1950. From 1910 to 1950, we were an apple orchard. The county where we live used to be a major dairy county; however, as of this year, they are only eight dairy farms. The city of Washington is 45 miles away so most of the land is being sold for development. We have many schools visit our farm to see a working dairy. Our main outside help are college students from out of the area.

ICE CREAM DESSERT

Mix together to form crust in a 9x36-inch pan:
36 crushed Oreo cookies
3 tablespoons whipped cream topping

Add:
½ gallon vanilla ice cream softened

Sprinkle with 12-ounces Spanish peanuts

Topping:

My husband Roger and I were both raised on dairy farms. I came from Lawrence County and my husband from Jefferson County where we live now. We were both involved in the 4-H program and both of us were 4-H leaders and that is how we met each other.

Roger farms 300 acres and milks 64 dairy cows, most of which are Holsteins, with his father and brother.

We have two children, Suzanna, 8; and Brian, 7. Both children love to go to the barn with Daddy and help with whatever they can. Both are helpful when it comes to gardening and picking berries in the summer.

Our house is decorated with Holstein cows and country decor. I enjoy sewing, baking, and making crafts. I have some crafts in the Kangaroo Pouch Country Craft Shop in Brockport on consignment. I am a licensed beautician, but work as a registered nurse at DRMC East Hospital. I work full time in the high-risk obstetrical department. I also do relief house supervision and orient many new employees to our department. I am also a regional instructor for the neonatal resuscitation program. Our OB department is a high-risk unit and we receive patients from several surrounding counties.

I visited Switzerland, Austria, and Germany last summer and enjoyed seeing the Swiss farmlands and talking to people there.

Adams County Names Dairy Princess

BIGLERVILLE (Adams County) — Melissa Wenger is the newest Adams County Dairy Princess.

Crowning of the 17-year-old Littlestown woman was the highlight of the county's annual Dairy Princess pageant, held June 13, the Biglerville High School.

Melissa received her crown and banner from outgoing princess Jayne Hess, after performing a promotional skit garbed as a cow and answering interview and on-the-spot questions.

A 1992 graduate of Gettysburg High School, Melissa is employed full time on the family farm of her parents, Rose and Ken Wenger. She works with both the 100-head dairy operation and field chores on the Wenger's Dawn-To-Dusk dairy farm at 470 Orphanage Road.

The new princess owns 12 registered Holsteins and has been active in showing through both the 4-H and FFA programs. A member of the Gettysburg Battlefield FFA chapter, Melissa has served as treasurer and participated in dairy judging.

As the 1992-93 dairy princess, Melissa will represent Adams County at both the July statewide princess training seminar and at the Harrisburg state pageant in late September.

Lindsey Kammerer was selected the Adams County Little Dairy Miss. Six-year-old Lindsey is the daughter of Marcie and Fred Kammerer, 110 Hunterstown-Hampton Road, Gettysburg.

Five Little Miss contestants won bouquets and banners as runners-up. They are Desiree' Schildt, 5, daughter of Barbara and Robert Schildt, New Oxford; Sarah Gieron, 5, daughter of Mark and Esther Gieron, New Oxford; Amanda Clowney, 6, daughter of John and Peggy Clowney, Gettysburg; Emily Lobaugh, 4, daughter of Jenni and Vincent Lobaugh, Asper; and Mollie Van Lieu, daughter of Phillip and Lou Ann Van Lieu, East Berlin.

Adams County Dairy Princess Melissa Wenger receives her crown from outgoing princess Jayne Hess.

Three Dairy Ambassadors were named during the pageant and directed an audience-participation, dairy-trivia game for program entertainment. The Ambassadors for the next year are Joy Hess, daughter of Bonnie and John Hess, Gettysburg; Melinda Wenger, daughter of Rose and Ken Wenger, Littlestown; and Laura Cunningham, daughter of Brenda and Michael Cunningham, Biglerville.

Both the Dairy Ambassadors and the Little Dairy Miss assist the princess with various school, community, and agriculture promotion activities in the county throughout the year.

Pageant emcee was York County dairy farmer Ralph McGregor. Judges were Jaylene Yoder, 1988-89 Mifflin County dairy princess, Cam Davis, dairy farmer from Union Bridge, Maryland; and Joyce Bupp, LANCASTER FARMING's York County correspondent.

Clinton County Names Dairy Promoters

LAMAR (Clinton Co.) — Clinton County dairy farmers held coronation ceremonies for their fourth dairy princess on Friday, May 29, at the Nittany Grange Hall in Lamar. Ivy Seyler, daughter of Gerald and Amy Seyler of R.D. 2, Jersey Shore, was crowned by outgoing dairy princess, Sabrina Dole.

Seyler is a member of the senior class of the Sugar Valley High School. She is an active member of the F.F.A., F.H.A., Varsity Club, and the girls softball team. She is active in 4-H. She serves as a leader of her club and enjoys showing her Jersey cattle. She is the owner of four cows.

Ivy is looking forward to representing the dairy farmers of Clinton County during the coming year. She began her duties on June 1. She has presented gifts from the dairy promotion committee to the first baby born in June. She attended the commissioners' meeting on June 3 and later that day she helped members of the dairy promotion committee serve ice cream to the staff at the Clinton County Courthouse. She served a milk punch and cheese and crackers on Dairy Day at the Mill Hall Agway Store. She has also attended several strawberry festivals in the county, passed out milk to participants of the Special Olympics in State College, helped with a dairy promotion sponsored by Clinton and Centre County Dairy Promotion Committees at the Nittany Mall in State College. She plans to attend a promotion at the Susquehanna Valley Mall on June 27 along with Dee Courter, Sue Dotterer, Bonnie Beck, and Ruth Schrack when they perform their puppet show "Why We Need Milk."

Two dairy maids were also honored at the ceremonies. They are Angela Beck, daughter of Ron and Bonnie Beck of R.R.3, Mill Hall, and Brenda Seyler, daughter of Gerald and Amy Seyler of R.D.2, Jersey Shore. Both girls read essays, which they had written, stating why they would like to serve the dairy industry.

Three dairy misses will also be helping the new princess. They are Amanda Dotterer, daughter of Larry and Joyce Dotterer of R.R.3 Mill Hall; Julie Schenck, daughter of Richard and Dottie Schenck of R.R.3 Mill Hall; and Jessica Fryer, daughter of John Fryer of R.R.3, Mill Hall and Connie Fryer of Loganton.

Candace Dotterer, daughter of Larry and Joyce Dotterer of R.R.3, Mill Hall will be a Little Dairy Miss. All the girls were presented with a bouquet of flowers and a gift from the dairy promotion committee.

Susquehanna County Holds Coronation

RONALD CLARK
Bradford/Susquehanna Co.

KINGSLEY (Susquehanna County) — The 1992 Susquehanna County Dairy Princess Pageant was held on June 12 at the Mountain View Elementary School, Kingsley. David Andre of Andrey and Sons, Montrose, was Master of Ceremonies.

Andre introduced the candidate, Melinda Garner, along with her parents, Jimmy and Kay Garner, Melinda, a senior at Montrose High School, is 17 years old. After she completes high school, she expects to attend college. She wishes to be an elementary art teacher.

In her demonstration, Melinda emphasized the "Real Seal" theme which has been in use this year. She gave many examples of the dietary advantages of milk and milk products, stressing that milk is nature's nearly most perfect food, and that the nutrient values of milk include calcium and many vitamins. She told how each was used by the body. Best of all, she pointed out, milk and milk products are delicious, and can add to the attractiveness of any meal.

Emcee Andre posed the question, "What person, outside your family, has been highly influential to you up to now." Her answer was that the Castrogiovanni family, prominent county dairymen, were of greatest influence, assisting her in learning how to show cows, how to prepare the animals for show, and encouraging her to participate in the 4-H Dairy Club.

Melinda has nine head of cattle out of a total of about 85 on her parent's farm. The operation is devoted to rotational grazing, and she is a promotor of letting the cows do as much harvesting as possible. Her other interests include membership in SADD, in the DES Dairy Club (Dimock, Elk Lane, Springville), and as mentioned, 4-H. She is a leader in Awanas in her church. She is anticipating a busy and interesting year in which she expects to add to her knowledge of the dairy industry.

The crown was bestowed upon Melinda by the 1991 Dairy Princess, Susan Jane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bowen Jayne of Hop Bottom. Susan made her farewells to the group, and took the traditional "walk" across the stage. She wished success to the new princess, and thanked her parents and many supporters for an interesting and beneficial year.

She also related the many promotional activities in which she took part. Being a home-taught high school junior, she was able to adjust her busy schedule to make the most of her promotional activities. She is especially grateful for the opportunity to work with early school students, and believes that their future can be enhanced by learning about milk and its products in the first few grades.

The procession of the 1991 Dairy Maids was also a part of the pageant. Present for this were Tiffany Gesford, daughter of Brian and Patsy Gesford, and Elizabeth Seman, daughter of Peter and Iliana Seman. Paul and Sue Harvatine were unable to be with their daughter, the other Dairy Maid, Nicole. The retiring Dairy maids were joined by the 1992 Dairy Maids. They are Andrea Garner, daughter of Jimmy and Kay Garner, and Constance Jean Marie Zebrowski, daughter of Conrad and Jean Zebrowski.

Dairy Princess Melinda Garner, Dairy Maid, sister Andrea, with their parents, Jimmy and Kay Garner, and brother Justin.

The event was arranged by the Dairy Princess Committee, headed by Susan Gesford. Throughout the proceedings, entertainment was furnished by vocal selections by April Beeman, Julie Compton, Rebecca Lopatofsky, T.J. Lopatofsky, Helen and Reina Wooden, and also featured a flute performance by Gretchen Richmond.

The naming of two new Dairies of Distinction was another significant part of the activities. Two farms were honored by Al Roszel, chairman of the Dairy of Distinction Committee. These are Byron and Pat Hunsinger of Elk Lake and William and Elaine Wood, of Gelatt.

During the period since the Dairy of Distinction program was begun in Pennsylvania in 1987, 12 of the 40 farms designated have been in Susquehanna County, according to Roszel. He congratulated the members for their good showing.

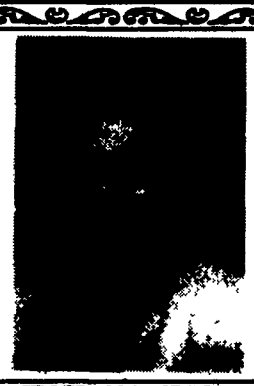
"Microwave Magic"

By:
Carol Stark



Fish. I never cooked it in my 28 years of marriage-except for fish sticks. However, one time my husband's secretary's husband gave us fish caught in the ocean. I had to do the scaling and filleting without any instructions. Futhermore, the children had fits about the smell, and by the time I got the fish into the frying pan, no one would eat it. I gave it to my neighbor who said it was great.

Then a young fellow I work with asked how to cook his fish in the microwave so I decided to research five recipes on fish, go to the market at our local grocery store and buy some fish that was cleaned and ready to cook. So tonight it's fish night at our house.

FISH WITH ASPARAGUS AND HOLLANDAISE

1 package (10 ounces) frozen asparagus
1 pound fresh or frozen fish fillets, cut into serving pieces
Salt and pepper
Paprika
1 tablespoon margarine or butter
Hollandaise Sauce

1. Place block of asparagus in baking dish, - 12 x 7 x 2 inches. Cover tightly and microwave on high (100 percent) 3 minutes; drain. Arrange asparagus spears lengthwise (tips in center) in center of dish. Cover tightly and microwave 3 minutes longer.

2. Arrange fish with thickest parts to outside edge in 9 inch pie plate. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and paprika; dot with margarine. Cover tightly and microwave on high (100 percent) 3 minutes; drain.

3. Arrange fish on both ends of asparagus. Cover tightly and microwave until fish flakes easily with fork, 3 to 4 minutes; keep warm.

4. Prepare Hollandaise Sauce. Pour sauce over fish and asparagus.

HOLLANDAISE SAUCE

3 tablespoons margarine or butter
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 teaspoons water
1 egg yolk

1. Place margarine in 1 cup measure. Microwave uncovered on high (100 percent) until margarine is melted, 30 to 45 seconds.

2. Add lemon juice and water. Beat in egg yolk with fork. Microwave uncovered on medium (50 percent), stirring every 15 seconds, until thickened, 40 to 65 seconds. (Do not ever cook or dip will curdle.) Cover and refrigerate until chilled but no longer than 2 days. Before serving, stir in 1 teaspoon hot water if necessary for smooth consistency. Refrigerate any leftover dip.

FISH WITH ZUCCHINI AND RED SAUCE

Tomato-Chili Sauce (below)
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
2 small zucchini, cut crosswide into 1/4 slices
1/4 teaspoon garlic salt
1/4 cup coarsely shredded carrot

TOMATO-CHILI SAUCE

1 cup chili sauce
2 teaspoons prepared horse radish
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/8 teaspoon salt

Mix all ingredients in 2 cup measure. Microwave uncovered on high (100 percent) until hot, 1 to 2 minutes; stir before serving.

1. Arrange fish with thickest parts to outside edge in 9 inch pie plate; sprinkle with salt. Cover tightly and microwave on high (100 percent) 3 minutes; drain.

2. Prepare Tomato-Chili Sauce. Spread 1 tablespoon of the sauce over each piece of fish; sprinkle with 1 tablespoon of the cheese. Arrange zucchini slices on fish; sprinkle with garlic salt and remaining cheese. Cover tightly and microwave on high (100 percent) until fish flakes easily with fork, 3 to 4 minutes. Top with shredded carrot and serve with remaining Tomato Chili Powder.

PARMESAN FISH WITH MUSHROOMS

4 ounces mushrooms, sliced
1/4 cup chopped onion
1 tablespoon margarine or butter
1 pound fresh or frozen fish fillets; cut into serving pieces.
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup dairy sour cream
3 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
2 tablespoons dry bread crumbs
2 Parprika
Snipped Parsley

1. Place mushroom, chopped onion and margarine in 1 quart casserole. Cover tightly and microwave on high (100 percent) until onion is crisp-tender, about 2 minutes; stir.

2. Arrange fish with thickest parts to outside edge in baking dish, 12 x 7 x 2 inches. Spoon mushroom mixture over fish; sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cover with waxed paper and microwave on high (100 percent) 3 minutes.

3. Mix sour cream and cheese; spread over mushroom mixture. Sprinkle with bread crumbs. Microwave uncovered on high (100 percent until fish flakes easily with fork, 3 to 5 minutes.) Sprinkle with paprika and snipped parsley.

VEGETABLE FISH CHOWDER

1 1/2 cups coarsely shredded cabbage
1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
1 cup hot water
2/3 cup thinly sliced carrot
1 small onion, thinly sliced
1 1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon red pepper
1 pound fresh or frozen fish fillets, cut into pieces
1 package frozen cut okra
1 cup hot water
3/4 cup uncooked instant rice

1. Mix cabbage, tomato sauce, 1 cup hot water, the carrot, onion, salt and red pepper in 3 quart casserole. Cover tightly and microwave on high (100 percent) 4 minutes; stir. Cover and microwave until carrots are crisp-tender, 3 to 4 minutes longer.

2. Stir in remaining ingredients. Cover tightly and microwave on high (100 percent) 6 minutes; stir. Cover and microwave until fish flakes easily with fork and vegetables are tender, 4 to 7 minutes longer.

BREADED LEMON FISH FILLETS

1/2 cup crushed round crackers
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon white pepper
1/4 cup margarine, melted
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 pound fresh fish fillets, cut into serving pieces
Paprika

Reserve 2 tablespoons cracker crumbs. Mix remaining crumbs with salt and pepper. Mix margarine and lemon juice. Dip fish into margarine mixture, then into cracker crumbs. Arrange fish with thickest parts to outside edge on microwave rack in baking dish. Sprinkle with paprika. Microwave uncovered on high (100 percent) 2 minutes; rotate baking dish 1/2 turn. Microwave until fish flakes easily with fork, 2 to 4 minutes longer. Sprinkle with reserved cracker crumbs. Garnish with lemon slices if desired.

Campbell At Loss To Express Thanks For Friendship Quilt

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

AKRON (Lancaster Co.) — "Keith (Campbell) is always such a talker," Elizabeth Martin said, "but when we gave him the quilt, he couldn't talk for awhile and his wife had tears."

Elizabeth of Buffalo Springs in Lebanon County was referring to the quilt that she and 82 customers made for Campbell's going away present. After nine years, Campbell, who worked for the American Breeder Service, bid farewell to his clients to farm his grandmother's 149-acre place in Owego, New York.

"He was just like part of everyone's family. He just knew every child and dog. We really liked him good, and hated to see him go," Elizabeth said as she explained why so many people took the time and effort to embroider quilt patches for Campbell.

"It's called a Friendship Quilt," Elizabeth said. "We sent out 82 patches to his customers. They put whatever design they wanted on the patch and sent it back to us. We sewed the patches together to make a blue and white quilt to match the Campbells' bedroom colors. Then the customers got together to quilt it."

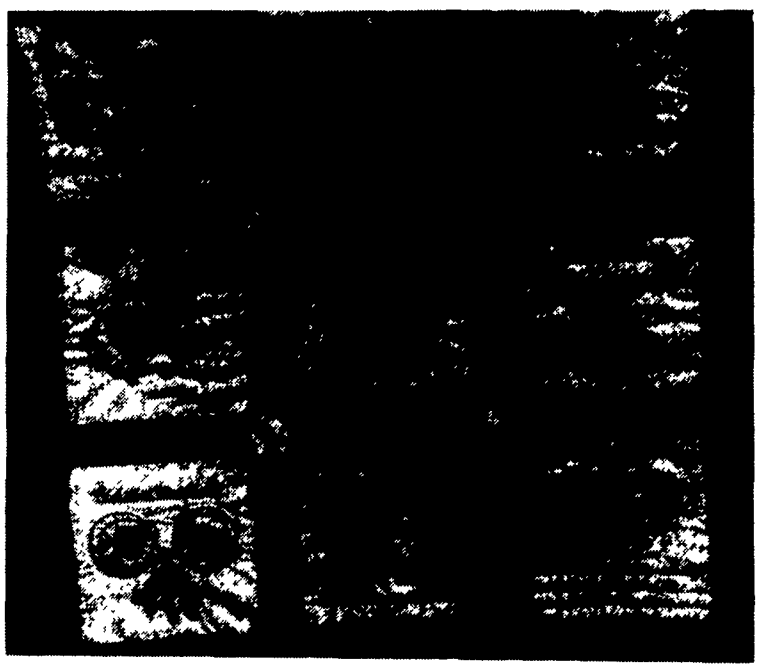
There were enough quilt patches to make a quilt, wall hanging, and four pillows. Each patch brings back special memories that Campbell shared with his clients.

There is the patch by Mrs. Amos Zook. It seemed every time, Campbell visited their farm, a rooster attacked his leg. So on her patch Mrs. Zook embroidered a rooster and three hens with the words: Buck, Buck, Buck. Cluck, Cluck, Cluck...Whose foot will I pick on now?

Mrs. Raymond Good of Ephrata took a picture of Campbell's truck that she transferred onto a patch with the barn in the background.

"I never even suspected what they were up to," Campbell said. The quilt was presented to him and his wife, Christine, and children, Kelly, 7, and Kent, 5, during a recent Customer Appreciation Barbecue and Picnic that Campbell holds every year for his clients.

Customers presented the Friendship Quilt to Keith Campbell in appreciation for his becoming like part of the family while he provided services for them.



A closeup of the wallhanging that was made for Keith Campbell shows the detail and originality of the patches made for the Friendship quilt, wallhanging, and four matching pillows.

Campbell said that he is returning to the family farm because his grandmother, Helen DeVita, wants to keep the home farm in the family.

"She will continue to live on the farm and we'd like to make Grandma's last years memorable," Campbell said. "But when I think of leaving my customers, I already feel like I made a mistake. People are so positive minded in this area. No matter what happens, they work together and help each other. I'm going to miss everyone of them."

His clients say they are going to miss him too. "He's friendly to talk to — that's how he got his business built up," Mrs. Martin said.

Campbell serviced about 150 clients and bred about 6,000 cows a year.

"I worked 363 days a year. I only took off for Christmas and Thanksgiving," Campbell said. "My customers were — and always will be — just like family to me."

4-H HAPPENINGS

The Tioga County 4-H Dairy Fun Day was held April 4 at the Tioga County Fairgrounds. Thirty six 4-H'ers arrived at 10 a.m. and started visiting hands-on demonstrations and finished the day at 3 p.m. with Square Dancing and Dairy Breed Bowl. In the morning they visited different stations from ham radio operators to looking inside a cow's udder to looking at bull semen under a microscope to looking up a cow's records on DHIA sheets. After lunch the building really got noisy according to Craig Williams, Dairy Agent for Tioga County Cooperative Extension. The music of 4-H'ers square dancing in one end of the building and loud cheers from the Breed Bowl competition in the other end rang out. Amy Fuller, Penn State Collegiate 4-H Club was on hand to help with the Breed Bowl Contest. Robin Wilbur, Pennsylvania Dairy Princess was on hand to help with Labeling the Cow demonstration and talking about being a State Princess over lunch.

The Milk Auction Committee members Jill Wood and Sherry Courtney led the Square Dancing, with help from Dr. Reese. All of the hands-on demonstrations were very informative and fun. Dr Reese from the Pine City Veterinary Clinic led the 4-H'ers through the inside of the udder and an in-depth look at the cow's reproductive tract. Dr. Thompson was called away on a farm visit, but not before she set up a microscope showing Mastitis organisms. Doug Wright from Agway and Tony Rishel from Purina showed different dairy feedstuffs and dairy rations. Diane McIlwain from Pa. DHIA helped members look up cow records on DHIA sheets. Rod Prutsman and Wayne Clark from Sire Power talked about the AI industry and showed bull sperm under a microscope. The Tioga County Ham Radio Club was a great hit and they talked to several different states during the day.

Brenda Hodder, Tioga County 4-H Leader and Robin Wilbur led the Pin The Cow Parts On The Cow, a great game provided by Leona Robson, this was a plywood cow cut-out painted like a Holstein.

The day was made possible by the buyers at the 1991 Tioga County Milk Auction. The 1992 Tioga County Fair will soon be here, August 4 - 9, and so will the next Milk Auction. Last year's milk buyers were: First Citizen's National Bank, Greco's Super Duper, Knoxville Check-R-Board and Middlebury Coop were presented with buyer pictures from 1991. The 4- H Dairy Fun Day is to benefit the county's dairy 4-H'ers with new and innovative educational programs. For more information on the Tioga County Milk Auction, please contact the Tioga County Cooperative Extension office at 717-724-1906.

4-H Carwash

The Huntingdon County 4-H members are trying to do their part in helping Penn State into the Big 10 by going on an exchange trip in Ohio.

They will be going to Franklin County in August. The 4-H members plan to visit Ohio State University and the Ohio State Fair as part of their trip.

Next summer, the 4-H mmebers will host the delegation from Ohio and show them what central Pennsylvania is like.

To help cover the expense of the trip, the 4-H County Council is holding two carwashes this summer at McDonalds in Huntingdon. The dates of the carwashes are June 13 and July 11 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The cost of the carwash is $3 for cars and $4.50 for trucks and vans.

4-H Lamb Show

The Maryland Hampshire Sheep Association announces their first annual Jackpot Market Lamb Show.

The jackpot show gives 4-H and FFA members a checkpoint for their market lamb project. The show will be held Sunday, July 5, 1992.

The early July timing will give the 4-H and FFA members adjustment time before their county shows and state fairs.

The judge for this year's event will be Tim Fleener. Fleener is a director for the American Hampshire Sheep Association and has a flock of Hampshire sheep.

This year's show will be held on the back lot at Ceresville Ford New Holland, Route 26 east, Frederick, Md.

For more information, contact Robert Dinsmore, 5842 Broad Run Rd., Jefferson, MD 21755, (301)371-4483. Entry deadline is July 3.

4-H Shepherds

Twenty-four lambs were identified by using Bureau of Animal Industry ear tags and were weighed at the Franklin County 4-H Shepherds' recent meeting. Lambs ranged in weight from 24 pounds to 86 pounds with the average weight being 53 pounds. Total weight was 1,279 pounds.

Members practiced injection skills as they treated lambs for roundworms. Following the weigh-in, members held a brief business meeting at which Secretary Carmen Horst announced that the route for PennDOT trash pickup has been changed from Social Island Road to Horst Road beginning in July. Upcoming county level demonstrations and public speeches were discussed.

Carmen Horst, Chambersburg, and Diana Coady, Spring Run, received best of show trophies for their bread projects exhibited at the County Spring Roundup. Rachel Coady, Spring Run, received notification of her winning a trip to National 4-H Congress in Chicago for her work with the 4-H bread project.

The Shepherds gathered at the 4-H Center recently for a farewell to Amber and Moses Kempthorne, who will be moving to Liberty, Ky. in July. Club members and parents viewed a film made for Public Television of the Galilean Ministries, a large school and orphanage for handicapped children at which Amber's and Moses' father will be administrator.

Adams Co. 4-H

Adams County 4-H Club presidents, vice presidents, secretaries, treasurers, news reporters, song leaders, and game leaders were acquainted with their duties and responsibilities at the 1992 4-H officers training session. Adams County 4-H Senate Committee planned the session to help each officer become better informed of their particular office responsibilities.

Specific workshop presenters were Mary Jane Hilbert, Gettysburg National Bank, treasurers' workshop; Rob Holt, "Gettysburg Times," news reporters' workshop; Carol Rex, upper Adams 4-H leader, secretaries' workshop; 4-H teen leaders Dan Ludwig, Gettysburg, and Beau Ramsburg, Gettysburg, game leaders' workshop; Karen King, York Springs, Lilly Keller, York Springs, Laura Giardullo, York Springs, and Beth Green, Gettysburg, song leaders' workshop; and Amy Miller, 4-H teen leader, New Oxford and Jared Tyson, County 4-H agent, presidents' and vice presidents' workshop. More than 70 4-H members attended.

Special recognition was given to the Dairy, Cashtown, and Sheep 4-H Clubs for having all their officers at officers training. Registration was done by Sonja Smith, Gettysburg; Debbie Wilkinson, Gettysburg; Travis Green, Gettysburg; and Beau Ramsburg, Gettysburg. Each officer received a 4-H notepad and pencil from the Adams County 4-H Senate. Refreshments were served by the Bonneauville 4-H Club.

4-H Beef Club

The Lancaster County 4-H Beef Club met Wednesday, June 3, at the West Lampeter Fairgrounds.

The club got together with the 4-H Woolies and 4-H Swine clubs for an evening of interesting activities.

A judging contest was held, giving members and parents a chance to judge market hogs, Hampshire ewes, beef heifers, and steers.

The club also held a garage sale of show equipment.

The meeting came to a close with an ice cream social.

Eggs Add More To Foods Than Flavor, Nutrition

HUNTINGDON (huntingdon Co.)— Most people are aware of the nutritional benefits of eggs. But the value of eggs as a food ingredient goes beyond nutrition and flavor.

"Eggs have been called the cement that holds the castle of cuisine together," says Alan McConnell, poultry products extension aide in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences. "Many people don't realize that eggs are used in foods for their emulsifying, leavening and coagulating properties."

Emulsifiers are natural or synthetic molecules that help oil or fat-containing ingredients mix with water or ingredients that contain water. "Emulsifiers essentially have two ends," explains McConnell. "One end mixes with the water and the other mixes with the oil or fat, preventing them from separating.

"Salad dressings and mayonnaise are basically mixtures of oil and water or vinegar," McConnell says. "Without emulsifiers, your jar of mayonnaise would contain an unappetizing white blob with a puddle of oil on top.

"Egg yolk contains a variety of proteins and lipid molecules, such as lecithin and cholesterol, that act extremely well as emulsifying agents. Whole eggs, egg yolks or other emulsifying agents help to make the mayonnaise a smooth, creamy spread."

When you prepare an omelet or souffle, you are taking advantage of the leavening, or foaming property of eggs. McConnell says the egg white, or albumen, is responsible for the foaming. "Beating the eggs rapidly adds a lot of air. The protein molecules of the egg white link together and trap the air inside."

Eggs are especially good foaming agents because they produce a large volume of foam that is stabilized during cooking. "When you think of the foaming or leavening properties of eggs," says McConnell, "think of an angel food cake, the meringue on a lemon pie, a cream puff or a puffy souffle."

Coagulation is the conversion of the liquid egg to a solid or semi-solid state, usually by heat. Anytime you fry, scramble, poach or boil an egg, you are coagulating it. Upon heating, the structure of the protein molecules changes and the proteins bind tightly together.

Coagulation of eggs is useful in the preparation of other foods. "Coagulated egg protein binds together ingredients in meat loaves, casseroles, cookies and cakes," says McConnell. "It also is responsible for the thickening of custards and sauces. This property of eggs is very difficult to duplicate with any other food ingredient."

In addition to their usefulness as a food ingredient, eggs have nutritional value. "Eggs contain 13 vitamins — all but vitamin C — and are one of the few foods that contain vitamin D," he says. "Egg protein is a good source of the amino acids methionine, lysine, cystine and tryptophan, which are in limited supply in many other major foods. Except possibly for mother's milk, eggs provide the best available natural protein.

"Besides all that, eggs taste good, and they are quick and easy to prepare."

FFA Attracts More Students To Agriculture

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — A grassroots effort to interest junior high and high school students in agricultural education and FFA has resulted in the first membership increase in 14 years for the National FFA Organization. Total membership to date for 1992 is 400,552, a gain of 17,804 students from last year.

The increase in FFA membership means that more students are enrolled in agriculture courses and are pursuing careers in agriculture.

Larry Case, coordinator of agricultural and rural education for the U.S. Department of Education, said, "An increase in FFA membership is a very encouraging sign for the agricultural industry. The growth translates into more potential employees who have a greater appreciation and understanding of agriculture. It also shows that students, parents, school administrators and guidance counselors are beginning to realize the tremendous career opportunities available in agriculture."

The growth spurt comes none too soon from industry's perspective. The U.S. Department of Agriculture forecasts significant shortages of qualified workers in agricultural science, engineering, management and finance, marketing, merchandizing, sales, and social services.

The breadth of the increase is significant. Forty states report growth, the largest being Texas with 6,000 new members, a 17 percent jump. FFA officials cite several reasons for the upswing, including updated courses and aggressive enrollment efforts by teachers. Both are based on a strategic plan developed by the agricultural education profession in 1989.

Oklahoma, where membership grew by 2,000 in two years, is a good example. In 1990, all 371 agriculture departments in the state switched from teaching traditional production agriculture to a curriculum emphasizing natural resources, agricultural technology, horticulture, and other updated areas of study.

"We give almost all the credit for our increase to a change in curriculum," said Kent Boggs, Oklahoma FFA executive secretary. "The teachers were really excited about it, and the students were hungry for new programs." The state legislature took notice and, over the last three years, helped fund 99 new greenhouses for use in horticulture programs.

Project Growth, a recruitment program developed by the National FFA Organization, also has been beneficial, Boggs said. It provides every teacher with information and materials to help interest students and offers tips for recruiting. Project Growth is sponsored by Monsanto Agricultural Company as a special project of the National FFA Foundation.

In California, where membership jumped by 2,300 students, agriculture teachers such as David Caetano at Tulare Union High School are amazed at the increased interest in agriculture. His chapter has 120 new members, putting his roster at a bulging 340 students. Caetano attributes the growth to a good recruiting program, quality students, and many activities. Young students are especially drawn to the 100-acre school farm and the environmental emphasis in the classroom.

Though this large of an increase is unusual, Caetano said, "I think our numbers are going to hold solid, and the quality of students is what's important." Keeping the program in line with academic requirements for college has helped attract college-bound students. Those students recruit their classmates and the program keeps growing.

The increase in national FFA membership is even more notable considering the dwindling number of family farms and continuing decline in the total number of high school students, said Marshall Stewart, teacher services team leader for the National FFA Organization. Stewart credits the grassroots efforts for the turnaround. "Teachers are the key. They make it happen," he said.

Cleaning Alternatives

LEWISBURG (Union Co.) — Decreasing your dependence on the number of chemicals used in your household for cleaning and maintenance can take several months or years. Two factors that determine how quickly you can replace commercial products with less hazardous alternatives are the number of products you have and how often you use them. The next time you finish using up a product containing a hazardous substance, look for a safer alternative that can be used in its place. The safer alternative might be in your kitchen cabinet. For instance, did you know that the ketchup you put on your fries and hamburgers can also be used to polish copper pots, pans and decorative items.? It really works! For those who question the polishing ability of this edible polisher, test it using a penny (yes, the kind that you spend). Put a penny in a small amount of ketchup. Let it stand for about 3-5 seconds. Rub off immediately with a damp cloth. A paste of lemon juice and salt rubbed with a soft cloth also works on copper bottoms that are badly soiled.

After identifying products in your home that contain harmful chemicals, consider the recommendations below for eliminating or decreasing the number of hazardous products you use and buy in the future.

- Use up products for intended purposes as recommended by manufacturer.
- Give unwanted products (excluding drugs) to someone who can use them up. Although that half full can of paint is of no use to you, perhaps a school art club, parks and recreation department, or shelter for the homeless, battered women and children could use it. When giving away unwanted products, be sure the products are clearly labeled and instructions for using are attached.
- Substitute safer alternatives whenever possible. Make a list of all the products containing hazardous chemicals that could be replaced by using baking soda, white vinegar, borax, lemon, salt, and soap.

Our entire family loves Lancaster Farming*. Thank you for allowing us the opportunity to share with our readers.*

My parents, Clarence and Marlene Sattazahn own and operate a dairy farm in western Berks County. We feel very fortunate to be a part of a farm family. Our family includes Mom and Dad (Clarence and Marlene) and Karen and Steve Mohn, Kevin, Sherri, and Brett Sattazahn, and Kirk Sattazahn.

Our family enjoys spending time together whether it is at a Reading Phillies game, ice cream parlor or at the family farm.

CHICKEN CASSEROLE

1 pound noodles cooked in chicken broth
1 pint carrots, cooked and save juice
1 quart peas
½ pound Velvetta cheese, melt in carrots
8-ounces cream cheese, melted in peas

Put everything together and bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes or until lightly browned on top. Buttered bread crumbs may be used for topping.

My husband and I live on a 118-acre dairy farm. We have 40 cows. We only have one child, a son Glenn, who is almost 12 years old. He is a big help on the farm. I was born and raised near Ephrata and my husband was born and raised close to Leola. We farmed in the Brownstown area before we moved to Bedford County in 1976. We like this area, but miss our family and friends in Lancaster County.

LIME-YOGURT SALAD

1 14 oz. can pear halves
1 6 oz. box lime gelatin
2 cups boiling water
1 8 oz. container lemon yogurt

Drain pears, reserving ½ cup syrup; slice pears. Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Measure one cup gelatin; blend in yogurt and pour into 8-inch square pan. Chill until set but not firm. Add measured syrup to remaining gelatin and chill until slightly thickened. Arrange pear slices on gelatin-yogurt layer and top with clear gelatin. Chill until firm, about three hours. Cut into squares. Makes nine servings.

This year the crops are being planted on time and we have finished the corn planting 465 acres this year. We have a herd of 380 Holstein cows and keep busy with the bookkeeping and heifer raising with 96 heifers out on pasture in three different areas of town. My husband and I drive out to check them every other day. We also raise heifers on our other farm that is 2½ miles away. Our son David lives with us and is our herdsman now.

PARTY CHICKEN

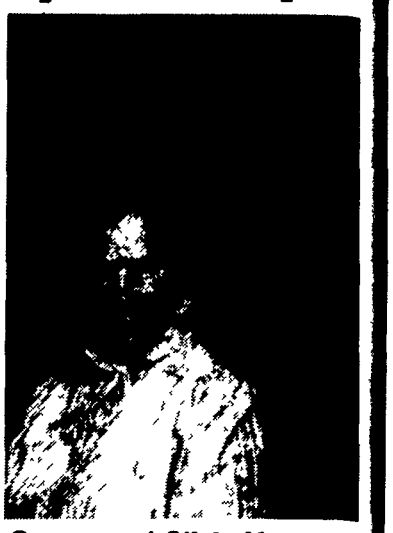
½ package dried chipped beef
1 pint sour cream
1 can cream of mushroom soup
1 can cream of chicken soup
4 slices bacon

Shred dried chipped beef and cover bottom of a casserole dish. Cut bacon slices in half. Wrap each boned and skinned chicken breast in bacon slice. Layer on top of dried chipped beef. Mix soups and sour cream together and pour on top of chicken. Bake for 3 hours at 275 degrees in center of oven.

My husband George and I farm 45 acres. We rent some fields. We raise hay and corn and have about a dozen beef animals, mostly cross breeds.

We love living in a rural area and seeing rabbits, squirrels, deer, and sometimes a hawk. We wouldn't trade this life for the rat race of city life.

We've been reading Lancaster Farming for several years. I especially enjoy Home on the Range and Ida Risser's column. Have tried many recipes from the paper, mostly with good success.



George and Olivia Merryman

Our six children are gone. Five are married and with families. One has gone on and waits for us on heaven's shore. She died at age 30, almost 3 years ago, from scleroderma. We love the Lord and try to serve Him each day. What better way to be close to God than on a farm?

My husband Ernie and I met while attending Penn State University. We now farm in Erie County. We have a one-year-old daughter Betsy, who already loves being a farmer. She enjoys chasing the barn cats, yelling at the cows, and playing in the hay. My hobbies include quilting, sewing, and reading. My husband keeps busy with milking and field work, but when he gets a chance, he likes to work on his antique John Deere BR tractor.

How To Purchase Trees, Shrubs

Balled and burlapped, as well as container plants, are now for sale in great abundance at local garden centers and other stores. A few suggestions are in order to help you be more successful in getting the ornamental plants to grow on your home grounds:

Certainly, buying at a garden center or local nursery has advantages. You can consult with the plant experts on the characteristics of different plants — and how they can be used in the landscape. These places will usually offer a tree-and-shrub-planting service if you want it. Some will even prepare landscaping plans. Plants are frequently better-watered and otherwise cared-for — so these are often the better places to buy later in the spring planting season. Prices may be a bit higher — and they should be.

Plants that set out on blacktop in front of stores are usually very good plants, too. But — it's tough to keep these sufficiently-watered and protected from the heat from the black-top surface. In short, if you can buy shortly after such plants are unloaded from the truck, you can often get very-good plants. But be careful if buying several weeks (or even months) later. Look for symptoms of heat and dry-root stress then. Shop elsewhere if plant leaves are badly-wilted, yellowing or dropping.

When buying small plants in small containers (say, 6-inch diameter pots) — if possible, invert the pot over your outstretched fingers — and then lift the container off to see if the plant is root-bound. (Be very careful to not shake loose some of the potting mix.) If the plant is root-bound, shop elsewhere.

Delmarva Contest Names Top Chicken Cooks

Dewsnap, a first-time contest finalist, received an all-inclusive seven-day Caribbean vacation for two, $1,000, a Frigidaire range, LP gas grill, CUTCO cutlery, and a collection of McCormick spices for his "Chicken Royale," an elegant but easy dish created especially for the competition.

The recipe uses boneless, skinless chicken breast halves topped with steamed spinach leaves, herb-flavored cheese, and walnuts. The chicken is folded around the spinach and cheese to form a mound, seasoned with salt and pepper, and baked for 30 minutes. A simple sauce of white wine, bottled raspberry vinaigrette dressing, and margarine is spooned over the chicken just before serving.

The contest's second prize of $1,500 and a Frigidaire dishwasher went to Judith Mettlin of Snyder, New York for her flavorful "Ginger Aromatic Chicken." Whole chicken legs with skin removed are quickly browned and then simmered in a sauce of balsamic vinegar, low-sodium soy sauce, catsup, and fresh ginger. The recipe was created out of a desire to prepare a dish that was low in fat yet high in flavor. Mettlin, the mother of two daughters, enjoys gardening, swimming, and biking.

Barbara Gulino, a young mother from Portland, Maine, received third prize of $1,000 and a Frigidaire microwave oven for her recipe, "Roast Chicken with Curried Honey Mustard Sauce." Two honorable mentions of $200 each were awarded to Gloria Bove of Bethlehem, Pennsylvania for "Red Peppered Raspberry Chicken" and to Lynn Akers of Salem, Virginia for her "'90s Style Chicken Salad."

The Delmarva Cook-off, held this year in Salisbury, Maryland, included 26 finalists from 12 eastern states and the District of Columbia. In addition to an expense-paid trip to the contest finals, each contestant received a three-piece gift set from CUTCO cutlery, a commemorative pewter cup, and gifts from McCormick and Company.

A 32-page cookbook containing the recipes of all 1992 finalists plus winners from past competitions and other timely chicken dishes, is available at $2 per copy (postage included) from Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc., sponsor of the biennial contest. To receive a copy, send a check or money order (no cash) to: Cookbook, c/o Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc., R.D. 2, Box 47, Georgetown, Delaware 19947-9622.

Chicken Royale

2 whole broiler-fryer chicken breasts, halved, boned, skinned
1 package (4 ounces) Boursin or other herb-flavored cheese, quartered
½ cup English walnuts, finely chopped
4 large spinach leaves, steamed slightly
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
½ cup dry white wine
½ cup bottled rapsberry vinaigrette dressing
2 tablespoons margarine

On hard surface with meat mallet or similar flattening utensil, pound chicken to ¼ -inch thickness. Roll the cheese quarters in walnuts. Place one spinach leaf on each breast; top with a cheese quarter. Fold chicken around spinach and cheese to form a mound. Sprinkle salt and pepper over chicken. Place chicken in baking pan. Cover and bake in 350° F. oven 30 minutes or until chicken is fork tender. In small frypan, mix together wine and raspberry vinaigrette dressing. Cook over medium heat until sauce is reduced by one-half; stir in margarine. Pour sauce over chicken. Serve with rice. Makes 4 servings.

Ginger Aromatic Chicken

4 whole broiler-fryer chicken legs (thigh and drumstick attached), skinned
2 tablespoons unsalted butter, divided
1 teaspoon minced fresh ginger
3 tablespoons balsamic vinegar
2 tablespoons low-sodium soy sauce
1 tablespoon catsup
¼ cup fresh snipped chives
Snow peas, blanched

In large non-stick frypan, place 1 tablespoon of the butter and melt over medium heat. Reduce heat to low, add ginger and cook 5 minutes. Stir in vinegar, soy sauce, and catsup. Remove from pan; set aside. In same frypan, place remaining tablespoon of butter; add chicken, adjust heat to medium and cook, 4 mintues per side, or until brown. Add ginger sauce; reduce heat to low, cover and cook, turning once, about 25 minutes or until chicken is fork tender. Arrange chicken on platter; spoon ginger sauce over chicken. Sprinkle with chives. Garnish with snow peas. Makes 4 servings.

Roast Chicken With Curried Honey Mustard Sauce

2 whole broiler-fryer chicken breasts, halved
1 small onion, chopped
1/3 cup honey
1/3 cup spicy mustard
1 tablespoon curry powder
2 garlic cloves, minced

In small bowl, make sauce by mixing together onion, honey, mustard, curry, and garlic. Place chicken, skin side up, in single layer in large shallow baking pan. Pour sauce over chicken and bake in 350° F. oven, basting every 15 minutes, about 1 hour or until chicken is fork tender. Serve with rice. Makes 4 servings.

Red Peppered Raspberry Chicken

4 whole broiler-fryer chicken legs (thigh and drumstick attached)
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup butter, melted
1 cup seedless red raspberry jam
1/3 cup balsamic vinegar
2 tablespoons soy sauce
½ teaspoon crushed red peper flakes
Parsley

In large shallow baking pan, place chicken. Sprinkle with salt and pepper; drizzle butter over chicken. Bake, basting occasionally, in 375° F. oven about 45 minutes or until chicken is brown. In small saucepan, mix together jam, vinegar, soy sauce, and red pepper flakes. Cook, stirring, over medium heat until smooth. Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Due to the ample rainfall, we have really tall sugar peas again this year. The two 100-foot rows are more than six feet tall. It does give me easy picking compared to shorter stalks.

Several people have come to photograph my garden. One attraction is the very old brick smokehouse in the center of it with gray shingles on the roof. It has a grape vine on two sides and an apple balm type of tea surrounding it. Oh yes, I've also put Golden Glow, Clematis, and Monarda, also known as Bee Balm nearby.

I've also planted some peach cantaloupe and nutmeg melons this year. The names sounded intriguing and I hope that I've given them enough space to spread out. In the corner of my one triangular garden is a patch of wildflowers. They were sent to me by my daughter in Georgia with her Christmas card. Really, I did not expect they would even come up so I sowed them quite thickly. Now I do believe that everyone came up and I'm anxious to see if they will bloom. The same thing could be said of the hillside behind our house as it too was seeded to wildflowers. So far only one tiny plant has bloomed but I transplanted a lot of German Chamomile there with its small white daisies and hope they'll reseed.

When we built our new log house my husband wanted to have the large lot completely cleared. But, I ask that a corner remain in large trees and brush. Now when I pick peas, I'm amazed at all the different bird songs that I hear there. It is such a dense growth that I never see the birds but only hear their songs.

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Society 14

Lancaster Farm Women #14 have been enjoying many interesting meetings this spring; thanks to the planning of our Program Committee chaired by Viola Hostetter.

April 9th was a great day as members took a one-day bus trip to Alexandria, Va. The tour escort explained the historic old buildings with so much vibrance it made the tour most interesting and educational. Members toured Arlington Cemetery. One cannot but experience an awesome effect as you see and think about all the lives lost in our country's wars. The unexpected bonus of the trip was seeing the cherry blossoms in full bloom. Thanks to Janet Leaman for co-ordinating the trip.

May 13th was a lovely day for the luncheon at the Weidman House in Mt. Joy. Members went on to the home of Daniel Gates for his program of showing and telling about his collection of Antique Mechanical Music Instruments.

On May 27, 23 of our members were among the 965 women that attended the Spring Rally of statewide members of Farm Women Societies.

On June 10, members were privileged to entertain Society #21 at the Farm and Home Center. Members carried in hot and cold dishes enabling us to serve a nice lunch for our guests. The Bell Choir from Neffsville Mennonite Church took members on a tour of our Country's many National Parks. She has traveled much and does enjoy the Indian Reservations.

The president conducted a business meeting. The sewing Committee had a quilt to show which they finished for a lady from Philadelphia.

The meeting was adjourned by repeating the Farm Women Prayer and looking forward to a summer of great get-togethers starting with the Picnic July 9.

Berks Society 6

The Berks County Society of Farm Women, Group #6, met in the home of Pearl Hoffman, Church Hill Road, Reading, for their June meeting. A covered dish made with a dairy product were brought to the meeting and enjoyed by the seven members and one guest. The roll call question was "Do You still drink milk?"

The Reading Scenic River Days will be July 30, 31 and August 1,2.

County Board news was given by the president, Pearl Hoffman.

The County Convention will be held October 3, at the Haag's Hotel in Shartelsville.

The July 21, meeting will be at the home of Mary Jane Hetrick, Limekiln.

The family picnic will be held August 9, at the Oley Legion grove.

The kränzle pump is direct drive. No belts or pulleys to tighten. No moving external parts for user safety. The direct drive pump gives us greater motor bearing life and allows us to produce 10-15% more PSI & GPM than a crankcase pump. All pumps run at 1800 RPM for longer life.

Brass head CU ZN39PB3; Plungers triplex ceramic: Packing, teflon with moylbdene, which gives us long life even if run dry. Valves stainless cartridge (1.4303) will draw water 9' from open vessel. Pump can be easily serviced - no special tools needed.

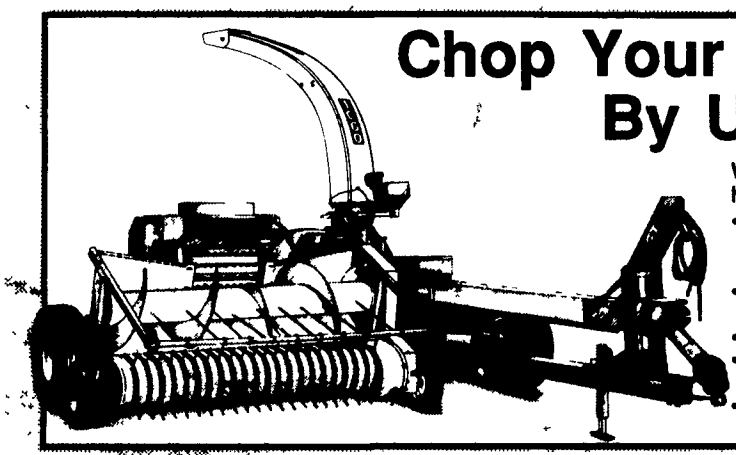
GEHL®



Chop Your Harvesting Time By Up To 20%

When it comes to harvesting your forage, time is money. And Gehl forage harvesters get the job done faster with these performance features:

- Exclusive Auto-Max Load-Sensing System — Increase capacity by up to 20%. Lets you operate at top capacity without the fear of downtime due to overloading.
- Metal-Stop Metal Detector - Prevents machine damage and hardware disease.
- In-Head Hydraulic Knife Sharpener - Lets you sharpen knives in the field
- Patented One-Sided Cutterbar Adjustment - Makes adjusting the cutterbar quick and easy.
- Three Models To Choose From - Including the largest capacity pull-type forage harvester on the market.

Common Sense Mower Conditioners

- Full-width intermeshing conditioning rolls with intermittent ribs deliver thorough, uniform conditioning.
- Simple sickle drive with pivot-arm design provides more cutting force.
- Fewer moving parts than competitive models for worry-free performance.
- Three-point flotation support protects the cutterbar from rocks and uneven terrain.
- Two models with 7-foot and 9-foot cutting widths available.

OPTIONS IN DEAD BIRD DISPOSAL

Paul H. Patterson
Assistant Professor
Poultry Science

The important job of properly disposing of poultry farm mortalities is often left at the bottom of everyone's priority list of "things to do."

It's a nasty job walking the floor or cage rows picking up mortalities and disposing of the carcasses. Therefore, any effort that can be made to eliminate hurdles and simplify the process will undoubtedly lead to happier employees and a cleaner and more biosecure poultry farm.

Like the disposal of manure, there is often little if any economic incentive to improve dead bird disposal systems. However, it is a facet of poultry production that deserves ample attention because of the negative impact improper disposal can have upon the disease status of your flock and contamination of the environment.

Several systems allow for the recovery of nutrients for recycling back into crop and livestock systems. The options in dead bird disposal are limited; each have merits and limitations that make decision-making difficult for the long- and short-term goals of the farm or complex.

• Burial pits provide an environment for both aerobic and anaerobic microorganisms to decompose carcasses. Pit size is an important consideration to ensure adequate capacity for normal flock mortality. Broiler, layer, and turkey pits should each have 0.5, 0.7, or 3.0 cubic feet of capacity per 1,000-bird production capacity per year of storage for each one percent of death loss. Cold temperatures can greatly slow the rate of carcass decomposition in winter. In addition, soil type and water table must be considered to avoid groundwater contamination.

• Incineration is an attractive option from the standpoint of biosecurity, destruction of pathogenic organisms, and the elimination of flies associated with disposal. Smoke and air quality, however, are a concern and the initial investment in the equipment and its longevity and operating costs ($.03-.035 per pound of bird for propane) can be drawbacks. Neither burial or incineration have a long-term future because of environmental concerns.

• Composting of dead birds with wheat straw, old hay, or shavings has become a popular process of incorporating dead bird nutrients back into a useful soil amendment. Advantages include reduced odor or insects and destruction of most pathogenic organisms from the high temperatures generated during the composting process (130-150 degrees F). An acceptable recipe for ingredients on a weight basis would include farm mortalities, poultry litter, straw, and water at a ratio of 1:2:0.1:0.25. Composters for a 40,000-bird flock would typically be designed in two stages with two 420 cubic foot bins for the first stage and a single 420 cubic foot second-stage bin. The composting process does not eliminate material that would have to be sold or spread on fields but it decomposes the carcasses and produces a nutrient-rich compost. The cost of materials to build a composter, including the concrete pad, will range from $3,000 to $5,000. Total costs will depend on composter size, your labor costs, and necessary materials.

• Rendering, like incineration, can be an effective means of eliminating potential disease-causing carcasses from the farm. In addition, one is recycling valuable nutrients back into the livestock food chain. Unfortunately, if farms are on the perimeter of a rendering plant's hauling radius or a scale too small to generate a full load, the hauling costs can go beyond any payments you may receive from the carcasses. These poor returns result in producers essentially giving up the valuable nutrients to the renderer or opting to incinerate or return them to the soil.

• Ensiling is a relatively old technology with a new application as a means of eliminating pathogenic microorganisms and pickling carcass nutrients for later utilization in poultry and livestock feeds. Carcasses are roughly ground into anaerobic containers and some type of fermentable carbohydrate is added (molasses, sugar, condensed brewers' solubles, corn starch, or corn meal). The natural population of microorganisms in the birds' intestines ferment the carbohydrates, generating an acid environment that reduces the pH and increases temperatures, thus eliminating disease-causing microorganisms. These same conditions preserve the carcass nutrients for months on the farm before rendering or fabrication with other dry feeds. Farm scale ensiling tanks are now in place in Georgia and Alabama. In Hawaii, we successfully ensiled condemned carcasses and offal (3:1) from a broiler processing plant with 10 percent sucrose. The Salmonella and other microorganisms were eliminated as lactic acid formation reduced the pH to a value of 4.0 within 2 days. Odor and insects are eliminated with the sealed containers while nutrients can be reclaimed at a later date. We extruded the semiliquid end products after 7 days with by-product feedstuffs and fed them to broilers through 6 weeks of age. Birds fed the ensiled-extruded by-products incorporated at a rate of up to 30 percent of the diet had equal body weights, feed conversions, and parts yield when compared with birds fed a commercial corn-soy control diet. As commercial tanks and ensilage equipment become available, we may see more of these units in commercial application.

For those wishing to see dead bird composters and ensiling systems in operation on a commercial scale, tours will be going on in conjunction with the National Poultry Waste Management Symposium in Birmingham, Ala., on October 6-8.

Record Crowd Attends World Pork Expo

DES MOINES, Iowa — A new attendance record was set at the fifth annual World Pork Expo recently.

According to the National Pork Producers Council, which sponsored the event in association with the National Pork Board, 70,339 persons went through the gates at the Iowa State Fairgrounds. Unlike recent years, Expo was blessed with nearly perfect weather.

"We are extremely pleased at the continued strong and growing interest in World Pork Expo on the part of consumers as well as producers. We can promise you that next year's show, June 11-13 in Des Moines, will be even bigger and better," said Gary Slater, World Pork Expo manager.

Baron & His Pitmasters, led by Paul Kirk, Roeland Park, Kan. was named the overall winner of the Great Pork BarbeQlossal™, a gigantic barbecue cookout competition sponsored by Pfizer Animal Health. Kirk took home a $4,000 cash award.

While consumers came to Expo to enjoy the barbecued pork and entertainment, pork producers from across the nation and more than 1,000 foreign visitors from 42 countries attended to see and hear the latest information about the pork industry.

Pork producers from around the world also purchased $464,830 worth of breeding stock during the shows and sales of the eight major hog breeds.

Ag Rector Visits Pa.

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Changes in the former Soviet Union are creating new opportunities for scientists and educators in the United States as members of the Commonwealth of Independent States seek outside expertise during their transition to an open market economy.

Ukraine, for instance, is moving closer to the Keystone State this summer. Dr. Dmitry A. Melnitchuk, rector of the Ukrainian Agricultural Academy, and his wife, Toriena, are visiting Pennsylvania this week to foster collaboration with Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

After the Melnitchuks depart, six young scientists from Ukraine will spend 10 weeks working with Penn State faculty in research areas such as plant tissue culture, animal and poultry production, and private enterprise economics.

Second only to Russia among the former Soviet republics in agricultural production, Ukraine is poised to lead the Commonwealth of Independent States agriculturally.

"Ukraine is in the process of transforming its agricultural system, and we can learn from Penn State's expertise in many fields," Melnitchuk said. "It's very beneficial for our young professors to study with Penn State faculty, and we hope to offer them new insights and knowledge."

Known as "the breadbasket of Eastern Europe," Ukraine is a large country with abundant resources, including a favorable climate, adequate rainfall, and rich soils. Commodities produced there include wheat, corn, triticale, sugar beets, beans, apples, grapes, cherries, and plums. Animal agriculture includes dairy, swine, beef, poultry, and sheep production.

On just 2.7 percent of land in the former Soviet Union, Ukraine's farmers produced more than 20 percent of the total agricultural supply.

"Agriculture undoubtedly will be one of the primary forces moving Ukraine beyond its current economics crisis," Melnitchuk said.

But Ukraine's agricultural sector faces several challenges. "Between 30 and 50 percent of crop yields go to waste because we lack adequate food processing, preservation, and distribution systems," Melnitchuk said. "We also need to develop better methods of protecting crops from pests."

Many tractors and other pieces of agricultural equipment used in Ukraine were made in other former Soviet republics, posing another challenge. "It's often difficult to repair machinery that was made outside Ukraine," Melnitchuk said.

"Poor economic conditions and social unrest in neighboring republics have made it difficult to get many replacement parts. We'd like to develop our agricultural engineering capabilities and manufacture and repair more of own equipment."

The Melnitchuk's visit follows a trip to Ukraine made in April by Dr. Lamartine Hood, dean of Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences, and Dr. J. Dean Jansma, associate dean for international programs in the college.

"During our visit to Ukraine, we signed an agreement with Dr. Melnitchuk that paved the way for exchange of faculty members," said Hood. "The first Ukrainian scientists are visiting Penn State this summer, and we would like to send faculty to Ukraine next year. Both institutions have much to gain from cooperation.

Dr. Dmitry A. Melnitchuk, right, rector of the Ukrainian Agricultural Academy, and his wife, Toriena, visited Pennsylvania to foster collaboration with Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences. While on the Penn State campus, they met with Dr. J. Dean Jansma, assocaite dean for international programs in the college.

A Centre for Ukrainian Agriculture recently was established at Penn State. The family of Alex and Helen Woskob, who emigrated from Ukraine after World War II, donated $100,000 as seed money for the cooperative program between Penn State and the Ukrainian Agricultural Academy. The centre provides a framework for collaboration and faculty exchanges that benefit both institutions.

Located on the outskirts of Kiev, the academy has more than 70 professors and 600 assistant professors and candidate degree holders. About 14,000 students are enrolled on a campus that includes 13 major buildings, three research stations, an agronomy farm, and access to 3,500 hectares of state farmland for research trials. About 18,000 hectares of forestland are available for production, processing, and storage experiments.

"Faculty and staff at both institutions share many professional interests," said Jansma. "There's so much we can learn much from each other. For instance, many of the cereals and grasses grown in the U.S. originated in the old Soviet Union, so plant breeders will be able to study how our varieties differ from the originals. At the same time, we can give their faculty an understanding of the scientific techniques used at Penn State."

Scientists in the Academy also are looking forward to collaborations and exchanges.

Seed Co. Holds Field Day

LANDISVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Hoffman Seeds, Inc., recently sponsored a wheat field day at the Jim Kettering farm in Manheim. Co-sponsors included the Ciba-Geigy ag division and Gustafson, Inc., which produces Baytan seed treatment.

Thirty wheat varieties were included in the test plots, including public and competitive brands. Varieties were planted at varied populations. Some varieties were not treated, while others were treated with Bayton or Vitavax 200.

The event was attended by 80 growers from eastern Pennsylvania. Attendees were able to view lodging, powdery mildew, rust, leaf spot, and other diseases common to wheat. Representatives from all three sponsor companies were on hand to answer questions.

Plots will eventually be rated on emergence, maturity, yield, lodging, plant height, head length, test weight, and disease resistance. Treatment comparisons will also be evaluated.

For more information, contact Hoffman Seeds, (800) 776-7929.

Grad Joins White Oak

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Bob Mikesell recently joined the swine division of White Oak Mills as production supervisor of finishing.

Responsible for the majority of the contract finishing facilities, Mikesell monitors quality control and provides technical assistance with production problems. In addition, he is responsible for selection and quality control of the Northern ProGenetics growout facilities, which specialize in developing top quality breeding stock.

Mikesell grew up on a small sow farm in Marion Center. He was actively involved with 4-H for 10 years and was the National Swine Sholarship winner in 1983. In addition, he participated in FFA during high school and completed the requirements necessary to earn a Keystone Farmer Degree.

He pursued his career at Penn State University and was graduated in 1988 with a bachelor's degree in animal production. A member of the Block and Bridle Club as well as the Ag Student Council, Mikesell was named "Outstanding Senior in the College of Agriculture."

After graduation, he was employed by Vigortone Agricultural Products of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, where he served as an area sales manager.

Mikesell returned to Penn State to continue his education and recently earned a master's degree in animal science. The recipient of a Carl Akey Scholarship for swine nutrition research, he explored split sex feeding or finishing pigs for master's project.

NFU Says Rise In Futures Contract Limits Would Hurt Farmers

DENVER, Colo. — The Chicago Board of Trade's request to increase limits on the size of positions that can be held in grain and soybean futures could lower farmers' incomes, said the National Farmers Union.

Farmers Union provided comments to the Commodity Futures Trading Commission as the CFTC deliberated the application to double or even triple the limits for deferred contracts.

"To allow this dramatic increase in limits to occur would be to allow single companies or individuals or small groups to have a significant disproportionate influence on the market," said a letter to the CFTC signed by NFU President Leland Swenson and South Dakota Farmers Union President Dallas Tonsager. Tonsager serves on the CFTC's Agricultural Advisory Committee.

NFU received word that the CFTC is extending the public comment period for the changes by 45 days. The comment period was to have ended Friday, June 12.

During that time, NFU officials want CFTC to hold field hearings and conduct a study on the need for the increase and the impact it would have on price discovery and volatility.

In addition, Swenson wrote Members of the House and Senate Agriculture Committees asking that oversight hearings be held so the impact of the changes can be fully explored and interested parties can provide input into the decision.

NFU points out that commodity futures have become so dominated by nonfarmer investors that the markets no longer serve producers who depend on them for price discovery. "For example, in 1990 there were approximately 8 billion bushels of corn produced with as much as one half that amount consumed by livestock, and yet over 55 billion bushels were traded on the exchanges," wrote Swenson and Tonsager.

NFU believes that expanding the limits will make the markets more volatile, increase the influence of the nonfarm sector on farm products, further frustrate farmers who don't trust the exchanges, and allow more concentration of economic power.

"Raising the contract limits will make farmers insignificant players in a market system designed to serve them," said Swenson. "And it raises the potential for more market manipulation."

The farm leaders acknowledged a Stanford University study indicating that four features buyers had sixty-two percent of the open interest in corn features halfway through delivery periods in 1982 through 1989. "Clearly, increasing the limits would allow even greater control," they wrote.

Caernarvon Mills Farm Joins Angus Association

ST. JOSEPH, Mo.— Caernarvon Mills Farm, Pool Forge, is a new member of the American Angus Association, reported Dick Spader, executive vice president of the national organization.

The American Angus Association, with more than 24,000 active adult and junior members, is the largest beef cattle registry association in the world. Its computerized records include detailed information on nearly 11 million registered Angus.

The Association records ancestral information and keeps records of production on individual animals for its members.

Goodyear Gets Rid Of Bumps

Leo Dairy's 'Milk-Jugging' Prospers

BETH MILLER
Franklin/Adams Co.
Correspondent

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — Leonard Leo isn't bragging when he says he sells the freshest milk around.

He can prove it by pointing to the pipeline that runs from the back of Leo's Dairy Market at 1442 Holly Pike to the barn atop a nearby hill.

There is where you will find the 200 grade and registered Holsteins that make up the heart of this unusual operation just south of Carlisle.

"Our milk comes from the green grass up on top of the hill, through the cows and right down to the store," said Leo, a vigorous farming veteran of 66. "You can't get any closer to the source than that."

Leo founded his dairy/grocery operation - one of only 20 such "milk-jugging" businesses in Pennsylvania - after buying the former Allen Dairies property 11 years ago.

Even then, he was no stranger to the direct cow-to-customer business. He has been in that business for 50 years, dating from 1929 when his father bought Sunnyhill Farms in Dauphin County.

His family established a dairy store there, which Leo and his brother, Albert, ran until their retirement in 1980. Leo's retirement didn't last long, though, because it seems milk is in his blood.

His "new" operation employs about 20 people, including his son, Tom, and daughter, Donna Wolf, and offers the kind of service that used to be common before grocery stores became enormous.

The farming side of the business has won recognition as a Dairy of Distinction. In addition to the 220-acre main farm and its milkers, Leo has 200 heifers at various locations and grows hay and corn on about 700 acres.

Leo said his herd is very productive. The average, he said, is 18,681 pounds of milk per cow, per year.

The milk that results from all this effort travels down the pipeline to the back of the store, where it is processed and stacked in the store's dairy case just a few feet from the machine that pumps it into the cartons.

"The milk operation makes up about 50 percent of my business," Leo said. Another 20 percent is derived from the produce he buys from other local farms.

"We try to stick to farm products," he said.

The stores also stocks other items, like magazines and crafts. It has a deli and an ice cream parlor where patrons can eat some of the 30 flavors of ice cream made at the store while they look through a plate glass window to see the milk it came from being processed.

"Business is good," Leo said, and the novelty of the store, located about a mile south of the Interstate 81-Route 34 interchange, draws quite a few customers.

Still, he said, "My firm is feeling the same strains that changing public attitudes have placed on the entire dairy industry.

"People just don't drink enough milk. And we've got a great product here," Leo said. The fact that his milk sells for 38 cents less per gallon than at the average supermarket helps to boost the business, but it can't compensate totally for the drop in consumption, he said.

"There is just not enough people drinking milk in this area or any other area to support a store like this solely on retail," he said.

Faced with that dilemma, Leo is expanding his horizons by getting a milk dealer's license so he can sell milk to other processors.

"But don't fear," he said, "Leo's Dairy Store will never lose that family touch."

Leonard Leo and Dave Myers, processing manager at Leo's Dairy Store, take cartons off the line.

Leonard Leo displays the products that are the backbone of his business.

Duane L. Stevenson, Jr.
Multicounty Farm
Management Agent

The youth are out of school for the summer and are looking for work to make some extra money.

Do you know that there are explicit child labor laws still in force today and these laws also apply to farms?

This article is going to address some of the basic law requirements.

Who Must Comply?

The Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) sets wage, hour, and employment standards that affect most workers in the U.S., including young people.

The standards affecting young workers vary for different age groups and for farm and nonfarm work.

The following information is adapted from the U.S. Department of Labor, Wage-Hour Publication 1236.

Restrictions For Farm Work

At any age, a child may work any farm job on a farm that their parents own or operate. The Pennsylvania child labor law exempts children of any age from regulations when children work on their parent's farm.

No minor child under 14 years of age may be employed on a farm by a person other than the farm, such as a custom operator.

If an employee is 16 years old or older, he or she may work at any time in any farm job. Children under the age of 16 may be employed on a farm by a person other than a farmer in the activities of hatching, raising, or harvesting poultry. Such youth may be permitted to work until 10 p.m., provided they are not employed in an occupation that is declared hazardous by the U.S. Secretary of Labor.

If the employee is 14 or 15 years old, the worker may work outside of school hours in any farm job except those designated as hazardous agricultural occupations. The following item summary was adapted from the official list of hazardous agricultural occupations, found in Title 29, Code of Federal Regulation, Section 570.71:

- Operating or having any contact with a tractor of more than 20 PTO h.p. or any of its implements.
- Operating or having any contact with other farm machinery including a corn picker, combine, hay mower, forage harvester, hay baler, feed grinder, forage blower, or auger conveyor.
- Operating power post-hole-digger, post driver, or nonwalking tiller.
- Operating or having any contact with trenching equipment, forklift, or power-driven saws.
- Working in a pen with male breeding stock or animals with newborn young.
- Working with timber with a butt diameter greater than 6 inches.
- Working from a ladder or scaffold above 20 feet in height.
- Driving a bus, truck, or car to transport passengers.
- Working inside of buildings used for storage of fruit, forage, or grain.
- Working inside an upright silo after silage is added or while a top-loading device is running or a horizontal silo while operating a tractor to pack the silage.
- Working in a manure pit.
- Having any contact with agricultural chemicals of Class I Toxicity (Those that use the word "poison" and have "skull and crossbones" warnings).
- Handling or using a blasting agent.
- Having any contact with anhydrous ammonia, including transportation.

Fourteen- or 15-year-olds who have taken specialized training may be able to obtain approval to engage in some of the preceding farm jobs. Check with your local vocational agricultural instructor or 4-H leader for more information.

If the employee is 12 or 13 years old, he or she may work outside school hours in nonhazardous farm jobs with their parent's written consent or may work on a farm where their parents are employed.

If the employee is younger than 12 years old, he or she may work with their parents' written consent and outside school hours in nonhazardous tasks on farms where the employees do not have to be paid the minimum wage.

On farms subject to the minimum wage, local minors 10 and 11 years of age may work for no more than eight weeks between June 1 and October 15 with approval from the Secretary of Labor. This work is restricted only to hand harvesting short season crops outside school hours, under limited and prescribed circumstances by the secretary of labor.

Employment Certificate

In order to employee persons under the age of 18 years in Pennsylvania, an employment certificate must be obtained by the minor person and retained on file by the employer.

These certificates can be obtained at the offices of the local public school district or school principal. This requirement does not apply to children employed on a farm or in domestic service in private homes.

However, a farm employer could require a minor to furnish the certificate for proof of age.

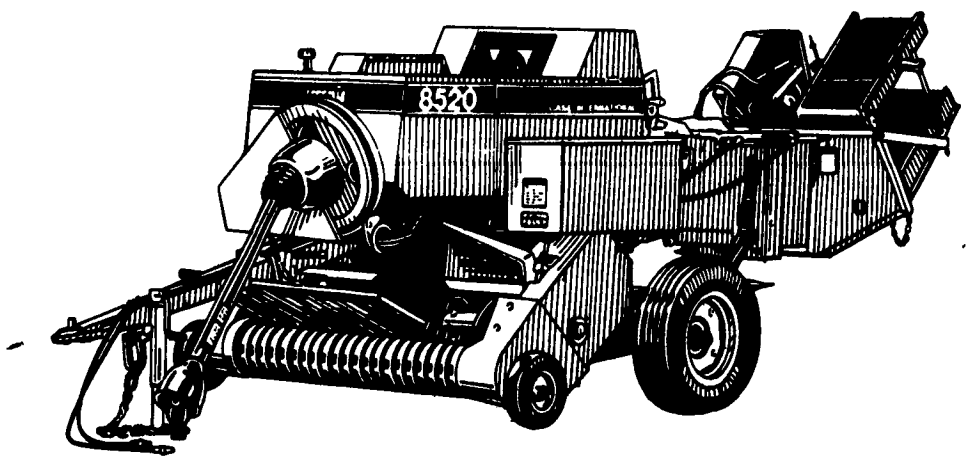
"Her" Choice



If Holsteins could talk, the conversation around the hay manger would be "Case IH Center Line Balers".

Why? More leaves per bale.

Our low profile pickup allows alfalfa hay to retain more dry leaves. We don't lift the windrow as high, saving leaves at the pickup. We also start to compress the hay before it enters the chamber to lock in leaves throughout the flake...leaves don't settle to the bottom and fall out the back of the baler to the degree of older style square balers.

More leaves means more milk, without increased overhead. Many studies show increased production of $1,000 per year over a milking herd of 100 with 2% leaf savings!

National Media Covers Pittsburgh Dairy Day

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Imagine walking on the turf of Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium for the first time, exciting but also unnerving. That's exactly the reaction of "Twinkle," a 2-year-old Holstein cow, from the Ron Rankin Farm, in Burgettstown, who tramped onto the stadium turf, June 3, to be the center of a Pittsburgh Pirate milking contest.

She barely got to her station before the media and baseball players converged upon her.

The 1992 "Dairy Day in Pittsburgh" had a different twist than previous events held in the city. A milking contest is somewhat usual fare, but inside a stadium?

Well, media representatives really thought that was a spectacular event, with coverage coming from all types of media, including the sports network, ESPN, and the Associated Press, as well as Pittsburgh television stations.

"Dairy Day" was the kick-off for the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program's statewide promotion, "Pennsylvanians Celebrate June Dairy Month."

The event provided a tribute to the state's dairy industry, as Kent Derdivanis, a Pirate broadcaster, explained to the crowd, "June has been celebrated as Dairy Month for 56 years, all in celebration of the industry's generous contribution of dairy foods to society."

Pittsburgh Pirates, Jay Bell and Stan Belinda, were the main competitors in the contest, but many other Pirate players and media cameramen served as sideline coaches and fans.

Belinda, the Pirates relief pitcher, won the contest by a few ounces, as he was able to outsqueeze Bell, a Pirate shortstop and dairy industry spokesperson. Previous farm experience appeared to give Belinda the edge in the contest.

The Pirates won the game that followed the contest, with a 6-5 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers. Belinda's strong arm benefitted the team, too, as he closed the game to get another of many saves. But the game was somewhat secondary to the pre-game spectacle on the field.

Stadium fans were right in on the milking contest action through a video projected onto the stadium monitor. Derdivanis was also on the field to bring the play-by-play action to the crowd.

Prior to the contest, dairy princesses and promoters set up displays outside of the stadium's Gate A. Kids were able to register to win Jay Bell Dairy Growth Charts and visit with costumed cows. Adults were able to stop and spin Mid East UDIA's "Dairy Wheel of Fortune," to learn more about dairy products and the dairy industry.

The statewide celebration continues with festivals in Wilkes-Barre, and Johnstown. An event was held Friday in Lancaster.

Jennifer Dailey, Centre County dairy princess, is host for a dairy knowledge game at a recent dairy day event at Pittsburgh's Three-Rivers Stadium.

Educator Receives Conservation Award

BALTIMORE, Md. — Robert Lauffer, a 15-year environmental agriculture teacher in New Holland, was recently honored with a 1992 Chesapeake Bay Conservation Award for education during a ceremony in Baltimore, Md.

The awards, co-sponsored by the Izaak Walton League of America (ILWA) and the Du Pont Co., have been given annually for the past six years to individuals and organizations who demonstrate their commitment to protecting the Chesapeake Bay.

Agriculture students at Garden Spot High School don't spend a lot of time in the classroom if Lauffer has anything to say about it. Canoe trips, tree plantings and stream restoration projects are just some of the activities he uses to teach students how and why they should help protect the bay and how agriculture can play a part.

"Frankly, we were concerned about always hearing that area farmers were part of the bay pollution problem. The biggest thing we've tried to do is help the students understand how agriculture can be more a part of the solution," Lauffer said. "I think one of my biggest roles is to try to strike a balance. I have a unique opportunity to help students see both sides of the picture. I think that balance is important, something that was missing in the past."

Lauffer's classes and FFA members work on projects with landowners, representatives for the state Game Commission and Fish Commission, local sporting clubs, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and local, county and state conservation organizations.

"These activities give them an opportunity to ask questions and obtain more information about natural resource professions," he said.

This hand-ons approach is the key to environmental education, according to Lauffer. "The most important thing is to make it real," he said. "Have students involved all the way through the process. They learn that you don't accomplish things overnight - you have to look at the long-term benefits. I try to make them involved in planning, goal-setting and evaluation. They really feel a part of it, and they are a part of it."

As president of the Pennsylvania Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association, Lauffer also spurs other teachers to get out in the field and to incorporate bay studies into their curricula. Graduate students and 25-year teaching veterans alike have participated in his field trips to the bay and bay tributaries. The outings are coordinated through Pennsylvania State University, where Lauffer is doing graduate work.

Robert Lauffer, environmental agriscience instructor at Garden Spot High School, shows the conservation award he received recently from the Isaac Walton League in recognition of his efforts to teach youth about agriculture and related environmental concerns. Lauffer is only the second Pennsylvanian to win the award.

The ever-changing nature of the bay's ecosystems is both a benefit and a challenge to Lauffer's teaching goals.

"Because the bay is diverse and changing, you can approach it from different angles," he said, noting that his high school classes have never used a textbook in his 15 years of teaching because information about the bay and environmental agriculture becomes outdated so quickly.

Instead, teaching materials include publications from federal and state agencies and conservation organizations, and students are encouraged to look for additional information from sources such as newspaper articles and television news reports.

Lauffer said he believes the bay's future will be bright in the hands of coming generations. "The awareness of students now is just incredible compared to 15 years ago," he said. "There's a much more heightened global perspective."

With several of his former students now teaching environmental subjects in the Eastern Lancaster County school district, working at the Pennsylvania Department of Agricultre, and with 40 to 50 percent going on to pursue some form of higher education after graduation, Lauffer said he finds a great deal of satisfaction in his work.

And although on sabbaticial until July 1, he is eager to return to teaching. His reason is simple: "I enjoy expanding their horizons."

A Satisfied Customer...

JOHN R. RODGERS, of Belleville had three styles of fencing installed totaling a mile on his farm. John offers these comments. "I looked at others fencers and determined that Beaver Fence Systems had the people that could do a quality job and a quality fence to keep the cattle where I want them. The flexibility of the fence gives me full utilization of the land with maximum efficiency. The job was completed in two days including a barnyard fence, plus 6 and 4 wire pasture fencing."

BREWEX - For Use In Dairy Feeds

BREWEX is used extensively in complete dairy formulations to contribute utilizable energy. It is a price/performance value when used in dry feeds, liquid feeds and on-farm mixes.

MIX WITH DRY FEEDS: BREWEX is found in commercial pelleted rations for dairy, hogs and poultry as an energy source to replace corn. BREWEX replaces corn on a pound for pound dry basis and provides for improved pellet durability, reduced mineral segregation, dust control and improved palatability in dairy rations.

ON-FARM MIXING

A commercial Jersey dairy farm, having over ten years of experience in feeding BREWEX to partially replace corn finds that

- BREWEX replaced 5% to 10% corn/day
- BREWEX improves butterfat about 0.1%
- BREWEX mixed with forage reduces mortality due to displaced abomasum
- BREWEX helps cattle to stay on feeds

INVITATION FOR BIDS

The Snyder County Conservation District is requesting bids for the construction of two ag-waste storage structures. Both of which are to be funded in part by the Chesapeake Bay Program. Construction of these projects is expected to begin during August 1992. The sites are located in Jackson and Franklin townships of Snyder County. A joint site showing will be conducted on both farms beginning at 10:00 AM on July 2, 1992.

Prospective contractors will receive bid packages which contain Instructions to Bidders, a sample contract form, the plans and specifications for the projects and bid forms.

Small and minority businesses and women's business enterprises are encouraged to respond to this invitation for bids.

Strict adherence to the sealed bidding procedures must be met. Any lack of conformance will result in removal of your bid from this solicitation and possibly affect your right to participate in future bids conducted by the Chesapeake Bay Program.

Sealed bids will be accepted until the public bid opening at 1:00 PM on July 24, 1992.

To obtain a bid package for one or both projects, contact the Snyder County Conservation District at:

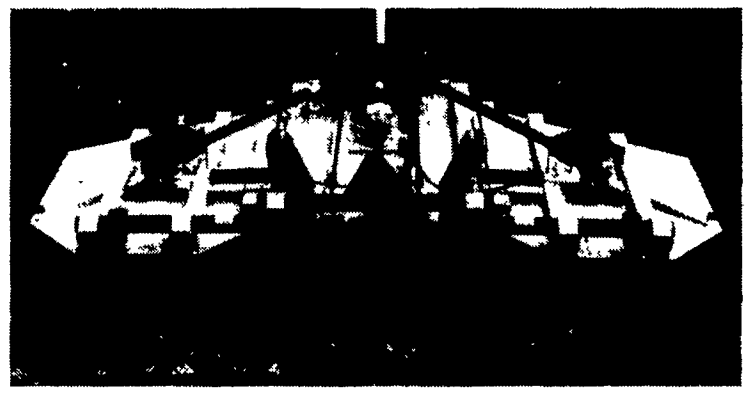
LAND PRIDE

15' ROTARY CUTTER



Land Pride 15' Rotary Cutter offers rugged dependability

Starting with a 10-gauge deck for the center section and wings, we've added effective reinforcement channels to each section for superior strength. With a mowing height ranging from 2" to 14", it can also handle material up to two inches thick. With two self-leveling rods from front to rear, mowing height can easily be maintained, as well as deck-flexing being held to a minimum.

By Prolonging The Life Of Your Engine Transmission Etc

IXL
Anti-Friction Metal Conditioner

Anti-friction Metal Conditioner
Science brings a new dimension to Anti-Friction

An oil additive metal conditioner product ahead of its time, IXL gives protection far superior to just oil or lubricants. By blending IXL, to your oil, you can give tons of your equipment priceless protection. For pennies per ounce, IXL saves you money on Maintenance Costs, Fuel, Etc. IXL products are designed to be used in gas & diesel engines (new and used), Hydrostatic, manual, and automatic transmissions, compressors, gear boxes, hydraulics, turbos, pumps, bearings (all types) and much more. The results of using IXL are: minimum metal wear, giving maximum engine and machine life; IXL also helps to maintain and recondition seals and gaskets keeping these items pliable, firm and flexible, which will help prevent leaks. IXL is NOT a lubricant fortifier, such as graphite, moly or PTFE. IXL reduces heat, friction and wear without changing tolerances. Reducing friction will release energy previously expended to overcome ordinary mechanical resistance. This energy is now available as a positive force, working to increase power, performance and fuel savings. IXL is a metal conditioner which treats the metals 3 to 5 microns deep, not the oil. IXL is biodegradable, non-toxic. IXL is one of the highest quality products on the market today. 100% SATISFACTION GUARANTEED OR YOUR MONEY BACK.

When Buying A NEW COMBINE

DON'T OVERLOOK THE CASE IH AXIAL FLOW ADVANTAGE

the single rotor

With the SINGLE AXIAL FLOW ROTOR you get:

1) INCREASED PRODUCTION by the ability to start combining earlier in the day, and to keep combining later into the night.
2) BETTER GRAIN QUALITY because the ROTOR'S threshing action is much gentler than a conventional combine's cylinder.
3) LESS MAINTENANCE because there is NO strawwalker system to repair.

DON'T OVERLOOK THE HOOBER SERVICE ADVANTAGE

HOOBER'S experienced service people

With HOOBER's experienced SERVICE PEOPLE you get:

1) Fulltime Combine mechanics who work on combines year round, not just when you have a problem.
2) PEOPLE WHO CARE about your problems and want to fix them fast. so that you can get back to the field.
3) RECONDITIONED COMPONENTS which are not for sale, but are strictly reserved for use by the SERVICE DEPARTMENT to insert in customers machines who have major component failures.

When you're comparing tractors...

ASK ABOUT PROVEN RELIABILITY AND PERFORMANCE

Reliability and performance. Standard features that have made Ford utility tractors the best-selling 32- to 55-PTO-hp tractors among farmers, landscapers and nurserymen.

In this tractor class, you won't find a more reliable engine with more proven performance than in a Ford utility tractor:

- Naturally aspirated 3-cylinder diesels
- More displacement: 192 cu. in. ("3230" and "3430"), 201 cu. in. ("3930" and "4630")
- Proven parent bore design
- Slower engine speeds for greater durability
- Big-tractor pulling power

So when you're comparing tractors, we invite you to test-drive the leader: Ford utility tractors. More of what you need.

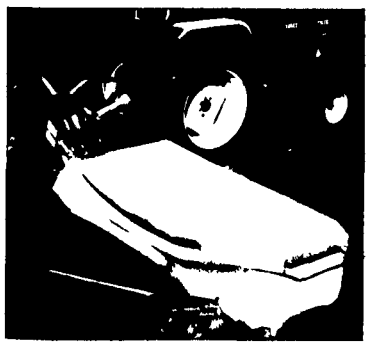
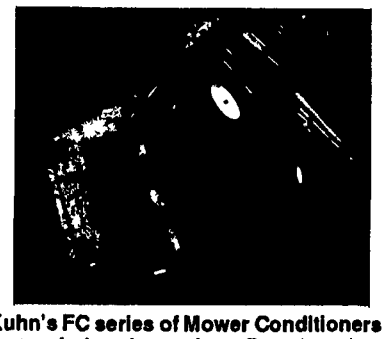
Survival of the fittest.



Farming is tough. Only the best managers survive. The same is true for the companies that build the equipment you use. Kuhn has made a long term commitment to supply you with the best equipment, parts and service money can buy. We didn't become the world's largest disc mower manufacturer by accident. Cheap imitations come ... and go. But you can rely on Kuhn to be there when you need us.

Lots of disc mowers have come and gone, but only one has proven it's got what it takes — Kuhn.

Cut and dried.



Kuhn's FC series of Mower Conditioners — faster cutting, faster drying, better hay. But what else would you expect from the recognized worldwide leader in mower/conditioner technology? Kuhn applied over 160 years of research to build a mower/conditioner that cuts quicker (7-9 m p.h. — 6-7-1/2 acres/hour) and requires less dry down than many other systems on the market And Kuhn's FC series is easy on your crop. With a choice of finger comb or roller conditioning, you can match your crop type for even and gentle conditioning with less nutrient loss.

Available in 6'7" 3-point, and 8'2", 9'10" and 11'6" pull-types, Kuhn's FC series of Mower/Conditioners is the answer to producing a superior crop.

Check out this open and shut case by seeing your Kuhn dealer today!

KUHN Haymaker to the World

A turn for the better.

Kuhn's Gyrorake turns haymaking upside down with the 3-in-1 rake, windrow inverter and tedder. Windrow inversion is an essential process that not only allows hay to dry faster, but also decreases leaf loss as it increases nutrient levels Get the job done fast with a Kuhn Gyrorake It lets you match rotor and ground speeds to your crop conditions for gentle, efficient inverting.

But when it comes to Kuhn Gyrorakes, windrow inversion is just part of the story. The GA series offers gentle, high speed raking without roping. Side delivery enables you to double windrow And if needed, the Gyrorake also is an effective tedder for fluffing and drying hay

Kuhn Gyrorakes — taking a turn for the better so you'll turn out better hay.

Kuhn's 3-Point Bale Wrapper

Protect your valuable hay crop — and profits — with Kuhn's 3-Point Bale Wrapper The Bale Wrapper stretches and then tightly seals plastic wrap all around the bale, preventing water seepage, temperature variation that may lead to mold development. Take advantage of this easy and economical method for producing top quality silage.

- Wraps silage bales 4 1/2 feet in length, weighing up to 2200 lbs
- Film prestretch unit stretches plastic up to 70%
- Bi-directional turntable for quick loading & unloading
- Wrap turntable with large diameter double drive rolls eliminates the need for linking belts
- Free wheeling rear roller protects plastic from damage when bale is ejected from wrap table
- Optional electronic monitor controls film thickness and counts bales
- Towed model also available

3 SILOS AND UNLOADERS

made with fiberglass, the material of the future — and proven in the past —

The Fiberdome chute is designed and engineered to be installed on most types of silos. Its structure allows it to withstand the toughest beating the weather elements or silo unloading systems can possibly dish out.

The chute is constructed in full 7 1/2' sections to minimize the number of joints. Connecting joints have a 2 1/2" tongue and groove design to keep feed in and water out. The large ribbed construction adds stability and strength.

Fiberglass is durable, corrosion-proof, attractive and translucent, allowing sunlight to pass through. Sunlight quickly dries interior moisture in the chute. The hard gleaming gelcote surface will remain for many years.

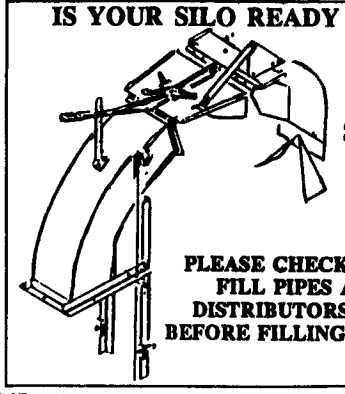
Strengthen And Reseal Your Silo With Shotcrete
STRONGER AND WILL OUT LAST PLASTER

IS YOUR SILO READY TO BE FILLED WITH GRASS SILAGE?



PLEASE CHECK YOUR FILL PIPES AND DISTRIBUTORS NOW BEFORE FILLING SEASON

S&S Silo Service prepares the silo surface by using a 3,000 lb. pressure washer, thus making the silo moist, making a much better surface to bond shotcrete. After shotcreting, S&S always takes away any roughness by applying a steel trowel finish.

The excellent bonding of shotcrete to the silo will keep out moisture and prevent mold from growing on the side of the silo.

WILL SERVICE 3 TO 4 DAYS OR LESS ON MOST JOBS

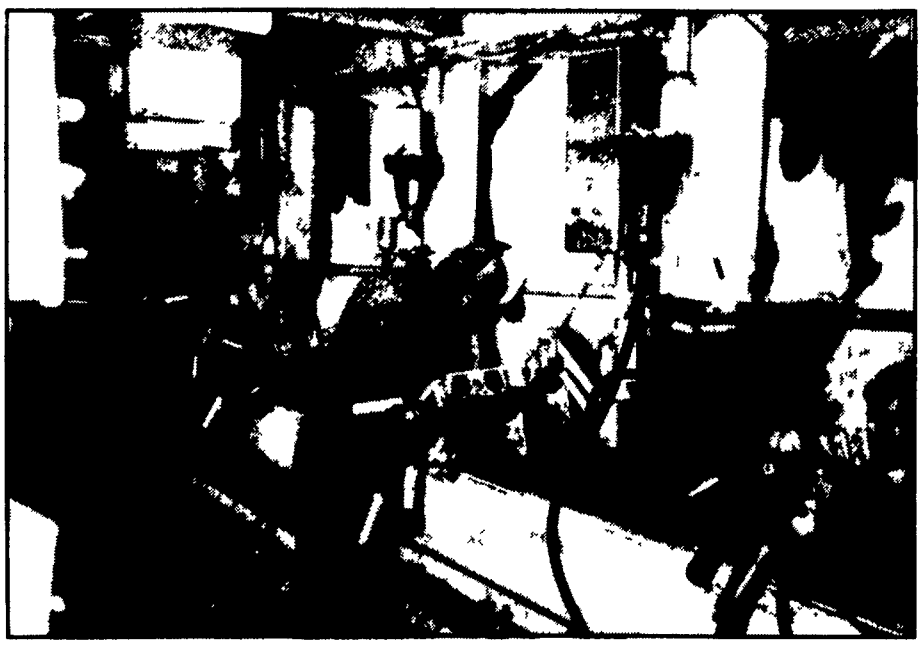
WONDERVIEW FARMS

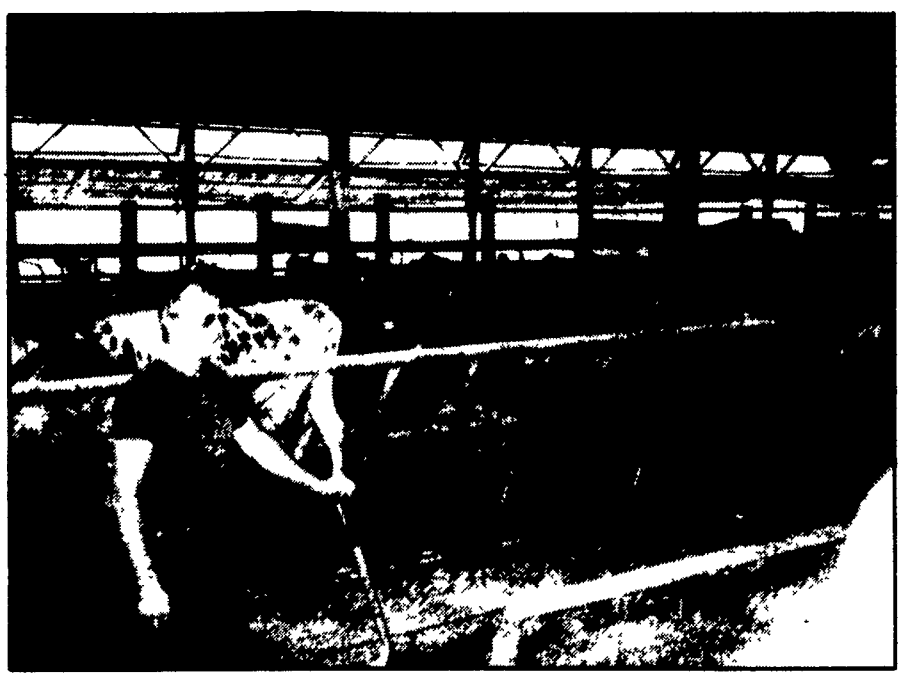


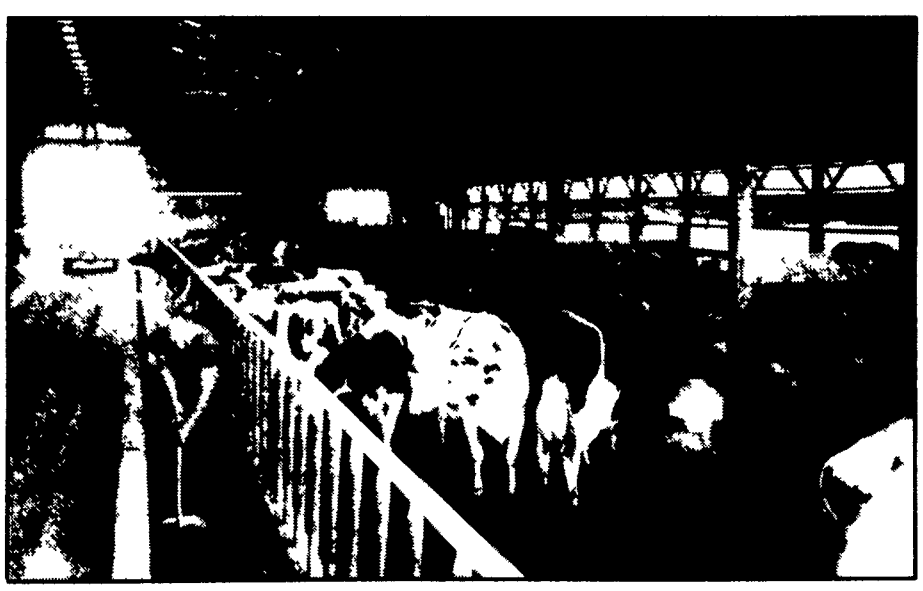
Wendell and Michael Learn own a 250 cow dairy farn in Schuyler County New York. They started feeding Purina Chows in April 1991. They currently feed three groups. The high group and heifer group receive the same TMR ration balanced at 85 pounds of milk using corn silage, haylage and a Purina test cow milking ration. The low group receives corn silage, haylage and Purina milk chow milking ration balanced for 50 pounds of milk. Cows are transferred from the high and heifer groups to the low group based on body condition score, milk yield and dim.

DHIA INFORMATION:

DATE	RHA MILK	RHA FAT	RHA PROTEIN	DIM	SAMPLE DAY #MILK/COW
5/31/91	23320	824	743	233	67 Lb.
5/30/92	24842	864	781	230	80 Lb.

Herd replacements receive Purina commercial calf starter/grower calf ration until 6 months of age, when they are moved to a custom heifer raising operation. These heifers are brought back home 4-6 weeks prior to calving and kept with other "Springing Heifers".





Mike and Wendell appreciate the consistent quality of their Purina rations. Every load looks the same and the cows no longer have a slight drop in production following a delivery of fresh feed.

Purina Mills Thanks Mike And Wendell For Sharing Their Records And Wish Them Success In The Future
